Employers Get Right to Adjust High Scale Pay

Wages Above Minimums to Remain, but Work-Week Is Reduced.

Agreements With Labor Not to Be Affected by Blanket Code.

(Associated Press.)

In an attempt to straighten the path for President Roosevelt's blanket wage and hour agreements for industry, the National Recovery Administration ruled last night that "equitable readjustment" of pay in the upper brackets must be left largely to the discretion of employers.

The interpretation was issued at the end of a day that saw thousands of employers—many of them employing hundreds of men—affixing their signatures to the covenants with the Chief Executive under which they agree to help restore purchasing power by raising wages and shortening hours of work to spread employment.

From one postoffice after another reports came to the Recovery Administration of intense interest in the President's plan and of hundreds or thousands of agreements being signed, dependent upon the size of the city.

Hugh S. Johnson, the administrator and key man of the recovery campaign, was in Detroit, meanwhile, obtaining an agreement among directors of the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce to a code of fair competition for that industry.

Agreement Is Interpreted.

Interpretations of the agreement were issued by Donald R. Richberg, general counsel of the administration, and Thomas S. Hammond, executive director of the emergency reemployment campaign.

They held that no attempt could be made to fix the "equitable readjustments" called for in pay above the minimum wage, this being left to the "sense of justice of the individual employer." However, Richberg said in supplementing the formal statement, the employer was "subject to being corrected if he shows a peculiar sense of justice."

Both Richberg and Hammond said the President's agreement was not intended to disturb contractual agreements between labor and employers, but that unless these contracts were altered so as to conform to the maximum hour provisions the employer could not display the "Blue Eagle" insignia of the N. R. A., Richberg said.

"I can state it as my own personal view that I don't think the purpose of this agreement is to interfere with contracts entered into by the honest exercise of collective bargaining."

Must Abide by Hours.

"It is not contrary to the spirit of the national industrial recovery act to support and maintain the principle of collective bargaining. Nevertheless, under the strict letter of this agreement an employer must comply with the hour limits set. As to wages that is a matter for 'equitable readjustment.'"

Clause seven of the agreement had been the one that many business firms had sought to have clarified. The section provides that there shall be no decrease in wages that are now above the minimum, even though the hours of work are curtailed, and that readjustments shall be made in these higher schedules.

Richberg said there might even be some pay cuts in instances where high salaries are now figured on a basis of long hours and it was necessary to bring the hour scale into conformance with the maximum set by President Roosevelt.

"The National Recovery Administration will, through local agencies, observe carefully the manner in which employers comply with their agreement to make 'equitable readjustments,'" the statement said, "and will take from time to time and announce from Washington such action as may be necessary to correct clear cases of unfairness and to aid conscientious employers in carrying out in good faith the terms of the agreement.

Complies With Agreement.

"When an employer signs an agreement and certifices his compliance and also joins in the submission of a code of fair competition before September 1, 1933, his

American Deported For Mallorca Slur

Madrid, July 28 (AP).—United States Ambassador Claude C. Bowers was informed today that Theodore Pratt, an American, had been ordered deported from Palma, Mallorca, as an undesirable resident.

The action was based on an article written by Pratt for the American Mercury, in which he criticized Mallorca and its people. The ambassador did not protest the deportation.

Mr. Bowers also received information that the defense in the case of five Americans charged with assault on a Mallorcan civil guard has five days in which to complete its preparation. Thereafter the prosecution will have 40 days to prepare the charges.

Unions Appeal To President In Movie Strike

Wire to Roosevelt Protest Display of NIRA Sign by Companies.

Hollywood, July 28 (AP).—A direct appeal for Government action in the strike of 5,000 workers in Hollywood's major motion picture studios was made today to President Roosevelt by leaders of the five affected unions.

Telegrams protesting against the possession or display of NIRA emblems by the motion picture companies involved in the strike or by theaters affiliated with them or using their product were dispatched to the President and Gen. Hugh S. Johnson, national recovery act administrator.

The appeal was made after union leaders accepted the offer of the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences, organization of actors, directors and writers, to act as mediator in the walkout called two weeks ago by sound technicians at the Columbia Studios. Allied trades joined in a sympathetic strike.

Representatives of the producers, notified the unions had accepted the academy offer, said they had not been notified officially and declined to comment.

Richard J. Green, representative of the striking International Alliance of Theatrical Stage Employees, said the appeal to the President also followed the refusal of producers to arbitrate. Union workers offered to return to work under existing conditions last Wednesday night, but Pat Casey, producers' representative, said studio officials rejected any offer of arbitration.

Murray on Secret Trip From State

Oklahoma City, July 28 (AP).—Gov. William H. Murray, slipped out of Oklahoma for parts unknown tonight, leaving the helm of the ship of state to Lieut. Gov. Robert Burns, whose ability as a pilot "Alfalfa Bill" loudly questions.

This circumstance, which avowedly has kept the governor home since his trip to Chicago last June as a candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination, caused speculation upon the importance of the governor's secret mission.

Claude Weaver, the governor's secretary, notified Burns tonight the governor "would be out of the State about midnight and would be gone for several days."

Political guessers placed the governor en route to Washington to confer upon administration of Federal relief funds in Oklahoma.

Kansas Repeal Vote Session Is Called

Topeka, Kans., July 28 (AP).—Gov. Alf M. Landon today announced that the Kansas Legislature will be called in special session in September to set up machinery for a vote on repeal of the eighteenth amendment and to clarify the legal status of 3.2 beer.

The regular session last winter defeated a bill to provide for a vote on repeal.

Gov. Landon said the recent ruling of the State Supreme Court that the question of whether 3.2 per cent beer is intoxicating is one for decision by the trial judge or jury "has left the fixing of alcoholic content in beverages as an imperative legislative duty."

Beer is being sold openly in many cities of the pioneer prohibition State, and there have been numerous jury acquittals, although convictions have been returned in some communities.

Arizona Repeal Ballot Injunction Dissolved

Phoenix, Ariz., July 28 (AP).—Enabling officials to proceed with preparations for Arizona's election August 8 on the eighteenth amendment, Superior Judge Marlin T. Phelps today dissolved a temporary restraining order directed against the election.

The court's order does not interfere, however, with a hearing Monday when a petition for a permanent injunction will be considered. The temporary restraining order had been granted to dry leaders. The motion for dismissal was entered by the State attorney general, who contended the court had acted without jurisdiction.

Chinese Killing Feared Start of New Tong War

New York, July 28 (AP).—Ging Wing, 40-year-old member of the On Leong Tong, was shot to death in a hallway in Chinatown tonight in what police think may be a revival of the ancient feud between his people and the Hip Sing Tong.

Lee Bow, 46, who police say belongs to the Hip Sing Tong, but who denies the identification, was taken into custody as he ran from the scene of the shooting.

Career Men Win in Battle On Patronage

Charles S. Wilson Slated for Minister's Post in Jugoslavia.

Phillips Fights Farley Over Filling of Chilean Ambassadorship.

The Career Service, pride of the State Department, has scored a victory in the running fight to prevent the filling of certain foreign diplomatic posts with patronage appointees.

The victory, it was learned last night, lies in the appointment of Charles S. Wilson, career diplomat, as Minister to Jugoslavia, which is scheduled to be announced soon after Secretary of State Hull returns to Washington.

State Department officials recently carried to President Roosevelt their difficulties arising from the use of the Diplomatic Corps as a fruitful field for patronage dispensing.

Lose First Skirmish.

Acting Secretary of State William Phillips, who carried the matter to the White House, lost out in the first scrap when Alvin W. Owsley, of Texas, former head of the American Legion, was named as Minister to Roumania, a post which had been occupied by Wilson.

Defeat in that instance is said to have intensified the careerists' determination to prevent deserving Democrats from displacing them.

The vacancy in Belgrade offered another plum to the political job seekers and there were many candidates for the post. Mrs. Julia Woodruff Wheelock was believed to have the best chance of getting the ministership and thus achieve the distinction of being the second diplomatiste in the American foreign service. Farley supported the Wheelock nomination, but again Acting Secretary Phillips entered the lists on behalf of the career element and succeeded in salvaging the Jugoslavian post for a career man.

However, the real struggle between Farley and Phillips revolves around the appointment of a successor to Ambassador Culbertson in Chile. Farley's candidate is Sproule Braden, of New York, son of the founder of the Braden Copper Co., which formerly had extensive holding throughout Chile. In addition to Braden's other qualifications, he has married a Chilean woman of great beauty and family distinction, and they have a large family. He has liquidated all his holdings in copper, although it has been asserted he was paid off by the Kennecott Copper Co. in shares of stock and he still retains some of these holdings.

Opposed By Phillips.

Acting Secretary Phillips is vigorously opposed to the Braden nomination and is pointing the present American Minister to Venezuela, George T. Summerlin, for the post in Santiago. Summerlin, like the present Assistant Secretary of State for Latin America, Jefferson Cafferey, comes from Louisiana. He was appointed to the post in Caracas on September 11, 1929, and has held several important career posts since being graduated from West Point.

He has spent most of his service in Latin America and knows Chile very well, having been appointed secretary of legation and subsequently of embassy there in 1915.

The administration of President Alessandri has failed to bring the country out of the depression with the same rate of improvement as in other Latin American countries. The necessity for having in Santiago a trained and experienced diplomat in view of possible political developments there may induce the President to select the career man, or some one not yet known.

President Gives First Cotton Check

The first check presented to a cotton grower for reducing his crop was given personally to a Texas farmer yesterday by President Roosevelt.

The check for $517 went to William E. Morris, of Nueces County. The President, in making the presentation, congratulated Mr. Morris on his voluntary action in plowing under 47 acres of cotton land. He also commended the Texas brand of cotton.

The check was only partial payment for the reduction of acreage. Mr. Morris also took an option on 23½ bales of Government cotton at 6 cents a pound. Mr. Morris was brought to Washington by Representative Richard M. Kleberg, of Corpus Christi, Tex., who was present when the check was handed over by the President. Others there were Secretary of Agriculture Wallace, C. A. Cobb, head of the cotton administration; Senator Eliason D. Smith and Representative Marvin Jones.

Mattern at Winnipeg; Hops to Toronto Today

Winnipeg, Man., July 28 (AP).—James Mattern, en route to New York on his interrupted world solo flight, landed here at 6:45 p. m. central standard time tonight from Regina, Saskatchewan.

He was accompanied by Pilot "Pat" Reid. They planned to take off at dawn for Toronto.

Hot Words Fly

A. MAGRUDER MacDONALD, who defended his authority as acting coroner yesterday in overruling a question during the Frank Snow inquest.

Coroner Ousts Lawyer After Inquest Battle

Fight Flares When Attorney Assails Official; McAvoy Cited in Killing.

Hot, hurried words resulting in a near altercation between Acting Coroner A. Magruder MacDonald and Attorney Jesse C. Duke, caused a flurry at an inquest yesterday into the fatal shooting of Frank Snow in the Ninth street poolroom July 18. Duke represents Snow's family.

The battle of words was carried on in the coroner's office after the hearing was recessed.

The flurry occurerd after Duke had been overruled while subjecting Policeman Ule Gaile, a witness, to a cross-examination.

The attorney demanded of the coroner what right he had to overrule a question.

"Every right in the world," returned MacDonald. "I am sitting here as coroner. This is my court and I'll conduct it as I see fit."

"It's not your court," shouted Duke, "and I'll ask the questions I want to. I'm an attorney and I have the right to."

Ordered Out of Room.

MacDonald told the lawyer he was there only through courtesy of the court and when Duke denied this the coroner ordered him out of the courtroom.

"Go ahead," yelled Duke, "go ahead and whitewash this case." Then he left the room hurriedly.

Assistant District Attorney Julian Richards and Attorney Charles Ford, who is representing Charles McAvoy, involved in the shooting of Snow, rose and told MacDonald that they realized all attorneys and prosecutors attended a coroner's court only through courtesy.

"I have been conducting inquests for quite a while," said MacDonald in open court, "and this is the first time that any one ever voiced an objection to my methods."

Duke Resumes Battle.

Court was recessed and as MacDonald walked to his private office he encountered Duke.

"I've met you before," said the attorney. "It was during the bonus march trouble and the way you handled an inquest then."

The coroner moved toward the attorney, face flushed, but a police sergeant stepped between them.

The exchanges between the lawyer and MacDonald concluded the taking of testimony and within a few minutes the jury returned a verdict that Snow died of a gunshot wound in the abdomen, inflicted by McAvoy, who also was shot during the poolroom fight and now is recovering in a hospital.

Attached to the verdict was a scathing criticism of Attorney Duke's behavior and praise for the fashion in which MacDonald handled the matter. The jury recommended that a copy of their report be sent "to proper authorities for such action as is necessary."

The principal testimony was given by Policeman Gaile, who stated he saw Snow and McAvoy fighting over a gun in the poolroom. The policeman said he fired at McAvoy's gun-hand when a bullet narrowly missed him.

Police Heads Form World Force to War On Criminals

Chiefs of America and Europe Organize at Chicago.

Illinois Maps Drive Against Kidnapers

Focal Alarm Agency to Spur Mobilization, Horner's Idea.

Chicago, July 28 (AP).—Police of several nations organized tonight the International World Police to chase the criminal from his haunts over the globe.

The new international organization was formed at a meeting of American, Canadian and European police officials attending conferences sponsored by Barron Collier, special deputy police commissioner of New York, the International Police Conference, and the International Association of Chiefs of Police.

Two headquarters will be established, one probably at Washington and the other at either Geneva or Vienna.

The purpose of the new organization is "to expedite police information pertaining to international crime and international criminals."

Springfield, Ill., July 28 (AP).—The State of Illinois undertook today the organization of a secret, highly cooperative agency to stamp out kidnaping through the united efforts of Federal, State and city authorities.

Proposed by Gov. Henry Horner, the nucleus of the alliance will be a central clearing house for information about criminals and crime.

Under the plan, the Illinois State highway police would cooperate with local authorities in running down criminals. The United States Attorney General's office would assist in prosecution. The three groups would be connected by a private system of communication.

United Action Demanded.

Setting up of a central alarm system for quick mobilization of law-enforcing officials also was considered by Horner and a group of sheriffs, police chiefs, prosecuting attorneys and representatives of the Federal Government in the Illinois State capital here.

"Extortion gangs operating in Illinois must be crushed," the governor told the assembled officials. "To end their reign of terror we shall use every ounce of power, every arm of the State, every weapon we command.

"United action by all heads of law enforcement bodies is demanded by the seriousness of the situation. We believe citizens will back the efforts of all these police efforts.

"Unless these gangs of extortionists are blasted out of existence the job will be all the harder in the future. We must give them no rest or time to further entrench themselves as mobs of Government-defying criminals."

(Associated Press.)

With the victims of two sensational kidnapings still missing, one other abduction was reported.

Two men, Charles F. Urschel, Oklahoma City oil millionaire, and John J. O'Connell, jr., of Albany, N. Y., apparently were still in the hands of their abductors.

The wealthy and politically powerful relatives and friends of the New York National Guardsman kidnaped from near his home 22 days ago virtually had exhausted their efforts to trace him.

The dawn of the seventh day that Urschel had been held captive brought only the oft-repeated phrase, "We have heard nothing," from relatives.

In San Antonio, Tex., Adolph Calle, a parking lot operator, reported to police he was released early yesterday by kidnapers who held him captive and forced him to sign three blank checks. Calle said he believed he had been the victim of a case of mistaken identity.

"Umlauffluegel Flugzeug"

That's What Famous German Aviation Designer Calls His Unique New Airplane He Says Will Fly Forward and Backward and Do Other Tricks.

Berlin, July 28 (U.P.).—Adolf Rohrback, famous German aviation designer, disclosed tonight some of the secrets of a unique new airplane which he said would fly backward, forward, hover motionless or rise and descend almost vertically.

Rohrback calls the new craft a "umlauffluegel flugzeug." It has no propeller. It has no wings. It resembles a flying reaping machine. Its designer expects it to solve some of modern aviation's most perplexing problems, extending the benefits of the autogiro type.

Locomotion and lifting power are provided by the revolving contraptions which sprout from the fuselage of the plane at the point where other airplanes have wings. These contraptions are six blade-like horizontal fins, three on each side, which revolve in a circle around two axial bars connected with the motor, which is inside the plane.

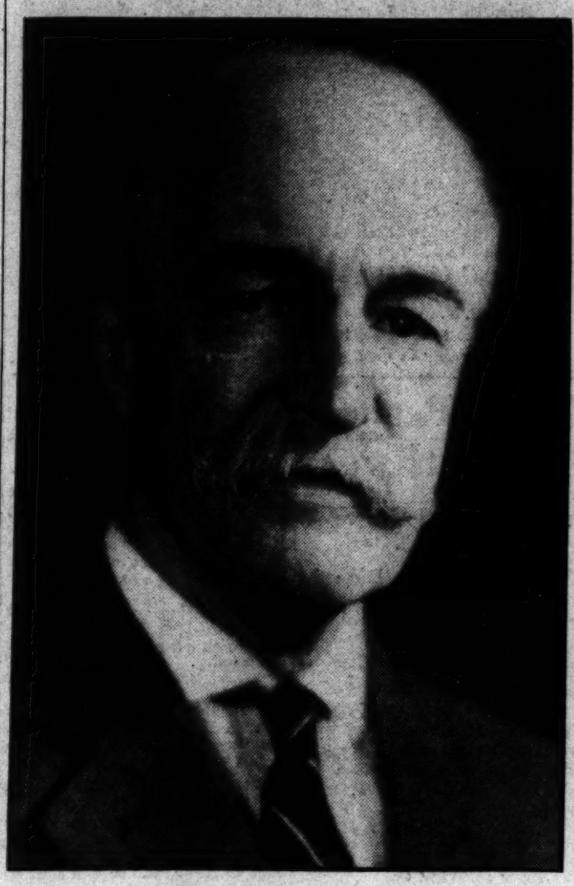
The first plane built on this design is a cabin ship which will carry four to seven persons and do 100 miles an hour.

The direction of flight is changed by reversing the motor, so that backward speed will be only slightly less than forward. Descent and ascent are regulated by the angle of the blades.

"There is no reason why these planes can not fly at 175 to 200 miles an hour," Rohrbach said.

"When my experiments are complete, I expect to manufacture the plane on a commercial basis. I believe it will have a great future. expanding tremendously the possibilities of flying by providing a ship that can land and take off in thickly populated cities."

Martial Law Looming; Pinchot Sends Troops To Mine Strike Sector



Underwood & Underwood.

GOV. GIFFORD PINCHOT, who yesterday threatened martial law in his fight to settle mine strike trouble in Fayette County, Pennsylvania.

Governor Is Defied by Sheriff, Who Checks State Police.

Tear Gas Bombs Used by Officers

Many Hurt and Jailed; Uprisings Studied by Miss Perkins.

Uniontown, Pa. (Saturday), July 29 (AP).—Sheriff Harry E. Hackney early today refused to accede to Gov. Pinchot's demand that he withdraw his deputies from the Fayette County strike area.

The sheriff also scored the governor for calling State police off duty in the county.

Harrisburg, Pa. (Saturday), July 29 (AP).—Gov. Pinchot early today said he had ordered Pennsylvania National Guardsmen to the Fayette county coal mine strike area.

Earlier he threatened to declare martial law in southwestern Pennsylvania coal strike areas if Sheriff Harry E. Hackney continues to refuse to withdraw deputies and allow State police free hands in quelling disorder.

Instead of complying with the governor's request, made last Tuesday as first violence broke out, Sheriff Hackney today forbade the assembly of pickets and threatened to ask Federal intervention if disorders do not cease.

The governor charged Hackney with "deliberately provoking strife and disorder," adding "the United Mine Workers of America stand ready to sign the agreement and help the State police to enforce it."

Would Permit Picketing.

Under the governor's plan, peaceful picketing would be permitted.

Meanwhile, Miss Frances Perkins, Secretary of Labor, said she was keeping in touch with the coal strike from Pittsburgh, where she spent the day investigating steel mill labor problems. She does not plan a visit to the strike area.

A Uniontown miner was beaten by pickets as he tried to enter a mine. One man was shot at Daisytown and another was knocked down at Fairbanks by an automobile speeding men to work in an H. C. Frick Co. mine.

Tear gas bombs hurled by deputy sheriffs dispersed miners barricading a road at the Buffington mine of the Frick Co.

Federal and State government labor representattives are in Fayette County seeking to settle the strike, which has drawn 8,000 men from the mines.

89 Women Arrested.

Eighty-nine women and five men were arrested in strike disturbances at a Philadelphia shirt factory and a neckwear factory. All but 14 were discharged.

Seventy thousand silk workers have been ordered to strike as a protest against all textile codes. It is expected to take effect August 1.

Meanwhile, Reading's hosiery mill operators and striking employees await the arrival of Fred Keightly, Federal Labor Department conciliator, the second to be sent there.

Harrisburg district milk producers continued their attempt to keep dealers from receiving daily milk supplies, but have abandoned picketing and dumping.

Flier Breaks Ankle In 3,000-Foot Fall

Fort Worth, Tex., July 28 (AP). Earl T. Akin, 35-year-old Breckenridge flier, had a parachute, but he couldn't "bail out" when the left wing of his experimental airplane folded up during a loop 3,000 feet in the air today.

Pressure from the folding wing trapped him in the cockpit.

The ship spiraled about 500 feet, then went into a long glide. It landed on both wheels, but nosed over. Akin escaped with a fracture of his left ankle and a skinned nose.

President Leaves For Hyde Park

Roosevelt and Wife Given Cheerful Farewell by Large Crowd.

En Route With President Roosevelt to Hyde Park, N. Y., July 28 (AP).—Cheerful over the progress of his job-making campaign, President Roosevelt traveled by train tonight to his Hyde Park home on the banks of the Hudson River, there to command affairs of State during August.

The President and Mrs. Roosevelt boarded a special train at Washington shortly before midnight and will be home early tomorrow morning for the first time since inauguration day.

Despite the late hour, a host of friends and public officials were at the station to bid good-by to the Chief Executive.

But it was early to bed after Mr Roosevelt reached his special train. A rain had tempered considerably the humid heat of Washington, and as the train pulled northward the weather was reasonably comfortable.

No stops were on the schedule.

Air Mail Pilot Dies In Dive Into River

Kansas City, Mo., July 28 (U.P.). Earl Noe, mail pilot, was killed tonight when his airplane fell into the Missouri River shortly after taking off on the transcontinental Western air route for Los Angeles.

First reports to the airport said Noe was rescued, but doctors found him dead when they arrived at the spot where fishermen had taken him from his wrecked plane.

Pennsylvania Railroad Pays Whole R.F.C. Debt

(Associated Press.)

The Pennsylvania Railroad Co. yesterday paid off all of the money it owed the Reconstruction Finance Corporation.

The company sent the Corporation a check for $6,400,000, of which $5,000,000 completed payment of a loan of $27,500,000 for work of electrification between New York and Washington, and $1,400,000 applied to a work loan made to provide funds for repairing equipment.

The Pennsylvania thus is the first large road to make full repayment to the R. F. C.

Roosevelt Trip Delays Filling District Jobs

Selections Now Expected to Await His Return to Capital.

By J. Bernard McDonnell.

President Roosevelt departed the National Capital last night leaving the names of the new District Commissioners still in the stewing local political pot.

Decision of the Chief Executive not to name the Commissioners before he departed for Hyde Park, N. Y., was commonly interpreted as meaning he would take no action in the matter until he returns from his vacation in about a fortnight.

Selection of the Commissioners has been the subject of several conferences between the President, Postmaster General James A. Farley and others in the last few days.

Extraordinary pressure of nationally important business has been advanced as the reason for the President's delay. An undercover battle for weeks over the commissionerships is believed by those familiar with the situation to have been more directly responsible.

50 Seeking Jobs.

More than 50 names have been presented for consideration. Several have emerged from the melee with strong backing and are said to be under serious consideration by the President.

Mr. Roosevelt is reported not to be satisfied with some of those who are said to have strongest backing. Apparently he is trying to bring about a situation which will enable him to respect his own judgment as well as to please friends and supporters and not unduly offend others.

Ernest G. Walker, former newspaperman, now in the real estate business, is regarded as an outstanding candidate. He is treasurer of the local campaign for funds to wipe out the national committee's campaign debt.

May Name Incumbent.

Melvin C. Hazen, District surveyor, is another who has strong support. Malcolm S. McConihe was advanced by the local Democratic leaders, John F. Costello, national committeeman, and John B. Colpoys, chairman of the Democratic central committee.

The District building yesterday buzzed with a report that Dr. Luther H. Reichelderfer, incumbent, will be reappointed. District officials apparently believe that selection of Mr. Hazen is certain.

Whoever are named are expected to be told not to expect to serve a three-year term because the President contemplates a reorganization of the municipal government as soon as Congress reconvenes in January and enacts the required legislation. The President is said to favor a city manager in place of the existing board of three Commissioners.

Lindbergh to Hop For Baffin Land

Copenhagen, Denmark, July 28 (AP).—The master of the supply ship Jellinge, at Godthaab, Greenland, telegraphed Gov. Jensen of Greenland today that Col. Charles A. Lindbergh expected to fly very soon from Godthaab to Baffin Land.

Baffin Land is a large island of British North America lying opposite Greenland on the west. After Australia and Greenland, it is the largest island of the world.

Col. Lindbergh, with Mrs. Lindbergh, is making a northern tour by airplane to map possible flying routes. He has been at Godthaab several days.

Shorter Week In Navy Yards Appears Likely

Hours and Pay May Follow Private Code Lines, Roosevelt Says.

By Robert C. Albright.

Hours of work and rates of pay at the Washington Navy Yard and in yards and arsenals throughout the country will be brought into line with labor provisions of the new shipbuilders' code, if possible under the law.

The President let this be known yesterday, following conferences with Secretary of the Navy Swanson and representatives from the International Association of Machinists.

Mr. Roosevelt was asked specifically whether he is considering "a short work week in the Government service."

Only in Yards, Arsenals.

His response made clear that revision of Government hours downward is being considered only as applied to mechanics employed in navy yards and arsenals.

Statutes governing Federal hours of work and rates of pay are being carefully reviewed, it was indicated. Insofar as it is possible, it will be the policy of the administration to make both hours and pay conform with provisions of the private shipbuilding code just approved, it was stated. The code calls for a 32-hour work week in private yards doing Government work.

Earlier yesterday, Nelson P. Alifas, president of District 44, International Association of Machinists, filed with the President a request not only for shorter navy yard hours, without pay reduction, but an appeal that the Navy's entire ship construction program be placed with navy yards, even if it is necessary to lease some private plants to complete the job.

Repair Funds Asked.

Further, Mr. Roosevelt was asked to grant the Navy's request for $77,000,000 of public works funds to modernize war vessels. This work could be undertaken immediately in the yards and save the jobs of 4,000 employees, mostly skilled artisans, who are scheduled to be discharged before January 1 for lack of work.

While the White House was announcing its short week policy in navy yards and arsenals, the Civil Service Commission yesterday added five more hours to the work week of each of its 402 Washington employees.

"The Washington office of the Civil Service Commission goes immediately on a 44-hour week, for an indefinite period, in place of the usual 39 hours," a statement from the commission read.

Keeping Up With Work.

"Employees are permitted to work the extra five hours at their convenience. The Civil Service Commission is determined to keep its work current and has asked all of its employees to cooperate to that end."

Organized labor's stand on the plan to bring navy yard and arsenal working hours on a parity with the 32-hour week called for in the shipbuilders' code, only on condition that pay not be cut, was clearly stated in Mr. Alifas' letter to the President.

"While it may not be possible under the law for the President to shorten the days of labor in navy yards without reducing the weekly pay, it is believed that your excellency would have the right to shorten the hours of labor per day without reducing the weekly earnings," the letter asserted.

Cites Campaign Cry.

Transfer of all Navy ship construction from private to navy yards would be in line with the President's campaign principle of "taking the profits out of war," the machinist official declared.

"Such a program, involving the exclusive construction of naval vessels at navy yards, would not materially interfere with employment of the present private shipyard employees, inasmuch as the communities in which the private shipyard employees live are within commuting distance of navy yards," he argued.

Virginia Democrats Register 175,000

Nominations in Governor Campaign Are to Be Made Tuesday.

Richmond, Va., July 28 (AP).—Party officials here today estimated that 175,000 Virginia Democrats have paid poll taxes this year and are qualified to vote in Tuesday's primary for nomination of the party's gubernatorial candidate.

It was pointed out that the Virginia Roosevelt vote was 203,978, of which approximately 25,000 were said to have been cast by Republicans voting for the Democratic nominee.

In 1929's' Pollard-Mapp primary contest the vote cast was 138,253, of which Mapp took 29,386; Rosewell Page, 4,557, and Pollard, 104,310.

The total vote for Al Smith in the 1928 general election was 140,146 and for Hoover 164,609.

Miss Rita Burns Wins District Beauty Crown

Miss Rita M. Burns, 19, of 2207 K street northwest, was selected "Miss District of Columbia" in the beauty contest at Chevy Chase Lake last night. Miss Anna Carpenter, 18, of 623 F street northeast, was selected alternate.

Other contestants in the finals of the contest were Doris Rosedale, of 1925 Sixteenth street northwest; Lois Safford, of 1933 Park road northwest, and Falichia Keele, of 2211 Fourth street northeast.

Huge Projects In Northwest Win Approval

President Favors Dam in Columbia River to Open Up Basin.

(Associated Press.)

Huge Government developments in the Northwest were approved yesterday by President Roosevelt in clearing off his desk to turn last night toward his home at Hyde Park, N. Y.

The President gave a quick approving nod to the proposed construction of a dam in the Columbia River at Grand Coulee, Wash., that will mark the beginning of the Columbia Basin Project.

Mr. Roosevelt also approved immediate resumption of work on the nine-foot channel in the upper Mississippi River and development of Casper-Alcove flood control and reclamation project in the North Platte River in Wyoming.

"Cheapest Power In U. S."

The Grand Coulee dam is to be 140 feet high and will cost $63,000,000 of which 70 per cent is to be repaid by the State of Washington.

This development will be for power alone and Senator Dill (Democrat), of Washington, has estimated it would produce "the cheapest power in the United States."

Secretary Ickes, who has charge of the $3,300,000,000 public works program, was one of the last to confer with the President last night. The Secretary has called a special meeting of the board for next Tuesday.

Returns August 10.

The President intends to remain at the family home, in Hyde Park, until about August 10. He will return to Washington at that time to supervise reorganization of the Government, which then goes into effect. He intends to return to Hyde Park later and probably will remain there until after Labor Day.

A special office has been established in nearby Poughkeepsie, N. Y., and some members of the White House staff will be taken there. Marvin H. McIntyre, a secretary to the President, will be in charge of that office.

MexicoSystemHeld Similar to Soviets

Dr. Callcott Says Groups Previously Exploited Aided by Law.

Contending that modern Mexico compares with Soviet Russia in liberality of its government, Dr. Wilfred H. Callcott, of the University of South Carolina, stated yesterday that the Latin-American country has made great social and economic advances during the last decade.

Speaking in the last of a series of five lectures on Mexico, presented before the George Washington University Conference of Hispanic American Affairs, Dr. Callcott described the Mexican constitution of 1917 as "an ultra-illegal instrument of government drawn primarily for the benefit of those groups which hitherto had been regularly exploited."

Dr. Callcott pointed out that Mexicans emphasize the fact that their revolution antedated the Russian revolution by several years and insist that whereas the Russian revolution was the product of a theory or philosophy previously conceived, the Mexican revolution was an economic development, which, as the movement advanced, produced a philosophy of society.

Three Given Month's Delay in Execution

Justice Oscar R. Luhring, in the District Supreme Court, yesterday reset the date for the executions of William Clinton Robinson, Charles Edward Washington and Leonard A. Layton because of pending appeals.

The three were scheduled to be executed next month for the slaying of Mannie Solomon, a taxi driver. The date now set for their execution is September 8.

Roosevelt and Bride Leave for California

Fort Worth, Tex., July 28 (AP).—Mr. and Mrs. Elliott Roosevelt, after spending a quiet four days in Fort Worth at the home of the bride's family, left today by motor for Los Angeles, where the second son of the President says he is not sure he has a job.

During their stay here the young couple received letters, telegrams and flowers from friends all over the country.

"We are terribly happy now," said the bride.

Industrialists Here Pledge Roosevelt Aid

General Hammond Tells Washington Leaders How Plan Works.

Support of the President's emergency reemployment program was pledged by Washington industrial leaders yesterday at a meeting at the Washington Chamber of Commerce.

The pledges came after Gen. Thomas S. Hammond, executive director of the program, described in detail how it will affect the industries and business concerns of the District.

Gen. Hammond explained that the President's reemployment agreement applies to all business firms in the District and that the only exceptions will be for those industries which subscribe to a particular trade code approved by the recovery administration.

Employers who accept the reemployment agreement will be allowed a "reasonable time" to change over to the new wages and hours scale, Gen. Hammond said. The 8-hour day, 40-hour week plan does not mean that an employee shall not work more than eight hours in one day, but that the grand total for the week shall not exceed 40 hours.

In emergency cases, the 40-hour week rule can be overstepped, but all employees affected must be paid at least time and one-third for such extra service, the director emphasized.

The department store division of the Merchants and Manufacturers Association is studying a program. Furniture and women's specialties stores and delivery organization executives began sessions yesterday. Men's clothing, jewelers and restaurant groups will begin sessions Monday.

Wealthy Druggists Receive Threats

Ordered to Put $60,000 Under Loose Plank in Street Car Station.

Kansas City, July 28 (AP).—Police disclosed today that an extortion plot, in which $60,000 was demanded under threat of injury to members of their family, has been directed against Michael and Isaac Katz, wealthy druggists.

In a letter received by the brothers Monday they were directed to place the money under a loose plank in a street car waiting room in North Kansas City by 2:30 p. m. Wednesday. L. A. Johnson, postoffice inspector, and a city detective watched in vain for the would-be extortionists.

The Katz brothers have received numerous extortion threats. Michael Katz was kidnaped several years ago and released on the payment of ransom, reported to have been $100,000.

Turnip Crop Assured On Court House Lawn

Carthage, Mo., July 28 (AP).—Prospects for a bumper crop of turnips for the unemployed of Jasper County appeared good today, when some one discovered that the court house lawn here had been sown with turnip seed.

Officials were trying to find out who is responsible.

Wheat Acreage Slash Reduced By Short Crop

Only Eight Per Cent Cut in 1934 Planting Is Now Likely.

(Copyright, 1933, by United Press.)

Wheat farmers who participate in the Government's crop reduction program probably will be asked to reduce their 1934 acreage only 8 per cent under this year's figure, according to those familiar with the grain program.

In any event the cut is not expected to go over 10 per cent, half the maximum cut which Secretary of Agriculture Wallace previously has said would be necessary to insure success of the farm relief plan. The smaller estimate has resulted from a short crop with subsequent higher prices, which changed situation has forced Federal farm officials to alter their earlier plans accordingly. This compelled Secretary Wallace yesterday to say that the revised percentage of acreage reduction to be asked will be announced within 10 days.

As a result of bad weather, crop estimates July 1 showed that not more than 495,000,000 bushels would be harvested this year. This is 105,000,000 bushels less than the demand for normal domestic requirements.

Had the shortage occurred in a year when there was no surplus bursting the Nation's warehouses, the country would have been facing a famine and forced to rely on foreign production. This realization has made an impression on the farm administrators.

The carryover this year has been estimated at 350,000,000 bushels. Normally it should be not more than 125,000,000 bushels. The difference is what the administration sought to remove, feeling it was the real cause of the depressed price for wheat. Now, however, it is felt that 200,000,000 bushels should constitute a fair carryover. Less than that might force this country to buy abroad in a bad crop year.

Employers to Fix Pay in High Scales

determination of what are 'equitable readjustments' should be accepted, at least prior to September 1, as a prima facie compliance with his agreement."

"Any attempt to define a national standard would be productive of widespread injustice," the statement added.

Reports to the administration yesterday showed a number of large firms accepting the President's agreement. The Department of Commerce representative in San Francisco telegraphed that 2,520 agreements were signed there and in Oakland up to noon, supplementing to 3,680 signed on Thursday.

From St. Louis, T. L. Gaukel, the district manager, reported that 1,033 agreements had been filed up to noon in the State, with one firm of 560 employees, and others of above 100.

Many Report Agreements.

From Chicago came a report of Marshall Field & Co.'s signing; from Richmond, Va., the Larus Tobacco Co.; from Fort Wayne, Ind., the General Electric Co., the International Harvester Co. and others, and from the Missouri State Retail Grocers Association word that more than 200 agreements had been signed by store proprietors.

Flying unexpectedly to Detroit, Gen. Johnson yesterday conferred with directors of the National Automobile Chamber of Commerce and emerged with a proposed code for the industry embodying a 35-hour week and minimum wages of from 40 to 43 cents an hour.

In addition to this code, which will be submitted soon for hearing, agreements from three other groups were presented yesterday. These were for legitimate theaters, Southwestern bituminous coal operators and retail stores.

Representatives of the dramatic and musical comedy stage sought to bring dramatists, chorus girls, musicians, stage hands and others connected with the theater under one general code.

Coal Men Submit Code.

A delegation of coal operators from Missouri, Kansas and Oklahoma submitted an agreement proposing the open shop for labor, and another representation of nonunion operators with fields reaching from central Pennsylvania to Tennessee were completing an agreement. This also contained an open shop clause.

Representatives of six retail dealers' organizations introduced a newly drafted composite code intended to cover all retail stores.

Meanwhile Walter Draper, president of the Street Railway Managers Association, and W. D. Mahon, president of the Amalgamated Street Car Men's Union, arranged for a joint conference of committees representing their industries here on Monday to discuss a code for the street railway industry.

The problem of competing forms of cheap transportation was expected to be one of the major points under discussion.

With the return of Johnson, the Labor Advisory Board expected to put before him reports of strikes on the part of textile workers already under a code, and complaints that employers were discriminating against union workers.

Would Investigate Protests.

Johnson said a few days ago that this would not be tolerated and that protests would be investigated.

The labor question was understood to be one of the underlying causes of his unannounced trip to Detroit. Automobile manufacturers had sought assurance that their traditional open-shop policy would not be interfered with.

The labor question comes up next week when the hearing opens on a code for steel, which incorporates the provision of the law authorizing collective bargaining for labor, but specifically presenting the employee representation plan now used in most steel plants as embodying that principle.

Moffett Quits Standard Oil in NIRA Dispute

Vice President Determined to Accept Recovery Committee Job.

(Associated Press.)

James A. Moffett, vice president of the Standard Oil Co. of New Jersey, yesterday resigned as the outgrowth of a sharp company fight over policy and disagreement over whether he should accept appointment to the Industrial Advisory Committee.

Moffett said last night he would accept a tendered appointment to the advisory committee that aids Gen. Hugh S. Johnson, the National Industrial Recovery Administrator, of which committee Walter C. Teagle, president of the New Jersey Standard, is a member.

Teagle May Quit.

This was interpreted in authoritative sources as indicating that Teagle might resign from the committee. Moffett would not comment on this subject, and Teagle was not immediately available for a statement.

Oil authorities here said that for some time Moffett, Teagle and W. S. Farish, chairman of the Jersey Standard, have been at odds over company business policies, but Moffett was silent on this.

In a brief formal statement, Moffett related the story of his resignation about three hours after it had been announced for him from Farish's room at a hotel. Moffett said:

Firm for President.

"This morning, the board of directors of the Standard Oil Co. of New Jersey accepted my resignation as vice president and a member of the board, this action was the result of my statement made this morning that I would not decline appointment to Gen. Hugh S. Johnson's advisory committee. I consider the offer of appointment to this committee the equivalent of a command.

"I have been a lifelong Democrat, a supporter of the President, and am in accord with the President's program and policies.

"My views as to the policies to be pursued apparently are not in accord with those of the board of the New Jersey company."

Boards to Start Veterans' Reviews

(Associated Press.)

With 90 days to complete their task, the first Federal boards will be set up next week to review the claims of 150,000 veterans for pension payments on ailments presumed to have originated in service.

President Roosevelt, announcing his approval yesterday of regulations creating the boards, sanctioned an order authorizing $50 monthly to Spanish-American War Veterans 50 years or older, who are 50 per cent disabled and in need. He will define need later.

Between 70 and 90 reviewing boards will be established immediately. The first are to be made public Monday.

The boards will determine by October 31, whether the veterans should continue to receive benefits on the presumption that their disabilities resulted from service, or if they should be removed from the rolls.

Beer Flows Freely In Capital of Drys

Antisaloon Founder Seeks Legal Bung to Stop Sale at Headquarters.

Westerville, Ohio, July 28 (AP).—Beer flowed here today in the dry capital of the Nation while prohibitionists hunted a legal bung with which to stop it.

But Charles V. Taylor, holder of the only permit to sell beer, declared he intends to continue despite pleas and threats from the village drys. He got his permit yesterday.

Meanwhile, Dr. Howard K. Russell, founder of the Antisaloon League, which has national headquarters here, along with others of like sympathies, was not idle. They began thumbing dusty records, seeking out ordinances on which to base a court test.

Power Employes Held in Fire.

Tegucigalpa, Honduras, July 28 (AP).—All employes of power houses and light plants in the town of Progreso, in the Atlantic banana region, were arrested today in connection with the destruction of the plants by fire Wednesday night.

Leave With Pay Granted Forest Camp Workers

Rules Also Changed to Make Discharged Men Forfeit Salary.

Changes in the regulations of the Reforestation Army to give the men leave with pay and to provide that men dishonorably discharged forfeit their accrued salary, were announced yesterday.

Leave with pay shall not be granted except in an emergency. It must be approved by the camp commander and the supervisor of the work project on which the man is engaged. This leave is earned at the rate of one and one-quarter days a month, and cannot be taken before it has been earned. Only 7 days leave with pay can be granted in the six months enlistment.

Dishonorably discharged men forfeit not only the pay due to them personally, but also the allotments made to their dependents. This means that if a man has worked 29 days and is discharged on the thirtieth day, he will not only lose his cash salary for the month, but the allotment to his family will not be paid. It is expected that this change will make the men more amenable to discipline.

The regulations are also changed to permit the men to have hearings on serious offenses against the rules. the accused man may be represented by his friends and may call witnesses to testify. He may also appeal from the result of the hearing to the Director of the Conservation Work. Appeals must be in writing and his punishment can not be enforced while the appeal is pending. This right has been given to the men previously, but is now made a formal part of the regulations.

Another amendment gives camp commanders power to control visitors and limit the number of visiting days.

Attorneys Win Delay in Auto Death Inquiry

Representative Caldwell's Sister, Driver of Car, Tells Why She Fled.

A coroner's inquest in the death of Mrs. Lena Anderson as the result of being struck Thursday night by an automobile at Sixteenth and K streets northwest, will be held early next week, Coroner A. Magruder McDonald declared last night.

The inquest was deferred at the behest of attorneys for Miss Jeanne E. Caldwell, 29, driver of the accident car. Miss Caldwell is a sister of Representative Millard F. Caldwell, of Florida. She was released in the legislator's custody, after being questioned by police.

A stepson of Mrs. Anderson is making plans to send the body to Tennessee, where Mrs. Anderson's late husband, State Senator Hugh Anderson, was long prominent.

Miss Caldwell explained yesterday that she disappeared after taking Mrs. Anderson to Emergency Hospital in order to inform her brother of the accident and seek his counsel.

Virginia Voters Face Two Ballots

Will Select Delegate for Regular Term and Denny Successor.

Special to The Washington Post.

Winchester, Va., July 28.—Voters participating in the Democratic primary here and in Clarke and Frederick Counties next Tuesday will be given two ballots to mark. One will denote the voter's choice for a Democratic candidate to the regular term in the House of Delegates, while on the second or "short" ballot he will select a party nominee to fill out the unexpired term of the late Joseph S. Denny, of White Post, in the Legislature.

On the "long" ballot voters will find that in addition to the candidates for the regular legislative nomination—J. Henkel Henry, Winchester, and E. Blackburn Moore, Berryvillle—there will be three candidates for the party's nomination for governor. On the "short" ballot only the names of Henry and Moore, candidates for Mr. Denny's place, will appear.

Postoffice Designates Special N.R.A. Window

A window yesterday was designated on the main floor of the Postoffice Department Building, where answers from business men signifying willingness to cooperate in President Roosevelt's recovery plans may be returned.

Postmaster W. W. Mooney and his aids were busy distributing thousands of letters from the President, addressed simply "To Every Employer," containing his request for their compliance to the recovery program. Every employer of more than three men, on presenting a letter of compliance at the Postoffice Building, will receive a N. R. A. insignia showing his willingness to cooperate.

Fatal Storm Shifts From Florida Coast

Miami, Fla., July 28 (AP).—Lower Florida East Coast residents breathed easier and storm preparations ceased tonight with the Weather Bureau observers noting a continued recurve in the path of the tropical disturbance that yesterday threatened the southern peninsula.

The storm so far has taken a toll of seven lives, six of these reported from St. Christopher Island, British West Indies, early in the week, and another reported from Grand Turk Island Thursday. One ship was reported blown to sea.

Reporting "Thrills" Intrigue Irish Veteran of Many Scrapes

Grass Is Much Greener Over Journalistic Fence, He Muses.

By Westbrook Pegler.

Chicago, July 28.—Accompanying the Irish amateur boxers on their trip to Chicago for the struggles with the Golden Gloves Team Wednesday night, there is a little shrimp of a man of maybe 120 pounds, a captain of the Free State army, named William (or Liam) O'Brien, who has been reading American fiction and glaring at American moving pictures shown in Dublin depicting the exciting adventures of the average American newspaper reporter.

To Capt. O'Brien it appears that the American journalist must lead a very glamorous life. He is on good terms with the Capones and the police, isn't he?

And intimately familiar with all the sordid goings-on in the underworld in such cities as New York, Detroit, Chicago, and Kansas City? And if he should betray a confidence, his life wouldn't be worth that, would it?

"It Must Be Interesting."

"Tell me," Capt. O'Brien asked, "don't you chaps have a very interesting time of it in your work? I mean to get around with all the gangsters, and you are always on the spot when the shooting is hottest. It must be dangerous. Have you ever had any close calls in your work?"

Your correspondent could have told the captain about that time when he was arrested in Colfax, Iowa, for obtaining under false pretenses the photograph of the erring brother of the cloth, who had come down of a drunkenness and punched a policeman in Des Moines. But that was a very long time ago, and, anyway, what did it amount to? Your true adventurer is likely to minimize his own adventures, even to himself. It is a very desperate thing, to be sure, to be arrested in Colfax, Iowa, and detained for the better part of an hour, but the captain might have thought your correspondent was boasting.

"How are things in Ireland under the Free State?" your correspondent inquired.

Emerald Isle Greener.

"Oh, quite good," the little captain reported. "I don't think we have as much unemployment as I hear you have here, and I don't think our poorest are as poor as some of your poor. We are coming along now."

"You had the devil's own time of it for a while over there, didn't you? I remember once, when I was on the cable desk in New York, writing the story of a machine gun attack by the Black and Tans on a football crowd at Croke Park, in Dublin. And there were all those individual killings where execution parties would grab a man out of his home at night and take him out in the country and kill him."

"Oh, we did have a hell of a time, I can tell you," the captain said. "I wouldn't want to go through it again. You never knew for sure who was your friend or your enemy, and you had to be on one side or the other.

Thrills on Horseback.

"I remember that show at Croke Park. You are right. It was a football match. I was in the crowd myself. When they opened up, I ran across the field and got away.

"We used to have a lot of Paul Reveres in those days. They would set out at night, sometimes, to warn all the boys that a raid was coming and not to sleep at home that night. Sleep somewhere else—out in a field—under a hedge—but get away from home.

"But sometimes they would catch our Paul Reveres and, as these boys couldn't very well remember the names of all the people they were sent out to warn, they carried lists of them. Usually it was possible to get rid of the list in the dark, but sometimes there would be a surprise and the list would be found.

"That was the way they got me after the Easter show in 1916. They took me to England and bounced me around from one internment camp to another for a long time. I thought sure a couple of times they were going to hang me or shoot me. You see, I was the one who printed the Declaration of Independence. If they had known that on me I wouldn't be here. Every man who signed it was executed, but they didn't find out that they had the man who had printed it."

Where are they now? Oh, scattered, those who aren't dead. Some of them are absorbed into other colonial police outfits in frontier countries or scenes of political disturbance.

But some of them are dead. One of them certainly is dead. He and another one faded away and came up into the United States out of South America.

They finally made New York. The one was found shot dead on the street way uptown one morning. The other had a job on the street cars, but he jumped the job and never was seen again after hearing one day that a man with an Irish brogue had been inquiring about him. The man with the brogue was only a process server with a subpena in an accident case.

"You know," Capt. O'Brien said, "I think either you borrow the word 'speakeasy' from us or we borrowed it from you. We used to have our speakeasies in those days. We would come home from work and there would be an order to mobilize at a certain point for drill or a raid or something. And the places where we met were called speakeasies.

"By the way, is prohibition over now and am I too late to see an American speakeasy? I would like to see one. Could you take me around the underworld a bit? I mean gangsters, pineapple throwers, and all that.

"How long have you been a reporter? It must be fascinating stuff reporting in this country, from all I've heard."

Federal Rule Of Pipe Lines Is Expected

Interior Department Will Administer Law if Enacted.

(Associated Press.)

The Interior Department, busy in a campaign to stop the flow of illegally produced oil, yesterday was expected in high administration sources to be charged with enforcing the production provisions of the petroleum industry's trade practice plan now being formed.

Whether the plan would propose strict Federal regulation over pipe line rates and operations was a subject on which no official would comment, but the Interior Department was understood to be preparing specific recommendations for President Roosevelt.

Spokesmen for the various factions in the oil world, to whom a fair practice code for the production and refining divisions will be submitted on Monday by Hugh S. Johnson, industrial recovery administrator, planned their procedure.

Independent interests demand Federal regulation of pipe lines, contending that the major companies owning wells, refineries and pipe lines, charge exorbitant rates for transporting oil and could force independent producers to sell them their petroleum at low prices.

Johnson took over the job of writing a trade code for the oil industry after the divergent factions were unable to compose their differences on this and other production and refining problems after three days of hearings.

Expressing the same objections as have other States, including Texas and Louisiana, to proposals advanced by petroleum interests, New Mexico today filed a formal brief opposing a suggestion that drillers be required to obtain a permit from Washington.

A delegation of four, representing Gov. Arthur Seligman of New Mexico, presented the brief to K. M. Simpson, deputy administrator. They were E. H. Wells, State geologist; Representative Chavez (Democrat), Edgar F. Puryear, of Roswell, and J. D. Atwood, of Albuquerque and Santa Fe.

They also opposed the recommendation of the trade code presented by the American Petroleum Institute that owners of two-thirds of the production of a field might agree to curtail the output.

Crisfield Men Make Perfect Firing Record

Company L Qualifies 100 Per Cent in Camp's Rifle Tests.

Special to The Washington Post.

Camp Albert C. Ritchie, Cascade, Md., July 28.—The machine gun championship of the Fifty-eighth Brigade, Maryland National Guard, was won yesterday by Company H of Westminster of the First Infantry. The Westminster company rolled up a score of 1,359 in the matches.

The company is commanded by Capt. John Magin, with First Lieut. Hugh Elderdice and Second Lieut. H. G. Mathias. Members of the team were: Private Howard E. Carr, whose score of 360 was highest in the brigade; Corpl. Clyde K. Scherf, 344; Capt. Magin, 330; and Sergt. Jesse Nusbaum, 325. Capt. Frederick M. Hopkins, of Company D, was second highest man.

Second place in the match was won by Company D, First Infantry, of Belair, commanded by Capt. Hopkins and Lieuts. H. G. Archer, jr., and James S. Morris, with a score of 1,350. Third place went to Company D, Fifth Infantry, of Baltimore, with score of 1,324.

Perfect Record Made.

Company L, of Crisfield, was the first company in the First Infantry to qualify 100 per cent of its personnel in all arms on the rifle range. Every man in the company has qualfied in automatic rifle, rifle and pistol firing.

Company L is commanded by Capt. Gordon W. Ruark, with First Lieut. Carl A. Carlson and Second Lieut. Harvey E. Gates.

This is believed to be a record in the State of Maryland and equaled in very few places in the country by National Guard outfits. Acting Corporal George B. Riggin, of Company L, made the highest qualifying score in automatic rifle firing today with a score of 451 out of a possible 500.

Rifle Matches Tomorrow.

Three State rifle matches are to be shot tomorrow, the Remington, the Baird and the Webb matches.

Three members of the First Regiment were injured today, none in actual camp duty. Private John Miller, of the regimental headquarters company of Frederick, suffered a broken thumb while playing ball. Will Mackley, of the band section, service company, of Frederick, broke his wrist while playing speed ball on the parade ground. Private Curtis L. Rector, Company D, of Belair, fractured his wrist while hitting a punching bag at Pen Mar amusement park nearby.

Members of Company I, of Salisbury, staged a snipe hunt last night for the benefit of three new members. The rookies were taken into the nearby mountain woods and given a gunny sack painted white and told to wait until the snipe were chased into the bags by other members of the company, who then went back to their bunks and left the hapless victims waiting for snipe that never arrived.

Gen. John Kearny Dies in New Jersey

Cape May, N. J., July 28 (AP).—Ill less than a week, Brig. Gen. John Watts Kearny, New York and Charlottesville, Va., attorney, died here at the summer home of his daughter, Mrs. Julian Hill, in his eighty-eighth year.

He was the son of Gen. Phillip Kearny, killed in action in 1862, in the Civil War. His uncle was Gen. Stephen Watts Kearny, who helped the United States take California.

Born at Paducah, Ky., he later served in the Kentucky legislature from the Lexington District. In 1886 he married Lucy McNary, of Princeton, Ky., and five children, all living, survive them.

He practiced law in New York, Washington and Charlottesville, Va. The funeral will be held from Cape May on Sunday, with interment in Calvary Cemetery, Long Island, N. Y.

Problem of Home Servants Is Big Worry in Hotel Codes

Affected by Hotel Wage Problem, Found to Be Full of Perplexity.

What's to become of the morale of maids and cooks in 30,000,000 American homes if the National Recovery Administration approves higher wages and shorter hours for the millions of workers who perform identical services in the Nation's hotels?

Will Mathilda, the maid, be satisfied with her $10 or $12 a week and Thursdays off?

Will father, traditionally timid under such circumstances, dare even to dream of setting foot in the kitchen to tell cook she's fired?

These and literally hundreds of equally destressing questions continued to perplex American Hotel Association representatives yesterday after they had labored for three days to formulate a recovery code in conferences at the Carlton.

Offers More Problems.

Hotel men believe their industry, which they rate as ninth in the Nation, offers more than the usual number of complexities for code makers to simplify. They view their establishments as cross sections of American life, as miniature American cities.

Every hotel is also a restaurant. Many operate pharmacies, groceries, book shops, even theaters. Each has its own mechanical and engineering department. How far, then, is the hotel code, when formulated, to be extended? Is it to apply to the maids and cooks in American homes, to the drug clerk, the pharmacist, the grocer, the baker, to the steam boiler engineer and the electrician?

A question of the applicability of the national recovery act to hotels was said to have been raised by two leading operators at luncheon recently with Dudley Cates, one of Gen. Hugh Johnson's administrators. The hotel gentlemen added to the more or less general confusion by claiming that the industry probably does not deal in interstate commerce, sells few commodities, and chiefly services.

Diversity in Types.

Despite a diversity in hotel types that ranges from the country tourist home to the gilt and marble establishments covering several city blocks; in the face of the necessity for day and night operation throughout the year; notwithstanding a Department of Agriculture publication designed to teach farm wives how to be innkeepers in their spare time, "progress" and an unrelenting determination to give President Roosevelt and the Recovery Administration "every possible cooperation" were reported from the hotel association's conferences.

Thomas D. Green, president of the association, conducted the meetings for the hotel men. Malcolm Muir represented the administration.

H. P. Somerville is the Washington member of the Hotel Association executive council.

Funeral Rites For McClelland To Be Monday

Assistant to Governor of Reserve Succumbs to Brief Illness.

Funeral services for E. M. McClelland, assistant to the governor of the Federal Reserve Board since May 18, will be held Monday at 10 a. m. at Lee's funeral home, Fourth street and Massachusetts avenue northeast. Burial will be in Loudoun Park Cemetery, Baltimore, Md.

Mr. McClelland died Thursday at the Montgomery County General Hospital, Olney, Md., after a week's illness.

Coming to Washington in 1918 from Quincy, Ill., to serve in the national headquarters of the American Federation of Labor, Mr. McClelland joined the staff of the Federal Reserve Board in 1920.

He was later appointed assistant secretary of the board and, finally, when only 33, he rose to the position of assistant to the governor, which he held at the time of his death.

Mr. McClelland is survived by his parents, his wife, Mrs. Florence McClelland, and a 2-week-old son, Robert.

A brother living in Pittsburgh, and three sisters, all of Bloomington, Ill., also survive him.

Commander Jones' Funeral Is Today

Navy Officer to Receive Full Military Honors at Arlington Rites.

Funeral services with full military honors for the late Commander Harold Jones, U. S. N., will be held at the Arlington National Cemetery at 11 a. m. today. Lieut. Stanton W. Salisbury, of the Chaplain Corps of the Navy, will officiate.

Honorary pallbearers will be Capt. J. S. McCain, Capt. R. L. Ghormley, Capt. Alex Sharpe, Commander I. C. Bogart, Commander A. J. Chantry, all of the Navy, and Capt. C. P. Meyer, of the Marine Corps.

Commander Jones died in Olympia, Wash., on December 30, 1932. He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Marian Whitson Jones, of Tacoma, Wash.

Services Are Held For C. T. Williams

Baltimore Banker, Winner of War Honors, Sent to Portsmouth.

Baltimore, July 28 (AP).—Funeral services for C. Turner Williams, Baltimore banker, were held today at his home here and his body taken to Portsmouth, Va., for burial. He died yesterday following a brief illness.

Born in Warrenton, N. C., October 17, 1874, he came to Baltimore about 20 years ago after a railroad and banking career, principally in Virginia. At one time he was associated in the newspaper business with Josephus Daniels in Raleigh.

During the World War, he headed the American Red Cross Mission in Roumania and later for that work received the country's highest decoration, the Order of the Cross of Queen Mary.

His widow and two children survive.

States Clash On Location of Works Office

Both Maryland, Virginia Want Headquarters of Tenth District.

Baltimore, July 28 (AP).—George L. Radcliffe, regional public works advisor, said tonight he had received a telegram from Secretary Ickes saying approval had been given Baltimore as headquarters for region ten.

(Associated Press.)

A dispute between Maryland and Virginia developed yesterday over the location of the headquarters of the Tenth District of the Public Works Administration.

After Senators Glass and Byrd, of Virginia, protested the reported shift of the headquarters from Richmond to Baltimore, the administration announced that George L. Radcliffe, of Baltimore, regional adviser over the seven States comprising the district, had requested that the headquarters be shifted to Baltimore, but no action had been taken.

The headquarters is officially in Richmond, though no offices have been opened there as yet.

Maryland members of Congress support Radcliffe's opinion that Baltimore, being the larger city and closer to Washington, is more suitable for headquarters.

The States making up the district are Maryland, Delaware, West Virginia, Virginia, North Carolina, Kentucky and Tennessee.

J. F. Quinn Rites Held in Annapolis

Funeral services for John F. Quinn were held yesterday at 10:30 a. m., at St. Mary's Catholic Church, Annapolis, Md.

Mr. Quinn, who had been ill for several years, died Tuesday at his residence, 1470 Harvard street northwest.

He was a native of Newport, R. I., but spent most of his early life in Annapolis. At the age of 20 he moved to Philadelphia and went to work in Cramp's shipyard. From 1896 to 1901 he was a designing engineer in the shipyards at Newport News, Va.

Mr. Quinn moved to Washington in 1901 to become principal engineer in the Bureau of Construction and Repair, Navy Department, holding this position until his death.

He was a member of the Washington Society of American Engineers.

American Singer Dies in 93d Year

Boston, July 28 (AP).—Miss Jean Avigliana, 93, who once sang the role of Donna Elvira, in the opera "Don Giovanni," in the same cast with the celebrated Adelina Patti, in Convent Garden, London, is dead here.

Miss Avigliana was born at Gardiner, Me., was graduated at St. Joseph's Academy at Emmetsburg, Md., and thereafter studied voice culture in this country and in Italy, where she appeared frequently in operatic productions.

In England and Scotland she sang in a number of oratorios while, in later years she taught music in Boston.

B. E. F.'s Slain Paid Honor by War Veterans

Tears Appear as Men Go to Honor Heroes in First Yearly Pilgrimage.

By Howard F. Wentworth.

Golden rays of a setting sun swept the green slopes of Arlington National Cemetery yesterday, as the clear tones of a bugler's "Taps" sounded in homage to the fallen heroes of Washington's Bonus Expeditionary Forces.

It was just a year ago that William J. Hushka and Eric Carlson, both of Illinois, fell mortally wounded in the hail of lead which marked the bonus exodus on lower Pennsylvania avenue northwest.

Yesterday a handful of former comrades clustered about their graves in America's National Cemetery. In the growing dusk they honored their dead in the first annual pilgrimage. Representatives of local and national veterans' organizations stood at silent attention throughout the simple, touching ceremonies.

Hardened faces of the grim veterans softened visibly as the Rev. Stanley A. Czyz, of the Immaculate Conception Church, offered prayers. Tears of honest grief appeared in the eyes of many.

"From the Veterans of the United States" came a wreath borne by Mike Thomas, militant leader of last year's B. E. F. invasion.

"To our comrades," Thomas said, "who gave their lives for the preservation of their comrades self-respect. All nations are made and prosper on the strength of their armies. No nation can survive without an army."

On the graves of Hushka and Carlson lay a bank of wreaths. One was from the National Veterans Association of Enlisted Men, Portland, Oreg. Another was from Representative Virginia Jenckes of Indiana. Others were anonymous.

Earlier in the day Ed McConnell, former chauffeur for Gen. Pershing, and the Rev. John R. West, B. E. F. chaplain, journeyed to the cemetery and placed wreaths.

The sinking sun disappeared below a cross-marked hillside. It left alone the victims of a peace-time battle which rocked a nation.

Justice McReynolds Returns From Europe

New York, July 28 (AP).—Justice James Clark McReynolds of the United States Supreme Court returned today on the liner Aquitania from a vacation trip to Europe. He visited England and France during the four weeks he was away.

Spanish Strikers Stay in Mines.

Murcia, Spain, July 28 (AP).—Fifty miners, who have been underground since yesterday, when they went on strike in protest against working conditions, stayed in the mines today, and officials hoped to settle the controversy shortly.

Miss Nesbit's Horse Feature In Orange Show

Cathode Ray Wins Over 17 in Lightweight Hunter Class.

Orange, Va., July 28 (AP).—Miss Elizabeth Nesbit's Cathode Ray featured the opening day of the thirty-fourth annual exhibition of the Orange Horse Show with a victory in the lightweight hunter class over a field of 17 entries.

The Warrenton horse, son of Omar Khayyam, and most consistent blue ribbon winner of the 1931 show circuit, behaved brilliantly.

Chatterplay, owned by E. M. Woolf, of Upperville, and winner of the plate presented by the Montpelier Horse Show in the Corinthian class of last year, won second honors. Beov, from the Montpelier Stables, and Mrs. D. N. Lee's Sensation were third and fourth, respectively.

Miss Elizabeth Walker Scores.

The first event, the class for brood mares, was won by Miss Elizabeth Walker's bay mare, Maeve. Miss Walker scored again when her filly, Claireal, won first in the class for half-bred weanling colts.

E. L. Redmon, of Middleburg, was the heaviest winner in the forenoon classes, his entries, Polly and Holly, winning second place in the brood mare and in the hunter hack classes, respectively.

His filly, Lucile, won the blue in the class for half-bred yearling colts, and his chestnut gelding, Marksman, won the red in the class for half-bred weanling colts. His gray gelding, Silver, was third in the 3-year-old hunter class.

Handicap Class Winners.

Mrs. Cary Jackson's Merry Prince, and her bay gelding, Shere Khan, captured firsts in the 3-year-old hunter and in the handicap classes.

Mrs. D. N. Lee's Sensation won the blue ribbon in the hunter hack class, and took fourth place in the class for lightweight hunters.

In the class for saddle horses, in which the prize is the Montpelier trophy, Black Lightning, chestnut gelding owned by Vernon G. Owen, of Washington, was judged winner. Mrs. Allen Potts' bay mare, Lady Love, was second.

In the class for 2-year-old half-bred colts, Foggy Moon, owned by Mrs. M. R. Waugh, of Brandy, was first, and Brother, chestnut gelding, owned by J. S. Andrews, of Orange, was second. Miss Ellie Wood Keith's Colonel and Lost won the class for pair of pony jumpers, and her bay gelding, Sinbad, the class for saddle ponies.

Coast Heat Wave, Fatal to 11, Ends

San Francisco, July 28 (AP).—California temperatures returned to summer normals today for the most part, ending a heat wave which took eleven lives, most of them in Southern California, on Wednesday and Thursday.

Los Angeles reached a high of 80 degrees today, compared with 89 yesterday. San Francisco's high was 63, compared with 72 yesterday. It was 98 at Sacramento, and the maximum at San Diego was 73.

Among the victims of the heat was Willett Foster, 47, former president of the California division of the American Association of Engineers and Water Color Artists, who died late last night at Indio.

Oil, Not Divorces, Fretting Mdivanis

Los Angeles, July 28 (AP).—The Mdivani princes came back to Los Angeles today to find out where they stand matrimonially and in the oil business.

Prince Serge, acting as spokesman and explaining incidentally that it's pronounced "Sergie," first took up the question of the separate maintenance suit filed by his wife, Mary McCormic, opera singer, saying his lawyer will decide what will be done. Prince David had nothing to say about the divorce suit filed against him by Mae Murray, the actress.

"We are here," said Serge, "to look after our oil interests. We can say nothing about our marriage affairs."

Chile Fights Typhus Spread.

Santiago, Chile, July 28 (AP).—The Presidential Palace and various government offices were thoroughly cleaned today as a precaution against typhus. Theaters were ordered closed for five days for disinfecting. Official figures listed 769 cases and 117 deaths since the outbreak of the disease.

Quilts of Rags to Be Sold After Renovizing by Jobless

Old Shirts Made Into Rugs by Women of Clothes Conservation Corps.

What once were old shapeless rags and worn-out pieces of clothing will reappear Monday in an unrecognizable renovized condition on sale at the clothes conservation headquarters on the second floor of the Ford Building at John Marshall place and Pennsylvania avenue. The sale will last through Friday.

The old shirts that wore out long ago have been made into rag rugs. Irredeemable old dresses have been reincarnated into brand-new quilts. Father's torn trousers have been transformed into sonny's new suit.

All these transformations have been effected by the 64 women who have been given employment by the clothes conservation committee of the District of Columbia Committee on Employment in its sewing room in the Ford Building. These women, otherwise unemployed and all depended upon by families, have been paid 35 cents an hour for work ever since last November. All of them have been working at least two days a week and some as many as five.

Some of the women had to be taught to sew and to work with the cloth by Mrs. Wymond Bradbury, in charge of the sewing room.

Rugs and quilts of various kinds, relined overcoats, stockings, underwear, children's clothes and all sorts of rehabilitated clothing will be on sale all week.

The rags and old clothes from which these articles have been manufactured were the contributions of welfare organizations and residents of Washington.

Line Fined $50,500 In Narcotic Raid

Honolulu, July 28 (AP).—Narcotics valued at $50,000 were seized on the Canadian Pacific liner Empress of Canada when she docked here last night and the owners were fined $50,500 today by J. Walter Doyle, collector of customs. The fine was $25 for each of 1,620 ounces discovered in the crew's laundry.

Lo Fat Sau, Chinese steward, was held on a charge of attempting to smuggle the narcotics. Officers said Lo confessed.

An Old Story

Widow Minus $1,000 and Wedding Supper Bill as 'Fiance' Flees.

Chicago, July 28 (AP).—Mrs. Dora Waterman, 50, came to court today in the role of the wealthy widow, betrayed, to arraign an old friend for his alleged part in a disappearing bridegroom play that cost her $1,000 and the price of her wedding night supper.

Adolph Cohn, 60, she charged, was an accessory to a confidence game. A friend of long standing, he had introduced her to a Mr. Stanley, who posed as a big cattleman from Montana and whose friendship for her ripened into a proposal of marriage and her acceptance.

Last Friday, Mrs. Waterman said, they started for the county building to obtain a marriage license. On the way Stanley asked if he might borrow $1,000 from her to "swing a deal in cattle."

She withdrew it from the bank and gave it to him. They returned to the Loop too late to get the license, but decided on a premarital supper, anyway.

During the dinner Stanley excused himself and walked out, leaving the check to Mrs. Waterman.

She swore out warrants for the missing bridegroom-to-have-been and for Cohn as the accessory who introduced them. Cohn denied implication, but was held by the grand jury.

Bombs Wreck Chiropractors' Offices; 7 Hurt

Explosions Occur in Two Places as Lights Are Switched on.

Paterson, N. J., July 28 (U.P.).—A person suffering from a mental ailment which might be described as "chirophobia," was being sought tonight in Paterson after bombs had exploded in the offices of two chiropractors. Seven persons, including one chiropractor, were injured.

Since two attempts were recently made on the life of a third Paterson chiropractor, police are convinced that a lunatic, determined to exterminate every chiropractor in Paterson, is on the loose.

Hooked Up to Lights.

Both bombs in today's explosions were hooked up to electric light switches and exploded when someone turned on the lights.

Two weeks ago Alfred Post, a chiropractor, found a bomb attached to the ignition system in his automobile.

A few days later Dr. Post found a frosted malted milk on his desk in his office. He called in a colored porter, who drank it. The drink contained poison and the man pulled through by a miracle.

The victims of today's bombings were Drs. Charles Baumler and Peter J. Barber, both with downtown offices. They are about three blocks apart, and the explosions occurred within a few minutes of each other.

Four persons were injured in the explosion at Dr. Baumler's office. Shortly thereafter some one got up to turn on the light in Dr. Barber's office and another bomb was set off, injuring two patients and the chiropractor himself.

Nothing But Wreckage.

In the Dr. Baumler office, police found nothing but general wreckage. In the case of Dr. Barber's office they concluded that an infernal machine had been placed in a chandelier.

Dr. Post drove around for some time before he found the bomb under the hood of his car. He took the machine to a garage, once he discovered it, and a mechanic was flat on his back beneath the car when the thing went off. He was not hurt.

Garment Workers Hurt In Cleveland Strike

Cleveland, July 28 (AP).—One man and several women were beaten today as a general strike of nearly 1,500 workers in 12 dress manufacturing shops was called by Abraham Katovsky, manager of the Cleveland board of the International Ladies Garment Workers Union. The strike resulted from differences over wages and working conditions.

Fear-Crazed Witnesses Give Evidence for War on Rackets

Weeks Required to Obtain Statements From Trembling Chicagoans.

Chicago, July 28 (AP).—The story of how prosecutors battled against the blind, unreasoning fear of witnesses for weeks to obtain the evidence upon which 24 persons were indicted for conspiracy to prey upon and restrain legitimate trade was told today.

The evidence upon which the first indictments against racketeering were based, said Special Assistant State's Attorney Edwin J. Raber, would take two months to relate before a trial jury.

"When we've finished," said Raber, a diminutive, active prosecutor, "the shades will have been pulled off racketeering in Chicago for all time. The 24 men already indicted are only a few of those who will be brought to trial eventually."

Witnesses Crazed by Fear.

Even when most of the profits of their dry cleaning, laundry, or carbonated beverage businesses was being drained by racketeers, Raber said, most of the witnesses were crazed by fear when brought before the grand jury.

To obtain the evidence, policemen in plain clothes posed as customers, employed casual conversation to learn elementary facts from the business men.

The witness then was brought before the grand jury and confronted with his chance remarks. In most cases his fear was overcome by promises of complete protection for himself and his family, and of cessation of extortion and labor troubles.

In return for their evidence, we promised some of them there would be no strikes in their racket-ridden industries for four years," Raber said.

Raber's reply as to the part in the case of such men as Alderman Oscar Nelson, Republican leader, several times mentioned for mayor; Attorney Aaron Sapiro, of New York, and Dr. Benjamin Squires, Federal labor mediator, was:

"They provide the set-up for the conspiracy. They helped organize the groups responsible for bombings, sluggings, and strikes, the terrorism that put the price of cleaning a suit up to $1.75 a suit, while Al Capone took a cut and the public paid the bill."

588 Witnesses Called.

Most of the witnesses insisted on going before the grand jury furtively and without police escort from their homes or places of business. Each cooperating witness gave names of others who could give valuable testimony. In all, 588 witnesses were called.

Legal authorities said the defendants, ranging from Al Capone to the heads of and attorneys for unions and trade associations, probably would contend they were not guilty of restraining trade, as charged in the indictments, because they dealt only in "service," such as laundry and dry cleaning, but not in commodities. Raber said State supreme courts had varied on that point.

Regarding the price fixing charges, an attorney for Dr. Squires said his client was no more guilty than were President Roosevelt and the Industrial Control Commission.

FINAL WARNING

We have repeatedly warned our clientele that an increase in the price of Stieff Sterling Silverware was inevitable . . . Yesterday we received the official announcement from Stieff Craftsmen. Beginning Tuesday, August 1, new and higher prices will be in effect on every item of Stieff Sterling. For several weeks it has been necessary for us to operate on a daily order basis without the opportunity to build up reserve stocks. For that reason our own retail prices will bear the new higher figures on Tuesday. Stieff has informed us, however, that they will honor every customer's order for sterling silver received at this store before closing time on Monday, July 31 . . . There are just 2 days to ACT!

Two Medical Officers Made Rear Admirals

Capts. Middleton S. Elliott and James C. Pryor Are Promoted.

President Roosevelt yesterday approved recommendations of the Naval Medical Selection Board for the promotion of Capt. Middleton Stuart Elliott and Capt. James Chambers Pryor, both of the Medical Corps, to the rank of rear admiral. They will fill vacancies resulting from the retirement of Rear Admiral Charles E. Riggs, and Rear Admiral Arthur W. Dunbar on October 1.

Capt. Elliott is now a member of the Naval Retiring Board and the Board of Medical Examiners of the Navy Department. Capt. Pryor is district medical officer of the First Naval District at Boston.

The former was born in Beaufort, S. C., October 16, 1872, and was graduated from Columbian College here in 1894. He was appointed an assistant surgeon in the Medical Corps in 1896. During the Spanish-American War he served on the U. S. S. New York and the U. S. S. Indiana, and in July, 1898, was transferred to the U. S. S. Oregon.

Awarded Honor Medal.

He was awarded the Medal of Honor with citation for "distinguished conduct in battle, engagements at Vera Cruz, April 21 and 22, 1914." He was on duty at the Naval Recruiting Station, New York City, from July 1914, to 1917, when he was transferred to command the Naval Hospital, Canacao, P. I.

Capt. Elliott commanded the Naval Hospital here from December, 1919 to 1923, when he went to duty at Mare Island, Calif. In 1927 he was transferred to the Puget Sound Navy Yard and was assigned as district medical officer of the Eleventh Naval District, San Diego, in 1930. He makes his home in Beaufort, S. C.

Capt. Pryor was born in Winchester, Tenn., March 13, 1871, and was graduated from Vanderbilt University Medical School in 1894. During the Spanish-American War he served in the U. S. S. Albatross. In 1913 he was attached to the U. S. S. North Dakota and had service with the Marine Expeditionary Regiment in the West Indies in 1915. From 1916 to 1920 he was on duty at the Naval Medical School and the Naval Hospital here.

Named Fleet Surgeon.

After service as senior medical officer in the Navy Yard at Norfolk, he was appointed fleet surgeon and aid on the staff of the commander in chief of the United States Fleet.

After completing the course of instruction at the Army War College, he was on duty at the Naval Hospital at Annapolis from 1928 to 1931. He makes his home in Nashville, Tenn.

Home Owners' Loans Hit Snag At Hyattsville

Lenders' By-Laws Forbid Exchanging Mortgages for Bonds.

After four successful days of forestalling mortgages, the new regional office of the Home Owners Loan Corporation at Hyattsville yesterday encountered serious obstacles.

It was discovered that compliance with the home loan law provision, which is voluntary, is prohibited by a clause in the by-laws of each of the lending companies of this district.

These companies, it was pointed out by Thomas L. Peyton, manager of the regional office, have issued stocks and bonds and used home mortgages as collateral.

Now the question is: "Can the lending companies release these mortgages and post the Federal Home Loan bonds for collateral in their stead?"

The clause in the by-laws, as quoted in a letter received yesterday at the Home Loan office, states that collateral can be released only upon receipt of other mortgages or cash in its place.

With a large number of home mortgage transactions at a standstill, Peyton hurriedly sent a letter to David Steifel, State manager, in Baltimore. A reply is expected today.

McLean Volunteers Open Carnival Today

The annual carnival held jointly each year at McLean, Va., by the Volunteer Fire Department and the local School and Civic League will open today and continue through next week.

The committee in charge of the arrangements consists of members of both organizations under the leadership of J. H. Beattie, chief of the McLean Fire Department, as general chairman, with Kirby Taylor, assistant chairman, and Harry Farver, secretary and treasurer.

The program arranged by the committee includes a hook-up contest open to the volunteer fire companies of Maryland and Virginia, horse shoe pitching, baseball, athletic events, dancing each evening and other usual carnival attractions.

Annual Camp Meeting Opens at Dranesville

The Dranesville Camp Meeting Association opened its thirty-first annual session yesterday evening at the old grounds near Dranesville. The meeting will continue through August 6.

Services will be held each weekday at 3 and 7:45 p. m. and on Sundays at 10 a. m., 3 and 7:45 p. m. Beginning Tuesday a Bible study class will be conducted by Mrs. Herbert Frye, of Leesburg, Va., at 10:30 each morning. The Rev. Warner P. Davis, pastor of the Methodist Episcopal Church South, will be in charge of the meetings.

Cuban Leaders Agree to Basic Reform Rights

Progress Reported in Series of Discussions With U. S. Ambassador.

Havana, July 28 (AP).—Government and opposition delegates met with Sumner Welles, United States Ambassador, today for their second discussion of constitutional reforms. The American envoy is acting as mediator in Cuban political affairs.

Participants in the two-hour meeting, the second in the series which began yesterday at the American Embassy, said progress was being made. They praised the will to achieve results displayed by all the conferees.

Agee on Basic Points.

Agreement was reached on several fundamental points of the reform program, notably those having to do with personal rights.

Members of the opposition factions have charged President Machado with disregarding personal rights guaranteed by the constitution of 1901 and amended in 1928.

Several times the executive, believing his regime threatened, has received of Congress authority to suspend the eight constitutional articles guaranteeing personal rights.

When the revolt of August, 1931, broke out he suspended the guarantees throughout the island. The suspension remained in effect until last December 1, when the guarantees were restored in five provinves.

Restored by Law.

They were restored in Havana Province only last Wednesday, following upon the passage of an amnesty bill covering political offenses committed since January, 1927.

The president told Congress Wednesday that the mediation "represents no foreign government.

(Associated Press.)

Confusion surrounding the position of Ambassador Welles in Havana as a mediator between President Machado and opposing political factions in Cuba was cleared up partially yesterday by Acting Secretary Phillips of the State Department.

He said the ambassador's good offices were volunteered on his personal initiative, but with the approval of the United States Government.

"While, of course, Ambassador Wells' tender of good offices has been made spontaneously, as stated by President Machado," Phillips said, "it could not have been made other than with the authorization and full approval of this government."

Bowie to Request Extension of Road

Motorcade to Marlboro on Tuesday Will Make Plea for Paving.

More than 200 persons gathered in the Odd Fellows' Hall at Bowie, Md., last night to plan final details for a motorcade to Marlboro Tuesday, when the Lanham-Severn Road Association will ask that paving be extended to Bowie.

Thomas P. Littlepage, president of the Washington Chamber of Commerce, was the principal speaker. He stressed the need of fighting for any worthwhile project.

J. J. T. Graham, chairman of the executive committee; R. E. Van Horn, John E. Nicol and Roberta D. Everett also spoke. They urged the association to join the parade.

Job'sDaughters Of Alexandria Install Officers

Miss Michelbach Is Made Honored Queen of New Bethel.

THE WASHINGTON POST BUREAU.
907 Prince St., Alexandria, Va.,
Phone Alexandria 823.

Miss Jeanette Michelbach, daughter of Frank Michelbach, was installed as honored queen of the new Bethel of Job's Daughters, instituted last night in the George Washington National Masonic Memorial Temple, by Mrs. Zyx Harper Burk, grand guardian, and Alfred C. Cosdon, associate grand guardian of Virginia. Miss Louise Carl, honored queen of Clarendon, and her corps of officers conferred the degrees of the order on a class of 23 girls.

The officers installed were: Miss Michelbach, honored queen; Miss Hattie Cobean, senior princess; Miss Grace Walters, junior princess; Miss Luta Davis, guide, and Miss Marguerite Herbert, mashal.

Appointed officers were: Roberta Runaldue, chaplain; Frances Robertson, recorder; Eileen Fitzgerald, treasurer; Lottie Dove, librarian; Joan Keller, pianist; Elizabeth Ayers, Margaret Eddington, Barbara Smith, Kathryn Pierpont, messengers; Rebecca Miller, senior custodian; Catherine Campbell, junior custodian; Joyce Sullivan, inner guard, and Betty Simpson, outer guard.

The Bethel Choir is: Emma Gardner Robertson, Janice Morgan, Regina McCauley, Barbara Davis, Lois Thompson, Martha Robertson, Florence Schofield, Edith Spaulding, Helen Elsea, Norma White, Virginia Timberlake, Iona Newton, Ilma Campbell, Mary Elizabeth Ward, Lucille Fletcher, Dorothy Cole, Helenora Rowland, Elizabeth Poss, Katherine Taylor, Margaret Ridgely, Mildred Gillum, Grayson Hennege, Lucille Raiford and Elizabeth Wakeman.

The guardian council of the new Bethel will include five officers, Mrs. Elsie Herbert, guardian; Harry H. Newton, associate guardian; Mrs. Margaret Runaldue, guardian secretary; Mrs. Kitty Myers, guardian treasurer, and Miss Louise Schwarzmann, director of music.

Following complaints that the dummy watchman figure in a second-story window of the old cotton factory in the 500 block North Washington street, Alexandria, was the cause of a recent automobile accident, the caretaker, W. A. Schafer, took the figure from the window for a day, but replaced it until he could consult the owners of the building. John Loughran, of Washington, is said to be the principal owner.

The figure was originally the property of the Department of Agriculture and was left in the building after that department's office was moved to another of the Porter buildings in North St. Asaph street.

The first annual summer Sunday evening union services will be held tomorrow at 8 p. m. in historic Christ Episcopal Church. The sermon will be by the Rev. Percy Foster Hall, rector of St. Paul's Episcopal Church. These services are under the auspices of the Alexandria Ministerial Association.

The Daily Vacation Bible School, conducted for the past month in the Chapel of the Good Shepherd, closed yesterday morning with a party given by Mrs. Rebecca Welch for her class. The average attendance has been 65.

Forestville, Md., Youth Badly Injured by Car

Russell Cole, 28, Forestville, Md., was gravely injured early yesterday when run down while walking on a highway near his home. Police said the car was driven by Hatton C. Piddicord, McKendree, Md.

Cole suffered a possible fracture of the skull, severe lacerations and abrasions. At Casualty Hospital his condition is regarded as serious.

Gypsies Freed As Gold Hoard Proves Small

Reception in Arlington for Maj. H. A. Wise Is Slated Tonight.

ARLINGTON COUNTY.
BUREAU OF THE POST.
Tel. Clar. 500. Clarendon, Va.

Fifteen gypsies, suspected by Department of Justice officials of gold hoarding, were freed from Arlington County Jail yesterday, and left in their cars for other fields.

The gypsies were arrested Wednesday at their camp overlooking Arlington National Cemetery. The band was at first suspected of having swindled a woman in Norfolk, Va.

When several bags of gold coins were found in their possession, Department of Justice investigators were notified, but the amount was not sufficient to warrant prosecution.

After the Norfolk women failed to identify the band they were released.

A reception at Windsor Arms, Arlington County, will be tendered Maj. Henry A. Wise, Republican candidate for the Senate, tonight at 8 o'clock, it was announced yesterday by L. C. McPherson, Republican county chairman.

Maj. Wise is a cousin of Senator Harry Floyd Byrd, his Democratic opponent, and is a grandson of a former Virginia governor. He has been actively engaged in antiprohibition affairs in the county. The reception is open to the public.

The Junior Community Center of Lyon Park will hold its weekly meeting today at 3 o'clock in the community house.

Seabury Fight Against Fusion Ticket Opened

Two Nominees, La Guardia and Post, Decline to Make Race.

New York, July 28 (AP).—Samuel Seabury led a revolt today against a bipartisan ticket headed by Maj. Gen. John F. O'Ryan and designed to unite Republicans and Independent Democrats against Tammany Hall in the fall municipal election.

Seabury charged the ticket was dictated by Tammany forces and was not intended to win.

Two men nominated for city offices by the fusion group yesterday have refused to accept, and Seabury expressed the hope Gen. O'Ryan also would decline, completing the breakdown of the slate.

Former Representative Fiorello LaGuardia, Independent Republican, and Langdon W. Post, former assemblyman, turned down the request of the fusion committee, headed by former Gov. Charles S. Whitman, that they run for president of the board of aldermen and president of Manhattan Borough, respectively.

Seabury meanwhile pushed ahead with organizinz a new fusion group to select another ticket. He conferred with LaGuardia, who was seen in some circles as a probable choice for mayor. Conservaitve Republicans have been opposing his selection.

"I can not accept a place on the Whitman faction ticket, considering the auspices and conditions which brought a ticket yesterday," said LaGuardia.

Should Gen. O'Ryan decide to accept, it appeared he and others chosen by the Whitman group would go on the Republican primary ticket, and that the Seabury-LaGuardia faction would nominate an opposing slate.

Man Caught in House Admits Burglary Charge

Pleading guilty to a charge of burglary at Seat Pleasant, Md., Max Grossman, of Chicago, was held for the Prince Georges County Circuit Court at a hearing in the Marlboro Police Court yesterday.

Grossman was found in the house of Robert L. Smith last Sunday. Smith, with the aid of Robert W. Palmer and R. N. Nicholson, held the man until county police could arrive.

Woman Labor Leader, Mrs. A. J. Pierce, Dies

Worcester, Mass, July 28 (AP).—Mrs. Abbie J. (Fitton) Pierce, widow of J. D. Pierce, formerly national organizer for the American Federation of Labor and one of the most widely known women labor workers in the United States, died in the City Hospital after a short illness. She was 70 years old.

Mrs. Pierce traveled throughout the United States with her husband adjusting labor disputes.

ForcedLanding Reports Asked Of Air Lines

New Regulations Issued by Commerce Department Aeronautic Unit.

Details of all forced landings due to weather or mechanical troubles by interstate scheduled passenger transport craft will hereafter be required by the Department of Commerce, Aeronautics Branch.

Assistant Secretary of Commerce Ewing Y. Mitchell, in announcing the new regulations, declared the purpose of the department is to disseminate as much information as possible on every angle of air transportation, for the good of the whole industry.

"We do not seek to pile up regulatory functions in this department," he said, "but every forced landing is a potential accident dangerous to life and property. Without mentioning names of airlines, pilots or any persons concerned, we will disseminate the information thus gained for the benefit of all operators. Heretofore, operators have been required to report only the number of such forced landings and the principal cause."

All Details Required.

The new report required in case of mechanical failures will include location of the landing, nature of the trouble, whether airplane, engine or propeller, type of motor, with total time flown, date of last overhaul and inspection, and the name of the mechanic who inspected the part that failed, and a detailed description of the failure.

In case of bad-weather landing, the operator's name, schedule number, point of departure and point of destination, takeoff and landing times, pilot, copilot and dispatcher's names and number of passengers carried.

New Appointments.

George E. Gardner, formerly chief inspector of the Eastern Division, has been named chief of airline inspection. Luke Harris, now supervisor of maintenance, will now be chief of airline maintenance inspection. These appointments are part of a new policy to segregate airline inspection from other regulatory functions, according to Eugene L. Vidal, director of airline regulation.

Airline maintenance inspectors and airline inspectors will hereafter be located at the bases of the lines they are to inspect.

Harriman Broken By Death of Son

Wife Says He Was Never Same Mentally After Fatal Accident.

New York, July 28 (AP).—Joseph W. Harriman never recovered from the shock of his son's death in 1928, the banker's wife testified today at a hearing to determine if Harriman is mentally competent to stand trial on an indictment charging falsification of account.

The aging, white-haired wife of the man who founded the Harriman National Bank & Trust Co. related their son, Alan, was killed in an automobile accident.

As his wife testified the banker sat at his counsel's table, gazing steadily out a window.

Previously, he had heard his daughter, Mrs. Boykin Wright, say that his mentality "is like that of my own children, who are very young."

A nurse attended him during the hearing.

Morgenthau Hails Farm Aid Stimulus

Federal Official Visits in South Carolina to Help Bankers.

Columbia, S. C., July 28 (AP).—Real farm relief, an increase in buying power and prosperity of all classes were laid down today as the triple purpose of the Government's efforts to liquidate farm debts by Henry Morgenthau, jr., governor of the Farm Credit Administration.

Morgenthau, with members of his staff, came here by airplane for conferences to lend impetus to the movement to thaw out frozen farm mortgage assets in South Carolina banks.

He told of gratifying progress in Wisconsin, Iowa and Illinois, and expressed satisfaction at what had been accomplished in South Carolina since the campaign was announced here two weeks ago.

Purchase of farm mortgages from banks in these four States, he explained, will put millions of dollars into circulation, multiplying buying power and contribute to the "prosperity of all elements of the population."

One Town Accepts Mellon Tax Offer

Bellmawr, N. J., July 28 (AP).—The offer of Andrew W. Mellon, former Secretary of the Treasury, to pay 50 per cent in settlement for delinquent taxes on property of the Big Timber Land Co. has been accepted by the borough council.

The company defaulted to Mellon, who held its mortgage, it was said.

Mellon made a similar offer to nearby Brooklawn, where the company also held land, but the borough council there refused the settlement and the matter will be considered at a citizens' mass meeting.

Phillips Scoffs at Word U. S. Seeks China Base

Reports printed in Tokyo newspapers that the United States has been negotiating to acquire a naval base on Tungshan Island, southwest of Amoy, China, were described by Acting Secretary Phillips of the State Department yesterday as "too absurd for discussion."

A TENNIS tournament for Federal employees is a grand idea. The suggestion of Bill Seidell is greatly appreciated. It is believed that it can be arranged and it will go over big. It should be an annual affair.

Preliminary survey reveals that there is such a thing as a Departmental Tennis League, of which F. W. Hoover, Public Welfare, is president, L. W. Bates is vice president, and L. I. Doyle, secretary-treasurer. Mr. Doyle has expressed approval of the idea and has offered to help in any useful capacity. He further said he would be glad to further discuss details of the proposed tournament.

The league has yet to play two more matches, one a postponed match between Bureau of Investigation and the Navy, the other a scheduled match between Bureau of Investigation and the War Department August 1. The latter match is the last in the league.

The following are team standings:

	Won	Lost	Pct.
Treasury	21	9	.700
Patent Office	18	12	.600
Agriculture	15	15	.500
War	12	13	.480
Bureau of Investigation	7	8	.467
Veterans' Adm'tration	12	18	.400
Navy	8	17	.320

THE matches yet to be played will change the standing of the War, Navy and Bureau of Investigation teams. It appears certain, however, that Treasury will again win the league championship this year as it has done several times before.

W. E. Buell, manager, Treasury team, and Sid Wallenstein, manager, Patent Office team, have already expressed approval of the contemplated tournament. It is hoped that the managers of the other teams will also be in favor of the idea and will be willing to cooperate. They each will be interviewed.

The survey also had revealed that Standards, which has a team in the Suburban League, is not in the Department League. Players of this team as well as John Ladd, Coast and Geodetic Survey; Grant and Krause, General Accounting Office; Hugh Trigg, Postoffice, and several others will have a chance to play in this tournament. It should take place at the conclusion of the Department League matches. All of those tennis players willing to participate in a tournament of the kind, please write to me. Meanwhile a committee for the tournament will be appointed to make arrangements for the time, the courts and other necessary details.

"They" Defined.

THEY—(Governmental Mythology). The Scapegoat Deity of Bureaucracy.

A MYTHICAL group of beings high in authority but endowed by their worshipers with the characteristics of morons, who are credited with making all unpopular and unintelligent decisions in governmental policy.

The apotheosis of governmental Red Tape, born of a system which crushes initiaitve and curbs individual authority, created by the urgent need of the petty official for something on which to blame his own inertia and stupidities.

The religion of "They" is a crutch for the coward afraid to accept responsibility for his own decisions, an excuse for the dullard to reject all new ideas, a cover for the office politician for his wire-pulling activities.

The true believers in this cult are found largely among reactionaries who have attained some small authority through the survival of the unfittest, but the practice of dodging responsibility by calling on the name of this multiple deity increases alarmingly among those actually in authority during crucial periods of change where new theories are worked out.

Example: While no individual will admit responsibility for the dismissal of married workers in low-salary grades and the retention in the same offices of married couples who receive three times as much as the ones dismissed, a statement is usually forthcoming to the effect that the matter is being handled according to orders they have given.—ANTI-"THEY."

At Commerce.

Ask Bill Finger (*), Commerce Building, about Sylvia, his new sweetheart. He'll tell you that she's prettier than the Queen of Sheba and brighter than Einstein. Bill, who is now with N. R. A., recently returned from Paris, where he held the post of assistant U. S. commercial attache. Sylvia, by the way, is just 4 months old and Bill, rightly so, is a mighty proud daddy.

Mary King (*), Textile Division, Commerce, just has just returned from a few very enjoyable days at Rehoboth Beach. However, she is now asking for a good antidote for mosquito bites, but all she gets is a few snappy anecdotes.

A. Lane Cricher, member of the District bar, recently resigned as chief, Transportation Division, Commerce, and now has an office in the Munsey Building.

Hilda Ring, formerly with Iron and Steel Division, Commerce, is now pounding keys in Transportation Division.

Ralph Wanlass, Carl Hanmacher, newcomers to Duplicating Section, Commerce.

In the A1 class of personnel in the Census Bureau we list Mrs. Caroline Hunt, Population Statistics Division. Mrs. Hunt is well known for thoroughness in her work and her obliging and pleasing manner.

Commerce baby parade.—The stork evidently has established headquarters at Commerce Building. Within the week: A girl to Mrs. Sylvia Langbon, Census; a boy to Mrs. Channing Davis, Patent Office, and a boy to Mrs. South Trimble, jr., Solicitor, Commerce.

Thomas (Garbo) Tilson (*), Commerce, would like to bet an introduction to that little 5-foot, pretty-as-a-picture, blonde, baby doll (Tilson's description), whom he saw in Commerce cafeteria yesterday. No, Tommy isn't married, but——

William Joseph Bray, James L. Hall and William E. Burke hit the hay while the sun shines. They're newcomers on night shift of N. R. A., Duplicating Section.

At Commerce:

Emmett A. Chapman, formerly of the Far Eastern Section, Commerce, is now with Chemical Division.

New faces in the Duplicating Section, Commerce: Mary Ann Bishop; Minnie Brock, Nancy Lukes, and Isabel Creer, all on N. R. A. rolls.

Ethel Freeman (*), formerly secretary to Thomas R. Taylor, assistant director, Bureau of Foreign and Domestic Commerce, is now secretary to Ernest A. Tupper, chief, Division of Economic Research.

Attractiveness of the Secretary's suite on the fifth floor, Commerce, is greatly enhanced by the presence of Miss Vera Zumbo. Miss Zumbo came down from New York to take over new duties as secretary to South Trimble, jr., solicitor, Commerce.

Carlis C. Hudson, now property clerk in the 3-A organization, is a good example of what conscientious devotion to official tasks may bring one. He got his start officially in the secretary's file room, acted as pony messenger for a period, subsequently joined the "foot" staff of the immediate office of the secretary, and thereafter, bee-like, flew from one place to another until he landed in his present assignment.

He typifies the business tradition—always be careful how you treat the messenger boy, he may some day be an executive, or, like the present case, qualifying for a director of greater responsibility.

Mrs. Anna Boyd, a resident member at the Federal Clubhouse and Veterans Administration worker, has been forced to take two weeks' sick leave due to a broken wrist suffered two days ago.

Second organization meeting, Federal Bridge Club, the Federal News plans, will take place August 18, Federal Clubhouse. The organization will resemble the chess and checker clubs recently formed by the paper.

THIS thing of putting names on the roll, as is the case of some at the White House, and after two years according Civil Service status is another injustice to those who have had to conform to C. S. requirements before first obtaining their positions.

Those who say "this is just another case of injustice to Federal workers about which nothing can be done", and then throw up their hands are a bit previous. That matter should be included in the reforms we hope to see legislated.

Congressional elections are "just around the corner." We should get some support from lawmakers.

Customs Jobs For 20 Filled By President

No District Appointments Made as Roosevelt Quits City.

Releasing some patronage on the eve of his departure to Hyde Park, President Roosevelt yesterday named 20 collectors of customs, collectors of internal revenue and other customs officials. No appointments in the vicinity of Washington were made.

The collectors of customs were Mrs. Agnes M. Hodge, at Minneapolis; Henry V. Schwalbach, at Milwaukee; Foutain Rothwell, at St. Louis, and John H. Dooley, at Portland, Me. Harry T. Foley was appointed surveyor of customs at New York and Thomas M. Lynch was named appraiser of merchandise at the same port.

New collectors of internal revenue are Thomas J. Connor for the first district of Ohio; Horatio J. Abbott for Michigan; Almon G. Rasquin for the first district of New York; J. Edwin Larson for Florida; Frank J. Shaughnessy for the twenty-first district of New York; Joseph P. Carney for Massachusetts; Townsend Rust for Delaware; Carter Harrison for the first district of Illinois; Dan M. Nee for the sixth district of Missouri; Carl E. Veteran, Married for 50 Years, Recalls Day Lincoln Was Shot

William E. Hughes, 93, and Wife, 77, Observe Golden Wedding.

Recalling every presidential inauguration except one since election of James K. Polk, William E. Hughes, 93, recently celebrated the fiftieth anniversary of his marriage to Mrs. Margaret E. Hughes, 77, at their Boulevard Heights (Md.) home.

"Before the Civil War," said Mr. Hughes, "I enlisted in the Henderson Guards, a Washington militia company. We acted as guards at the White House when Lincoln was President."

When the war broke out the Henderson Guards became a unit of the Union Army, and were stationed here. Only once were they engaged in battle, this being at Senaca, Md. The engagement, however, proved only a small skirmish.

Born in Georgetown, the Civil War veteran has spent practically his entire life in Washington. As he himself puts it, he has contributed more to the recent American wars than the soldiers themselves, for he is, by trade, a molder of shot.

For approximately 40 years, off and on, he has been employed by the Navy Yard. He retired a number of years ago, and has made his home at 4318 Townsend avenue, Boulevard Heights.

Mrs. Hughes is a native of Wilmington. The couple were married in that city in 1862 and immediately came to Washington. At present Mr. Hughes is an ardent race horse enthusiast.

"I can pick 'em almost every time," he says.

Weather Puts Off Balbo Hop Indefinitely

General Decides to Wait at Newfoundland for Better Conditions.

Shoal Harbor, N. F., July 28 (AP).—Gen. Italo Balbo tonight postponed indefinitely the departure of his Italian air armada for Valentia, Irish Free State, on account of unfavorable weather.

The squadron, enroute home after visiting the Century of Progress Exposition in Chicago, was all ready for the longest hop of its trip, but Gen. Balbo received reports that conditions were unfavorable over the projected 1,800-mile course to Ireland.

The Italian squadron arrived here Wednesday from Shediac, N. B., where it came from New York.

The projected stage to Ireland is 300 miles longer than the longest flight accomplished by the fleet on its trip from Italy.

Gen. Balbo prepared to take off tomorrow morning very early, some time between 1:30 and 2 o'clock, Eastern standard time, in an effort to make the ocean flight by daylight.

The cars rolled up with the ANSWER!

ON July 7th, The American Oil Company made a startling announcement—the premium on AMOCO-GAS was reduced 2¢!*

Public response was instant and emphatic!

From the north—the south—the east—the west—the same news poured in: lines of cars rolling up to the AMOCO pump! Old users congratulating themselves on new savings; new users congratulating themselves on this long-awaited opportunity to enjoy the new power, performance and low-cost-per-mile of AMOCO-GAS. For now there was no reason for any motorist to deprive himself of the finest motor fuel on earth!

Even when AMOCO-GAS sold at the higher premium thousands of motorists had positively made up their minds that they could not afford to buy imitations or inferior motor fuels at a lower price. Nothing less than AMOCO-GAS would ever do!

Here's a specific example of how AMOCO-GAS performs. In the recent official A. A. A. Ford V-8 Economy Run conducted in Washington, D. C., AMOCO-GAS averaged 22.5 miles to the gallon. The Ford Factory considers 18.8 miles per gallon good Ford V-8 performance.

The mileage on AMOCO-GAS was 20% greater! AMOCO-GAS at today's average price does not cost motorists that much more per gallon. That means AMOCO-GAS costs even less on a mileage basis alone. The greater riding ease . . . greater driving ease . . . greater freedom from repairs cost you nothing.

Fill up on AMOCO-GAS. Always the best buy—now a better buy than ever.

Spanish and French Envoys Entertain Delegates to World Geological Congress

Secretary of War Honor Guest at Governors Conference.

THE AMBASSADOR OF SPAIN and Senora de Cardenas entertained at dinner last evening at the Embassy in honor of the Spanish delegates who are in Washington attending the sessions of the International Geological Congress.

Senora de Cardenas, who was to have sailed from New York yesterday aboard the Ile de France for her home in Roumania, has postponed her departure indefinitely.

The Ambassador of France and Mme. de Laboulaye were hosts to a company of 20 at luncheon yesterday in honor of the French delegates to the Congress of Geologists.

Mr. Justice and Mrs. Pierce Butler are at the Seigniory Club this week with Mr. and Mrs. Leo Butler, of Gladstone, N. J.

The Secretary of War, Mr. George Henry Dern, was the guest of honor last night at the National Governors' Conference banquet at the Ambassador Hotel, Los Angeles.

The Postmaster General, Mr. James A. Farley, will be the guest in whose honor the Asbury Park Democratic committee will give a dinner at Ross Fenton Farms, North Asbury Park, August 21. Mr. Edward Brodstein is the chairman in charge of the arrangements for the dinner.

Mrs. A. Harry Moore, wife of Gov. Moore, has accepted the place of honorary chairman of the patronesses committee. The patronesses committee, headed by Mrs. Robert S. Scarburgh, are making elaborate plans, which will bring out the leaders of democracy who are summering at the various resorts on the Jersey shore and many who are in New York and vicinity.

Others on the patronesses' committee include Mrs. Frank Hague, Mrs. Rulif V. Lawrence, Mrs. Howard Height, Mrs. Abram I. Elkus, Mrs. Joseph P. Tumulty, Mrs. David Wilents, Mrs. Edwin G. Bruns, Mrs. E. B. La Fetra, Mrs. Leo J. Warwick, Mrs. Theodore Bennett, Mrs. Otto R. Holters, Mrs. John C. Giordiano and Mrs. Harriman Simmons. A number of Broadway stage stars are expected to provide entertainment.

Secretary of Labor Departs for Pittsburgh.

The Secretary of Labor, Miss Frances Perkins, left the Capital Thursday evening for Pittsburgh, where it is expected she will remain for a day or two.

Mrs. Barbour, wife of Senator W. Warren Barbour, of New Jersey, accompanied by her three children, W. Warren, jr., Elizabeth and Sharon, will sail next Wednesday from New York for Europe, to spend the remainder of the summer traveling in France, Italy, Switzerland and Great Britain.

Senator and Mrs. Barbour spent July at Hilden, their Locust Point estate.

Lady Chilton, wife of the British Ambassador to Chile, with her daughters, Miss Betty and Miss Anne Chilton, sailed yesterday from New York on the Santa Maria to join her husband in Santiago. Lady Chilton is also accompanied by her brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Howard O'Brien, of Monroe, Mich. Lady Chilton and her daughters have been spending several weeks in this country.

The newly-appointed Minister of Portugal, Senor Joao Antonio de Bianchi, will sail for this country next month, to assume duties at the legation here. Senor Bianchi has served as his country's Minister to London, Chief of Protocol, Envoy to China, Chief of the Bureau of Political Affairs, and member of the Peace Conference in Paris.

The former Minister, Viscount d'Alte, retired from diplomatic service last May, after having served at his post for 33 years. He was one of the most popular diplomats in Washington, and it is expected that he and Viscountess d'Alte will return to spend their winters in the Capital.

The Charge d'Affaires of Belgium, Viscount de Lanshere, entertained at luncheon yesterday at the Curtis Club, 1925 F street, in honor of the Belgian delegates to the International Geological Congress. The guests included Mr. Van Strellen, director of the Royal Museum of Natural History in Brussels; Mr. Renier, chief of Geological Service of Belgium; Mr. Thoreau, professor of the University of Louvaine; Mr. Legraie, professor of the University of Liege; Mr. Drugman, Mr. Cambier, Mr. Whitley, Consul General of Belgium in Baltimore; Mr. Gerard Walravens, attache of embassy, and Mr. Charles Leonard, chancellor of embassy.

British Minister-Counselor Arrives in New York.

The Minister-Counselor of the British Embassy, Mr. F. D. G. Osborne, arrived in New York yesterday aboard the Aquitania and came to Washington last night. Mr. Osborne will be Charge d'Affaires during the absence of the Ambassador, Sir Ronald Lindsay, who went to New York last night and will sail today aboard the Aquitania to join Lady Lindsay in England for the remainder of the summer.

Representative Allard H. Gasque was joined a few days ago by Mrs. Gasque, who flew here from her home in Florence, S. C. This is the second trip in two weeks which Mrs. Gasque has made to Washington by air. She will remain here until tomorrow, when she will fly back to Florence.

Gen Eugenio Mollinet, Secretary of Agriculture of Cuba, returned to Washington yesterday from New York and is at the Carlton.

His Excellency Prince Ludovico Spada Potenbiani, former Governor of Rome, and now Italian Royal Commissioner at the Chicago World's Fair, will sail today for Italy on the Vulcania, of the Italian Line.

Gen. McKinley's Daughter Is Bride of Lieut. Oakes.

Miss Margaret McKinley, daughter of the Adjutant General of the United States Army and Mrs. James Fuller McKinley, and a great-niece of President McKinley, was married yesterday to Lieut. John Cogswell Oakes, U. S. A., son of Col. John Calvin Oakes, U. S. A., retired, and Mrs. Oakes, of Charleston, S. C.

The ceremony was performed at 4 o'clock in the Bethlehem Chapel of the Washington Cathedral by Canon Anson Phelps Stokes, and was followed by a reception at the home of the bride's parents, 2818 Thirty-sixth place.

Miss McKinley, who was given in marriage by her father, wore her mother's wedding gown of antique ivory satin, combined with Chantilly lace. The bodice, formed of lace, was made with a high neckline, bordered with a tiny yolk of net. A long, closely-fitting skirt swept into a graceful train, which had inserts of lace. Long, tight sleeves extended in points over her hands. The ivory tulle veil fell over her face to the waist line, and was held in place by a tiny band of orange blossoms. She carried a bouquet of bride's roses and lilies of the valley.

Miss Margaret Nixon was the maid of honor. She wore a gown of aquamarine blue chiffon, with short sleeves puffed to the elbows. Over this was worn a three-quarter length coat, finished with cape-effect sleeves formed of double ruffles of the material. Her hat was of blue chiffon, with a shadow brim formed of layers of pastel pink and blue chiffon, and it was held in place with a band of small pink flowers. Her bouquet was of butterfly roses.

The bridesmaids, Miss Louise Livingston Smith, of Philadelphia; Miss Jean Kingman and Miss Janet Patterson, wore gowns similar to that of the maid of honor, with tiny turbans, having short nose veils. Their bouquets were of Johanna Hill roses.

Mr. Calvin Hawley Oakes, vice consul of the United States in Genoa, Italy, acted as best man for his brother. The ushers included Lieut. Harry McK. Roper, Lieut. Norris B. Harbold, Lieut. Robert J. Fleming, jr., and Lieut. James E. Holley, all of the United States Army.

The bride and groom were assisted at the reception by Mrs. McKinley, mother of the bride, who wore a handsome gown of powder blue chiffon and lace with a broad brimmed natural straw hat, and by Mrs. Oakes, the bridegroom's mother, whose gown was of red and black figured crepe on a white background, made with a short jacket. Her large picture hat was of black straw combined with lace.

The drawing rooms were colorfully decorated with huge clusters of roses, gladioli and delphinium.

After the reception, Lieut. Oakes and his bride left for their wedding trip, the latter traveling in an afternoon gown of navy blue and white printed crepe, and a small blue linen sailor finished with a band and tailored bow of white ribbon. Lieut. and Mrs. Oakes will sail shortly for Panama, where Lieut. Oakes is now stationed.

The bride attended St. Katherine's School in Virginia, and was graduated from Holton Arms School, in this city, in June of last year. She was presented to society in Washington at a tea dance given at the Army War College last December.

Lieut. Oakes, who attended Yale University, was graduated from the United States Military Academy at West Point in the class of 1928. He is an aid to Brig. Gen. Harold B. Fiske, at Forte de Lesseps, in the Canal Zone.

Mayor Cermack's Brother Is Guest at Willard.

Lieut. Elliott B. Strauss, U. S. N., on duty at the torpedo station at the Naval War College in Newport, and Mrs. Strauss have reserved a table for the buffet dinner dance at the Clambake Club, which will close the national air pageant today. Others from Washington who have made reservations are Mr. and Mrs. C. Matthews Dick.

Mr. Joseph Cermak, brother of the late mayor of Chicago, is at the Willard.

Mr. and Mrs. Hollister Struges, who are at their country place, Ridgley Manor, Stone Ridge, N. Y., recently entertained Lord John Hastings and Lady Hastings, Lady Faith Montagu, niece of Mrs. Sturges; Mrs. Henry Field, of Chicago, and Mr. Henry T. Leggett.

Dr. Richard M. Field, of Princeton, N. J., a guest at Wardman Park Hotel, entertained 14 guests at dinner there last evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Richard William Dickinson Jewett will leave tomorrow for Nantucket, Mass., where they will visit Mrs. Jewett's parents, Mr. and Mrs. William Pepper Constable, at their summer home.

Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Bellmere, who have in their party at the Willard, Mr. John F. Pallenen, jr., and the Rev. T. J. Harron, plan to be in Washington several days before returning to their home at Reading, Pa.

Mr. Allen C. Clark and his daughters, Mrs. William H. Winchcole and Miss Elizabeth G. Clark, left yesterday for New York. They will sail today on the Franconia for a 12-day cruise which will include stops at Quebec and Bermuda.

Mrs. Edward Croft, with her daughter and son, Miss C. M. Croft and Mr. Edward Croft, jr., are spending the summer at Cedar Mountains, N. C. They will return to Washington the first part of September.

Wife of Comdr. Heim Hostess at Luncheon.

Mrs. Schuyler F. Heim, wife of Commander Heim, U. S. N., of the Wardman Park Hotel, was hostess at a luncheon there yesterday for seven.

Mrs. A. Van der Horst, of Fish Holk, South Africa, is at the Dodge. Mrs. Van der Horst came to the States as a delegate to the National Council of Women at Chicago. She will go from here to New York, whence she will sail for England, where she will visit before returning to Africa.

The English Speaking Union held a tea Thursday in its clubrooms for a group of British delegates who are in Washington for the sessions of the International Geological Congress.

Among the guests were Sir Arthur and Lady Smith-Woodward, of Sussex, England; Mr. Gilbert Cullis, of the Imperial College of Science, London; Dr. and Mrs. Russell du Toit, of Johannesburg, South Africa; Mr. J. Lunn and Miss Katherine Farlaland, of the Gold Coast, West Africa; Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Stuart Sanford, of Oxford, England; Mr. Walter Campbell Smith, of the British Museum, London; Mr. Owen Thomas Jones, of Cambridge, London, and Dr. Arthur Hall, of South Africa.

Receiving the guests were Mrs. Elonzo Tyner, Miss Bertha Noyes, Miss Elizabeth Eastman, Mrs. Bruce Wallace and Dr. G. B. Tribble.

Col. and Mrs. Ralph H. Wooten moved to Wardman Park Hotel yesterday.

Miss Ann Hill, librarian at the University of Texas, will arrive in Washington from New York Monday to be the guest of Miss Alice M. Harrell at the Westchester.

Mrs. W. Wayne Wirgman, with her daughter, Miss Polly Wirgman, is a guest at Saranac Inn, in the Adirondacks.

Mrs. M. W. Littleton entertained friends at luncheon yesterday at the Carlton.

Mrs. W. H. Wilmer, of Birmingham, Ala., is passing some time at the Carlton.

Mr. and Mrs. A. M. Callahan, with their sons, are visiting Washington from Philadelphia and are at the Willard.

Mrs. Charles H. White entertained four at luncheon yesterday at the Carlton.

Mr. and Mrs. W. B. Whitlock, of Springfield, Ill., have arrived at the Carlton for a short stay.

Dr. and Mrs. Thomas A. Poole, of the Shoreham, left early today by automobile for Skyland, Va., where they will spend a brief vacation.

French Envoy and Family Together for First Time in Capital

Hessler-Henderson, Inc.

The Ambassador of France and Mme. de Laboulaye photographed with their children for the first time since they came to Washington. Mlle. Agnes and Mlle. Maria Therese came to this country several months ago with their parents, and M. Paul and M. Francois arrived from Europe to join the family only a few days ago.

Married Yesterday in Cathedral

Underwood & Underwood.

MRS. JOHN COGSWELL OAKES, who before her marriage yesterday afternoon in the Bethlehem Chapel of the Washington Cathedral, was Miss Margaret McKinley, daughter of the Adjutant General of the Army and Mrs. James F. McKinley.

Civilian Camp Men Repent Desertion

Sacramento, Calif., July 28 (AP).—Nearly 100 of the 136 youths who yesterday walked out of the Civilian Conservation Camp on Bear River were back in camp today asking officials to forget the incident.

The remainder were reported beating their way toward Sacramento to register complaints at the corps headquarters.

Major R. E. McQuillan, second in command of the corps district, went to the camp to investigate the first major desertion in the C. C. C. ranks in the State.

He blamed agitators for the wholesale walkout. Officers at the camp reported agitators had "browbeaten" the other youths into deserting after they demanded better food.

Chevy Chase Children Hold Dog Show Today

The dogs, and dawgs, of North Chevy Chase are suffering nobly in the cause of sweet charity. For several days Fido, Prince and Mollie have been enduring baths, brushings and bossing at the hands of small mistresses and masters. The youngsters of the neighborhood will hold a dog show this afternoon. Pedigrees are out — and may the best big, little and middle-sized dog win!

Five cents is the entry fee and the proceeds will go to charity.

Bishop to Lay Corner Stone At Clarendon

Washington's Trowel Will Be Used at Episcopal Hall Ceremony.

The Right Rev. Henry St. George Tucker, Bishop of the Diocese of Virginia, using the trowel used by George Washington in laying the corner stone of the United States Capitol, will lay the corner stone of the new $10,000 Parish Hall of St. George's Episcopal Church at Clarendon tomorrow morning at 10 o'clock. The bishop will preach the morning sermon.

At the conclusion of the sermon, there will be a procession from the church to the entrance of the new hall, led by the bishop, the Rev. Henry J. Miller, rector, and the choir. Then the stone will be laid by the bishop.

The trowel will be brought to the church as a courtesy of the Alexandria-Washington Lodge, No. 2, A. F. and A. M. by a special escort consisting of W. L. Allen, R. M. Reeve, S. C. Cross and George W. Zachary.

The new parish hall is being erected under the supervision of a building committee composed of Frank Davis and C. P. Oliver. The plans were drawn by William M. Anderson, architect. The board of trustees of the parish consists of E. K. Kloman, W. M. Stone and Dr. W. C. Welburn.

The hall was made necessary by the increased attendance at the church school. The auditorium is calculated to seat 350 persons. The stage, with a depth of 15 feet, is especially adapted for dramatic presentations. A large primary room, a prekindergarten room, kitchen and lavatories are included in the first floor. The second floor, to be finished later, will have facilities for six to eight classrooms. The exterior is of brick on three sides with stone on the Maryland street side, the contribution of Dr. Stacey T. Noland.

Author Will Speak At Church Service.

Fred T. Wilson, widely known as a lecturer and the author of "Pen Pictures of the Presidents," will speak tomorrow at the 11 o'clock service at Mount Vernon Place M. E. Church South. His subject will be "Some Revelations of God." Mr. Wilson has filled lecture engagements in many of the States, and has spoken from the pulpits of the Quakers, Mormons and Jewish Synagogues. He is now finishing a book, "Our Constitution and Its Makers."

W. M. Lockett, jr., pastor of the Community Church, Clarendon, Va., will preach at the evening service. Special anthems will be presented by a vested choir of 60 members, under the personal direction of R. Deane Shure.

The church school will meet at 9:30 under the superintendence of Barber C. Palmer, and its council on Tuesday at 8 p. m. The Woman's Missionary Society will hold its regular monthly meeting Wednesday night at 8 o'clock.

The pastor, Dr. Forney Hutchinson, is attending the assembly at Lake Junaluska, N. C., where he will deliver addresses each day from July 27 to August 1.

Rev. Allison to Conduct Open Air Service.

Open air services will be conducted by the Rev. Samuel Robinson Allison, assistant minister to Dr. McCartney, of Covenant-First Presbyterian Church, at the Massachusetts Avenue Chapel tomorrow at 7.15 p. m. The services, which are under the auspices of the Men's Society, will be on the chapel grounds at the corner of Massachusetts avenue and Garfield street. The subject of the evening service will be "Two Ways of Knowing God." The ministry of music will be appropriate for the occasion.

The Rev. William Charles Hogg, pastor of the First Reformed Church, Ridgewood, N. J., will occupy the pulpit at the morning service in the absence of Dr. McCartney. All Sunday school grades meet at 10 a. m.

Elizabeth, N. J., Minister To Preach Here Tomorrow.

"The Meaning and Law of Progress" is the subject upon which the Rev. Arthur H. Coar, of Elizabeth, N. J., will preach at the Union Service in All Souls' Church (Unitarian), Sixteenth and Harvard streets, at 11 o'clock tomorrow. Mr. Coar was formerly the minister of Unitarian churches in Amherst and Holyoke, Mass. Mount Pleasant Congregational Church and the Universalist National Memorial Church are uniting with All Souls' Church in these services.

Missionary in Korea To Make Report Here.

At the Central Presbyterian Church the pastor, Dr. James H. Taylor, will preach in the morning on "Our Spiritual Reassurances," and in the evening on "Lessons From the Prophets," tomorrow.

Dr. William Hollister, a medical missionary to Korea who went out to the foreign missionary field from this church, is returning to this country, due to ill health. Dr. Hollister and family plan to come to Washington and make a report of the work to the Central Presbyterian Church. This church has representatives from the congregation in the foreign mission work in Brazil, China and Korea.

The church plans to send delegates to the musical conference to be held at Massanetta Springs, Va., early in August.

Dr. Snyder to Preach on "High Cost of Loving."

After an illness of two weeks, Dr. Henry W. Snyder will be back in the pulpit at St. Paul's Lutheran Church tomorrow morning. The subject of his sermon will be "The High Cost of Loving."

In the evening at 7 o'clock, St. Paul's will join the other Chevy Chase churches in the Union Vesper Service on the lawn of All Saint's Episcopal Church, the last for the summer. Dr. Snyder will be the speaker and St. Paul's Choir will lead the music.

On Thursday evening at a congregational meeting, resolutions were adopted on the death of Mr. Albert F. Fox, for more than half a century an active worker in St. Paul's Church and Sunday school.

"Age in Which We Live," to Be Pastor's Topic.

The Rev. B. M. Osgood, minister of the Bethesda Baptist Congregation, will speak on "The Age in Which We Live," at tomorrow morning's service, in the hall of the Masonic Temple, and on "Christ's Seamless Coat," at the evening service in the same place. A vocal and instrumental program by the Brown brothers, of Montrose, will also be a part of the evening meeting.

Sunday school sessions will be held at 10:15 a. m. All three of these services will be held regularly throughout the summer.

Interchange Preacher At First Congregational.

Dr. Frederick K. Stamm will be the guest preacher at the First Congregational Church, Tenth and G streets northwest, at the 11 o'clock service tomorrow. He will preach on "Maintaining the Glow." Dr. Stamm is the pastor of the Clinton Avenue Congregational Church, Brooklyn, N. Y., and was interchange preacher to England and Scotland this summer. There will be no evening service.

There will be no midweek supper on Thursday, but the regular midweek prayer service will be held at 7:45 p. m. in the east parlor. Miss Nell M. Berghout, director of religious education, will be in charge of the meeting. She will discuss the subject, "What It Means to Believe in God."

The Rev. Don Ivan Patch, pastor of the First Congregational Church of Westfield, N. J., will be the guest speaker next Sunday.

Dr. Evans to Discuss Religious Satisfaction.

Dr. Albert Evans, associate minister, will speak on "Religious Satisfaction" tomorrow morning at the New York Avenue Presbyterian Church.

At 8 p. m. the usual evening vesper service will be observed. This service, which is being held every Sunday evening during the summer months, includes the singing of the old gospel hymns and a short meditation delivered by Dr. Evans.

Next Thursday at 8 p. m. Dr. Evans will conduct the usual midweek prayer service.

Former Naval Chaplain To Be Guest Preacher.

The morning and evening worship at the Church of the Pilgrims, on the Parkway, Twenty-second and P streets northwest, will be conducted by the minister, the Rev. Andrew Reid Bird, who will have as his guest preacher the Rev. John B. Frazier, former chief of chaplains of the United States Navy.

Dr. Frazier was chaplain on the flagship Olympia under Admiral George Dewey when he entered Manila Bay in 1898, and in 1916 he was appointed the first chief of chaplains of the United States Navy by President Wilson.

During the absence of the pastor several years ago in connection with the building of the new Church of the Pilgrims by Presbyterians throughout the South, Chaplain Frazier occupied the pulpit of the church.

On Thursday at 8 p. m. the Rev. Andrew R. Bird will continue his series of midweek addresses on "Guidance for Every Day Living from the Old Testament Books," speaking on "Jereboam, the Son of Nebat, or the Opportunity of Personal Influence in Every Age."

"Test of Our Religion" Canon Stokes' Subject.

The Rev. Dr. Anson Phelps Stokes, canon of Washington Cathedral, will preach at both the 10:30 a. m. service of morning prayer, holy communion and sermon and the people's evensong at 4 p. m. tomorrow in the Great Choir and Sanctuary.

Dr. Stokes will take for his subject at the morning service "The Text of Our Religion" and at the evensong will speak on the theme, "A Christian Faith for Life's Needs."

There will be a holy communion in Bethlehem Chapel tomorrow at 7:30 a. m. Evening prayer will be said at 4 p. m. in the Great Choir and Sanctuary each week day at 4 p. m.

Organized pilgrimages take place each week day on the hour and half hour from 8:30 a. m. to 5 p. m. These pilgrimages are under the direction of students from the Theological Seminaries. These students are at the Cathedral also on Sundays.

Christian Science Churches.

"Love" is the subject of the lesson-sermon in all the Churches of Christ, Scientist, tomorrow. The golden text is from Isaiah 49:13: "Sing, O heaven; and be joyful, O earth; and break forth into singing, O mountains: for the Lord hath comforted his people, and will have mercy upon his afflicted."

Among the citations which comprise the lesson-sermon is the following from the Bible:

"Ye have heard that it hath been said, An eye for an eye, and a tooth for a tooth: But I say unto you, that ye resist not evil: but whosoever shall smite thee on thy right cheek, turn to him the other also." (Matthew 5:38, 39.)

The lesson-sermon also includes the following passage from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy: "Jesus' life proved, divinely and scientifically, that God is Love, whereas priest and rabbi affirmed God to be a mighty potentate, who loves and hates. The Jewish theology gave no hint of the unchanging love of God. Rabbi and priest taught the Mosaic law, which said: 'An eye for an eye,' and 'Whoso sheddeth man's blood, by man shall his blood be shed.' Not so did Jesus, the new executor for God, present the divine law of Love, which blesses even those that curse it." (Pages 42 and 30.)

Fresh Vegetables Acquire Added Appeal in Special Recipes

Old Favorites Taste Better In New Guises

Okra and Eggplant Tempt Palate in Savory New Dishes.

By the Meanderer.

When The Meanderer was a very little girl she used to hear about the Vegetable Kingdom. She often wondered where it was and who lived there, but no one ever told her. She pictured it as a flat, green country beyond a range of inaccessible mountains. She was sure the inhabitants must be carrot and beet-like people running around on toothpick legs. There was a King Corn of Maizean descent attended by thousands of faithful potato slaves. His bodyguard were the military Brussel Sprouts. She felt certain all the criminals in the kingdom were members of the spinach family.

The vitamin C in vegetables is very easily lost in cooking, and the vitamin B is often affected by heat and water. To avoid nutritive losses as far as possible, certain rules should be formulated to govern their preparation:

Cook vegetables only long enough to make them tender.

Cook them in as little water as possible.

Baking in the skin is an ideal way, from the standpoint of food values, to cook potatoes and squash.

There are a variety of fresh vegetables on the market today which lend themselves to unusual and delectable dishes. Three of the home-grown species sell at unusually low prices: Eggplants, 10 cents each; tomatoes, 5 cents a pound; cucumbers (large size), 5 cents each.

The eggplant should appeal to your sympathy. For years it has undergone cruel abuse. It is commonly cut into thin slices, covered with egg and bread crumbs and fried. In this way the rich eggplant taste is completely lost. Try eggplant hors d'oeuvres and you will be struck by the really delicious flavor of the vegetable.

Eggplant Hors d'Oeuvres.

1 eggplant, 6 stalks of celery, 6 chives, 8 tablespoons butterfat, salt, pepper.

Peel eggplant and cut in thick slices. Heat a little butter in a frying pan. Saute the eggplant until tender, adding butter as needed. When browned on both sides, put a slice on each serving plate. Keep hot, sprinkle with salt and pepper. Top with mixture of minced celery and chives.

Cucumbers and tomatoes are always summer delights. Their fresh, cooling tastes endear them to salad artists as well as patrons of other culinary combinations. An unusual and delectable dish is the saute cucumber and tomato.

Cut the cucumbers in thick slices and brown on both sides in butter. Sprinkle with salt. Slice the tomato and put on top. Cover and simmer until done. Just before serving add dash of cayenne.

Spinach has been victimized by slanderous rumors. Mere mention of its name is likely to call up wry faces and pronounced "ughs!" The old spinach joke of our childhood lingers—"Do you like spinach? Why not?"

If mothers never prepared it, and doctors never recommended it, and it never appeared on diet lists, what a delicacy it might become! There's a chance yet. Try a new spinach dish, such as—

Spinach in Cream.

Two pounds spinach, 4 tablespoons butter, 4 tablespoons of thick cream, salt, pepper.

Plunge spinach into boiling water. Cook five minutes and drain. Melt butter, heat spinach in melted butter, add cream. Serve at once.

Mention of the South conjures up visions of cotton fields, peach blossoms, and stately old magnolia trees, memories of barbecues, peanut "bilins" and okra stew.

Ah, that okra stew! When the Meanderer saw all the baskets of okra fresh on the market she succumbed to temptation Buying a pound for 20 cents, she carried it home, dug out the old recipe, and prepared a bit of Southern fare.

Southern Okra Stew.

1 quart okra
3 large green peppers
1 large onion
4 tablespoons butter
2 large tomatoes
½ teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper
Croutons

Melt the butter and brown the sliced onion. Add peppers cut in large pieces. Cook for a few minutes. Add slices of skinned tomato and then the sliced okra. Season, cover the dish and cook until okra is tender. Add a few tablespoons of hot water from time to time if okra seems dry. Sprinkle with fresh dill minced. Cover dish with layer of croutons and put under the boiler to brown.

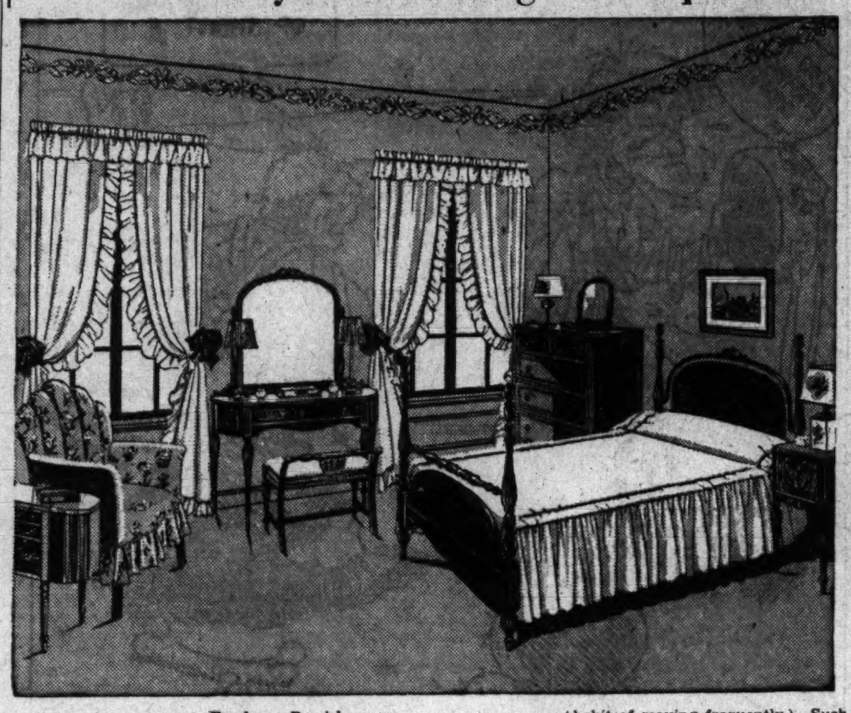
Bedroom Suites of No Definite Period Now So Popular That They're Becoming a Group All of Their Own



By Amos Parrish.

New York, July 28.—"But what if I don't want a colonial bedroom, or an eighteenth century bedroom, or a bedroom of any definite period?" says many a woman as she looks at the period furnishings shown everywhere. And then she's led to a suite as you see in the sketch.

Simple, graceful, belonging to no set scheme of decoration, this kind of a suite is getting to be so popular that it's forming a large nonperiod group of its own. The only period earmarks are found in the fluted columns, the legs, and the posts of the bed, which show a Sheraton influence.

Goes Anywhere.

But you could quite safely put it in practically any type of room. (A good feature if you're in the habit of moving frequently.) Such a suite, too, goes well with many different color schemes. Depending, of course, on whether you choose it in walnut or mahogany. And because of its adaptability, you can change your whole room idea from time to time . . . have it very simple or more elaborate as the fancy strikes you.

We have shown five pieces of one nonperiod suite . . . bed, chest, dressing table, bench and night table. Notice the comfortable arrangement . . . both dressing pieces suitably lighted by day or by night.

The mirror on the man's chest of drawers is a convenient addition that many women overlook. That, with the lamp beside it, helps him to get that four-in-hand perfect to the last crease.

The little chintz chair takes away the stiff effect that so many all-wood pieces might give. And the sewing table beside it will also hold a lamp and books.

If we could have pictured the whole room, you would see two more pieces belonging to the suite . . . a bureau opposite the bed, and a straight chair against the wall near the doors.

Leaflet on Mantels.

If your bedroom is lucky enough to have a fireplace, of course you would begin your decorating right there and group the furniture in harmonious relation to it. The mantel arrangements depend upon its type, and we can help you out if you're stumped about what to do with it. We have a leaflet which tells how to decorate several different kinds of mantels . . . applying to other rooms as well as bedrooms. To send for it, use the coupon as directed below.

Teach Children To Like Pets at An Early Age

Developing Friendship for Animals Then Prevents Unmeant Cruelty.

By Alice Clarissa Richmond.

Sam, at the age of 4, was in the habit of teasing the cat. At last one day, after a particularly trying session, the cat turned and scratched him severely. There followed screams from Sam, application of antiseptic and the injunction, "You'd better let that cat alone."

But Sam does not obey the warning. He is now definitely resentful of the cat, and determined to be revenged for the injury to his skin and also to his pride. From now on, however, he will be careful not to let himself be hurt, and his teasing will in time turn to torture, as he learns more and more ingenious ways of injuring the animal while it is helpless.

A child torments an animal, not as a rule with any malice in his heart, but out of a simple curiosity as to what will happen.

If he is allowed to continue unchecked, he is pretty sure to be turned on by his victim, and fear or dislike of animals is very often the result.

The time to cure the child of this unconscious cruelty is when he is very small. Develop in him a strong feeling of kinship and friendship with animals, awaken his sympathy for them, talk to him about them as if they were human beings, call his attention to their little peculiarities and amusing ways.

There is no need to insist on personal contact between children and animals, nor does a boy need a dog or cat of his own to have a strong feeling of affection for dogs and cats in general.

The humanity thus developed is, of course, advantageous to the animals with which he comes in contact, but more important is the fact that the wider sympathy and broader viewpoint given the child will make of him a more understanding human being.

The average Oklahoma taxpayer paid 25 per cent less ad valorem taxes in 1933 than two years ago.

Fresh Peaches Top Off Prize Winning Cake

Mrs. Pearce P. Smith Is Awarded $5 for Her Shortcake Recipe.

The recipe winning this week's Washington Post prize of $5 has been awarded to Mrs. Pearce P. Smith, 525 Roxboro place northwest, for her Dixie shortcake.

Dixie Shortcake.

2 cups flour
½ cup vegetable shortening
½ teaspoon salt
½ cup milk (about)
1 quart sliced peaches (well sweetened)
Whipped cream

Add salt to sifted flour, cut in shortening, then add milk to make a soft dough that can be rolled out quite thin. Cut into large rounds with a cooky cutter, prick with a fork and bake in a hot oven about 10 minutes, or until a golden brown. Butter lightly while hot; place a round of pastry on a dessert plate, cover with sliced peaches, then another round of pastry, more peaches and garnish with whipped cream.

All ingredients purchased at Sanitary grocery.

What Today Means

"Leo."

IF July 29 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 8:45 a. m. to 10 a. m., from 4 p. m. to 4:35 p. m. and from 6:50 p. m. to 7:45 p. m. The danger periods are from 7:30 a. m. to 8:10 a. m., from 12:10 p. m. to 1:10 p. m. and from 10:30 p. m. to 11:30 p. m.

Influences operating on this date will tend to make it difficult to get at the truth of any troubling situation. In attempting the consummation of a business deal you may confront a barrier that will tie up the situation for a period of short duration. Children will be inclined to evade the truth, and between lovers you will find a generally unsettled feeling.

The child born on this July 29 will quite possibly march along steadily through life with few if any interruptions until he has attained considerable age. Things will not come to him with great ease, but by steadiness and persistence he will get there. He must be careful not to let discouragement creep into his life because of any petty reverses he may suffer.

If July 29 is the date of your birth, you are more than likely a person who can not long remain in repose. Active and possessed of great energy, you will attain great heights if you are properly directed. Much of your success will come as a natural result of the training and good care you had when you were young. You are a person of considerable force and you like to have power and wield it. You know how to deal wisely with people so as to bring out the best that is in them and when it comes to caring for the best interests of any group you are farseeing enough to be able to lead them rightly toward that goal. People are inclined to fear you on first meeting; you give the appearance of being very stern and not too human. On longer acquaintance they come to appreciate and love your honesty, sincerity and loyalty.

Born on July 29, there is a great deal of good in your makeup which must express itself. It is quite likely that you will turn to one of the arts as a means of self-expression. Music proves stimulating to you, and if you do not actually follow it and work at it yourself, you will at least derive much pleasure and benefit from the creative work of others. Money means a good deal to you. You value it sanely and rightly and use it to good purpose.

Well Cooked Tender Squash May Be Served Many Ways

Summer Varieties Must Be Really Young and Tender to Satisfy Exacting Epicure; Expert Outlines Way to Prepare Young Vegetables to Best Advantage.

By Ann Barrett.

Patty pan, goose neck and zucchini (the last is Italian) are the fascinating names of three best known summer squash. Any of them (if you get them young and tender, cook off the water and season them well with butter or cream) makes delicate eating. More often than not, while the season is on, they have place of honor on the daily vegetable plate of Ramon Novarro.

By young, I mean with skin so tender that a tap of your finger nail can easily pierce it. When a squash is that tender you cook it with both the skin and seeds, and the flavor is just twice as good. Cut it up and cook it in boiling water, but use as little as possible, because the squash itself is full of water. Let it cook till all the water cooks off. (Standing it a few minutes in a hot oven will help dry it out.) Then season well with salt, pepper and either cream or butter. Let it stand in these seasonings in a warm place till thoroughly flavored.

This is summer squash in its simplest form. But the flavor is so delicate it combines well with onion, green pepper, corn, cheese, ham, bacon and many other favorite foods, as in the following recipe, for example:

Stuffed Patty Pan Squash.

For this you'll need a large patty pan squash. Remove the top and scoop out the seeds. Then cook the squash in boiling salted water about 20 minutes. Meanwhile combine 2 cups fresh corn cut from the cob with ½ teaspoon salt, ⅛ teaspoon pepper, 2 tablespoons sugar, 2 tablespoons chopped green pepper, 3 tablespoons chopped cooked bacon and ¼ cup butter. Drain the squash when done, fill it with this mixture, set it in a shallow baking dish in hot water to half cover. Lay 3 strips of raw bacon over the top and bake in a 350 oven till tender (about 45 minutes).

Scalloped Squash.

Here's another good number—scalloped squash with minced ham. For this, use about 2 pounds of squash. If it is young and tender just cut it in small pieces and cook till done. Drain well, add 2 tablespoons minced cooked ham, 2 tablespoons cream, 2 tablespoons butter and pepper and salt to taste. Turn it into a buttered baking dish and cover with 1 cup buttered crumbs. Bake at 350 F. till brown.

Zucchini Fritte.

If you favor crispy foods here's a recipe you'll want to try—fried zucchini. Choose long, thin zucchini, weighing about 1 pound each. Wash, peel, cut in slices a little less than ½ inch. Sprinkle with salt and let stand an hour. Then drain, but do not dry. Then dip slices in flour, shake off excess flour and fry the slices in deep fat (hot enough to brown cube of bread in 60 seconds). Drain on unglazed paper and serve very hot.

Women Out-Talk Men But Are Better Sleuths

Chicago, July 28 (AP).—Women talk more and say less than do men, according to W. H. Sterling, of Berth, and that makes them good detectives.

Sterling, here for the World Association of Detectives, explained that "a woman's conversation is usually deceiving."

"They talk a lot about trivial matters, but on really important subjects they are more close-mouthed than men. Women detectives, therefore, keep secrets better than men do," he said.

New Baby Set.

A new feeding set for the baby is made in the shape of garden tools. The spoon consists of the spade, the fork is a miniature rake, the pusher, of course, is a hoe, and the cup is a tiny watering pot, even to its spout.

Illinois farmers produce almost 137,000 dozens of eggs annually.

Miss Perkins Visits Steel Mill Workers

Has Lunch in Cafeteria, Matches Superintendent for Check.

Pittsburgh, July 28 (AP).—America's first woman Cabinet member—Miss Frances Perkins, Secretary of Labor—went into the Nation's largest steel mill today to talk to the men who make steel.

In the homestead works of the Carnegie Steel Co., she got first-hand information to aid the Government in its effort to draft a code of fair competition for the industry. Hearings on the code open in Washington Monday.

Grimy, perspiring men who strip to the waist the better to withstand the intense heat of the furnaces and molten metal, told her what they think of wages and the hours they work.

The Secretary said some of the men have an understanding of the proposed code; others do not know what it is.

Drooping from the blinding heat and deafened by the roar and clank of the mills, Miss Perkins emerged glad to get a full breath of cooler air.

She found herself surrounded by steel workers. She shook hands with several and asked many questions, all of them relating to wages and hours of work.

One sweat-streaked workman told her:

"I hope this (your visit) is going to help us back to work."

The Secretary asked Steve Yedno, a shearman, who has worked at the mill a long time:

"How many hours a week do you work?"

"About 25," he replied.

"How much do you make?"

Stroking his "handle-bar" moustache, Ledno said, reflectively:

"Well, I don't know. I can't tell you until I get my pay envelope."

At lunch time, Miss Perkins ate in the mill cafeteria. She had a light meal of fish, peas and ice tea. She "matched" J. E. Lose, general superintendent of the plant, for the lunch and won. The check was 65 cents.

After lunch, Miss Perkins visited the Duquesne plant of the U. S. Steel Corporation. She talked to workers there and her experiences were much the same as they were at the Homestead works.

Total oil production for Michigan the first half of 1933 was 2,803,950 barrels.

The Blanket Code.

A wave of enthusiasm for the industrial recovery program seems to be sweeping over the country. Reports from some cities tell of business men clamoring for blanks to manifest their cooperation with the Government's program of spreading work and raising wages. More than 15,000 pledges of cooperation have been received at the White House. It is apparent that a large number of business and industrial establishments are eager to join in the N. R. A. campaign.

The program has not yet been carried far enough, however, to give a convincing indication of its outcome. The number of enthusiastic employers who have responded to President Roosevelt's plea is small in comparison with the 5,000,000 establishments which this campaign is designed to reach. Ardent supporters of a movement of this kind are inclined to shout their acceptance from the house tops. Others are still confused by the rapid march of the N. R. A. campaign and some who fear that they will not be able to comply with its requirements may be expected to remain silent. The administration will be fortunate, indeed, if it can take advantage of this wave of enthusiasm without antagonizing those enterprises which find it impractical to cast their lot with the N. R. A.

Any careful observer must realize that the blanket code can not be universally accepted. The United States has gone through a perilous experience in the last three years. Thousands of business establishments have failed. Others continue to operate under great difficulties. In many instances severe economies have been essential to avoid bankruptcy. This is particularly true of many small establishments without adequate capital reserves. It may be impossible for some of these concerns to remain in business under the minimum wage and maximum hours provisions of the N. R. A. code.

In some cases it may not be practicable for employers to hire the additional number of skilled workmen that would be needed under the blanket code. Officials in Washington will understand this difficulty. The Civil Service Commission, for example, has just announced that its 402 employees in Washington must work a 44-hour week without extra pay to keep abreast of its activities. Under similar circumstances private employers are expected to shorten hours and put more people to work without reducing wages. But many of them may not be any more able to comply with this ideal than is the Civil Service Commission.

In an undertaking of this kind it is well to lay all the emphasis upon positive enthusiasm. Nothing could be accomplished by dividing the country into two hostile camps or by destroying through adverse publicity many small business establishments that are struggling for survival. When the response to this plea for united action is more fully known, officials may decide that the interests of recovery can best be served by letting voluntary cooperation carry as far as it will, without exerting undue pressure upon concerns which find it necessary to move toward recovery at a slower pace.

Uncle Sam's Cotton Deal.

The combined effect of two laws designed to benefit the farmer has put the Government in a peculiar position. It is buying cotton futures—the December price is about 11 cents per pound—to satisfy optional agreements with farmers to sell cotton at 6 cents per pound.

A large quantity of cotton was acquired by the late Farm Board at an enormous loss to the Government. Much of this cotton is still in the hands of the Government, but it is not taking advantage of the current prices to recoup its former losses. Under the terms of the agricultural adjustment act this cotton is being sold to growers who agree to destroy part of their present crop. Farmers will pay only 6 cents per pound for this cotton, which enables them to reap a large profit at present prices. This profit is considered part of their compensation for cooperating with the Government in the acreage reduction campaign.

In addition to the cotton held by the Farm Board, the Government is in possession of about 788,000 bales held as collateral for seed and crop production loans by the Farm Credit Administration. The law provides that this cotton also should be taken over by the Secretary of Agriculture. It was estimated that this cotton plus the Government's other holdings would be sufficient to supply all the options signed by growers.

When the crop production loans were made cotton was accepted as collateral up to 9½ cents per pound. Since cotton is now selling above that figure, it has been decided to release it to farmers for sale. Farmers will then be able to pay off their loans to the Government, but the Department of Agriculture may not have enough cotton to meet its obligations to farmers under the optional agreements. The exact amount needed for this purpose has not yet been determined.

As a result of this situation the Department of Agriculture is buying cotton futures. A purchase of 80,000 bales has been made, and it is estimated that a total of 700,000 bales will be needed. Officials are said to be planning to buy futures in about the same volume as cotton now held for collateral is sold, with the view of preserving a balance on the market.

In effect these transactions are merely a conversion of actual cotton holdings into futures. But they serve to emphasize the extent to which the Government is using public money to aid the farmer. The cotton which is now being acquired must be delivered over to farmers at not much more than one-half of the purchase price. The difference will be made up out of the $100,000,000 which Congress appropriated for administrative expenses and benefit payments under the adjustment act.

Dealing With Cuba.

The political ties which bind the United States and Cuba together are unique. Cuba owes its independence to the United States, and by treaty and by its own constitution it is bound to accept intervention by the United States whenever such action is necessary to preserve Cuban independence. By the same token, Cuba's independence is regarded as a fact by the United States, and not as a polite fiction. The relations of the two governments are conducted as between independent equals. It would be the height of absurdity for the United States to interfere in Cuban affairs while recognizing Cuba as an independent state.

In undertaking the delicate task of attempting to compose the differences between the Cuban government and disaffected elements in the island, Ambassador Welles took pains to state that he was acting as an individual, and unofficially. The United States Government assumed no responsibility for his action, although of course it was in sympathy with his desire to bring about tranquillity in Cuba.

It appears now that the remarks made by Ambassador Welles on Thursday evening to representatives of the Cuban government and the opposition were hastily construed to mean that he spoke officially, not as an unofficial friend of Cuba, but as representative of President of the United States. His language, carefully scrutinized, does not warrant this construction, although he stated what all men know to be true, that President Roosevelt cherishes hope of peace and tranquillity in Cuba.

Obviously, the United States Government can not assume responsibility for unofficial efforts by an American to reconcile the Cubans; nor can it consistently instruct its envoy to undertake such a task in his official capacity. It is one thing for an exceptionally well-qualified friend of Cuba to offer his unofficial services in negotiating between the Cuban government and opposition elements, and an entirely different thing for the United States to interfere in Cuba's domestic politics. It could not with propriety recognize any element or faction in Cuba. To do so would be a disparagement of the government of Cuba and a virtual denial of Cuba's independence.

Throughout the United States there is steadfast friendship for Cuba, the foundling which was set upon the road to independent nationality by American arms. The desire to avoid meddling, to say nothing of armed intervention, seems to be universal in this country. Ambassador Welles appears to be conducting his negotiations with tact and prospects of success. Alarmist reports that he has injected his Government into the Cuban situation are not confirmed by the language of his appeal to the Cubans.

Unemployed Wanderers.

Special attention is being given by the Emergency Relief Administration to transient unemployed persons. There has been a tendency among the States to neglect these distressed people. State agencies have been hard pressed to take care of their local people in distress. It has been especially difficult for them to provide ways and means of relieving homeless strangers.

In view of this fact Congress made a special allotment of funds for relief of the transient unemployed. These funds are now available to any State which makes suitable provision for handling this type of social work. Officials are urged to make an immediate survey of their needs in this field; to set up adequate relief organizations and then to request funds from Washington. The problem of caring for migrating jobless individuals and families is expected to become more acute this winter.

All States share the responsibility for relief work of this kind, because each contributes to the army of transients roaming over the country looking for work. Consequently, the Federal Relief Administration is asking each State to help homeless citizens from other States, in consideration for similar treatment of its own citizens in distant parts.

If the plans of Harry L. Hopkins, Federal Relief Administrator, are carried out this aid will consist of more than food, shelter and clothing. In some cases it is contemplated that destitute families or individuals will be transported to their places or residence. In other cases local work for them will be sought. Considerable importance must also be attached to "preventive programs."

The migration of large numbers of unemployed persons is not a salutary condition. In most instances the prospects of obtaining relief are better in one's own community. Wandering about the country often exhausts whatever means job seekers have left and seldom improves their outlook for work in periods of depression. Disappointment and unrest resulting from a fruitless search for work in strange places often leads to crime. It would be well to lay emphasis upon preventive measures in handling the problem of the transient unemployed.

The Textile High School.

An interesting example of what can be done in the field of vocational training is to be seen in the Textile High School of New York City.

This school carries the pupil through all phases of a single industry. As in olden times, he is taught to weave by weaving, to paint by painting, and so on. The seven-story school building is like a well-planned village devoted to an industry. In the basement are huge cotton weaving machines. On other floors are laboratories for testing dyes, art rooms, craft shops, a photographic studio and other departments. The school slogan, "Learn by doing," is exemplified in practice.

Many youths who have been problem cases in regular academic schools have become interested and efficient students in the textile school, according to the principal, Dr. William Dooley. The motor-minded pupil finds ready accommodation here. One problem youth who was sent to the school had refused to study, and covered his books with sketches. He was put in the art department and soon became one of the star pupils. Graduates of the school have immediate earning power.

The success of Dr. Dooley's innovation indicates that there is a definite place for such vocational schools in this country. However, the fact must not be lost sight of that such schools are adapted to only a part of the country's children, their work being to supplement the regular high school rather than to supplant it.

Al Capone has been indicted in Chicago for racketeering, and the State's Attorney will make a strenuous effort to get him out of the penitentiary to send him to jail.

Soviet Leaders.

By Roger Shaw, in the Review of Reviews.

Theoretically the supreme power in Soviet Russia is the Central Executive Committee of the Congress of Soviets, which corresponds roughly to the Parliament of any western country. Actually, so strong is the Communist party (the only legal political organization) that party officials have attained a far more important position than have the government officials.

The supreme power in Russia is the Politbureau of the Communist party. Its original membership consisted, in the revolutionary days, of Lenin (who passed away in 1924), Sverdlov, Trotsky, Kamenev and Zinoviev.

The present Politbureau consists of Stalin, who is party secretary; Ordjonikidze, in charge of heavy industry; Andreyev, in charge of transportation; Voroshilov, who heads the army and navy; Kalinin, President of the U. S. S. R.; Kossior, party secretary for the Ukrainian Republic; Kaganovich, party secretary for Moscow; Molotov, premier of the U. S. S. R.; Kuibyshev, who heads the state planning commission, and Kirov, party secretary for Leningrad (once called St. Petersburg). Litvinov, the talented foreign minister, is not a Politbureau member. He is not an "insider."

Stalin is a Georgian (though not of an "old southern family"), Kaganovich is Jewish, Ordjonikidze is Georgian, Kalinin represents the typical Russian peasant, Kossior is a Ukrainian; Kirov is said to be of Finnish antecedents. What more can the League of Nations offer in the way of polyglot leadership? Lenin hailed from the petty nobility of the Middle Volga region.

Stalin lives in two rooms in the Kremlin with his two children. He is a puritanical personage, once educated for the priesthood; tall, olive-skinned, black-haired, altogether Asiatic. He is no demagogue like Hitler and Mussolini, no latter-day saint such as Lenin was esteemed. He is a saturnine deskman who dislikes appearing in public, and makes no gesture. Before the revolution Stalin was captured and exiled six times. His real name (not his revolutionary nickname) is Josef Djugashvili. Above all, he is not a dictator. The Politbureau is a collective dictatorship which rules the all-powerful Communist party. Stalin is a "boss," in the American or Tammany Hall sense.

Kalinin is an old man of the rustic Uncle Sam type, plus spectacles. He likes to shock tinselly British diplomats with his old clothes. He is greatly beloved by simple countrymen; taught himself to read and write; never went to school. He has a half-dozen grandchildren, yet is reputed still to have an eye for the ladies. Old Papa Michael has a typically American detestation for evening clothes.

Molotov is very close to Stalin. He wears a pince-nez and well-made clothes. He is a strutter, and not popular with the older Communists.

Kaganovich did not join the party till 1911. Younger than most, he has the best brains in the Politbureau, a little black beard a la Lenin, experience as a union leader, councilman, guerrilla. He, too, is extremely close to Stalin, the "man of steel." Either Molotov or Kaganovitch will probably figure as Lenin's successor. Kaganovitch is the writer's surmise.

Litvinov does not live in the Kremlin—the Communist Park avenue. He lives in a small four-room apartment with his aristocratic English wife and two children. Mrs. Litvinov is a real character, an intellectual, and formerly "first female comrade" of the U. S. S. R.

Comrade General Voroshilov was described to the writer by a friend who had interviewed him at length: "I thought, you know, that a Communist general would be a sort of Spartacus or Daniel Boone—a simple crusader type. I was mistaken. A Communist general differs in no way from a Wellington, a Ludendorff, a Foch. Militarism is militarism, whether it's red or white, proletarian or bourgeois or feudal. He is a rather stupid man, devoted to Stalin, with the dull bulldog tenacity which characterizes the Mars of this world."

Restoration.

We're getting back our confidence!
We're coming out of gloom!
We're working in the gardens where the flowers of summer bloom!
We've had our fit of dreading, and we're on the road again
To the better days before us and the old-time faith in men.

We're getting back our courage!
We have struggled and we've failed.
We have seen our treasures vanish;
we've been bitterly assailed;
But our heads are high this morning, and in field and shop and mart
There is good old rugged honor, with the brave old fighting heart.

We're getting back our mettle; you can sense it everywhere.
There's a surging of the spirit 'gainst
the sweeping tide of care.
Now we're done with dismal doubting, on the high road and the low
Men are working for the future with the faith of long ago.

Another Letter From a Bald-Headed Dad to His Red-Headed Daughter

By Robert Quillen

MY dear Louise: Like other youngsters of your age, you desire above all things to be free.

Because your parents don't always approve of your plans, you feel as though you were hedged about with restrictions. And you look forward to some indefinite change in the scheme of things that will relieve you of all hindrances and leave you as free as the birds.

I'm sorry to spoil your dream, my dear, but you will learn the hard truth some day and learning it now may save you from many disappointments.

There is no freedom for anybody. Even the birds are slaves to necessity. And we poor mortals wear chains of one kind or another from the cradle to the grave.

You hear people talk about "free will," but that also is a myth. We think our will is free, but there are invisible chains upon it that limit our choice without our knowledge.

Take the case of a man who belongs to the political party and the church of his fathers. He absorbed his politics and his religion from his environment.

If you should ask him about it, he would say: "I remain in this party and this church of my own free will. I could quit them tomorrow if I wished to do so."

But he can't wish to do so. His mind is set and he has lost the capacity to choose.

Now take your case. You enjoy the typical American dishes, fried chicken and ice cream. A Chinese prefers shark fins and devil fish. If you were a newcomer from Mars, free to make choice, you might prefer those things, too. But your choice is already made. It was wished on you by your home environment, and now you can't change it because your taste has jelled.

Suppose some person you trust fills your mind with vicious untruths concerning some boy. If you meet the boy later, are you free to choose whether you shall like or dislike him? You are not. Your mind is biased by false evidence.

Your choice of conduct is determined by the material stored in your mind. And you can't make any decision except within the limits fixed by that material.

Everything you read, hear and see is stored in your mind and later helps to form your opinions and decide your conduct. It bosses you. You are enslaved by it and obey unwittingly, as though you were hypnotized.

Examine ideas carefully before you give them a place in your mind. Once accepted, they will control you as the driver controls a car. If you must be a slave, choose a master who won't humiliate and shame you. Love,

DAD.

Political Comment

State and Federal Balance.

Kansas City Star.

There are and must be limits to the absorptive powers radiating from Washington. An extreme development of Federalism would be as disastrous as the building up of 48 petty nationalities within a single Nation. At some happy dividing line the balance must be struck between States' rights and Governmental prerogatives and practice. Recently the scales have seemed to be tipping toward the States in the matter of the eighteenth amendment and all it embodied. But a far heavier weight at the other end is the national recovery program and much of the legislation at the late special session; also, much, it might be added, that is to come in the near future. The balancing process will be continued for some time. The governors and others nearer home will have to watch the States' rights portion of it. The other, or the Federal part of it, will not need preserving so much as it will need curbing.

Labor Organizing.

Philadelphia Public Ledger.

A significant development in connection with the industrial control scheme has been the renewed activity in organized labor circles. The rapidity with which workers are being brought into the unions is described as unprecedented in the history of American labor.

In New York City alone, it is reported, there are now more than 1,000,000 members. The prediction is made that when all the industrial codes are completed there will be 5,000,000 members of labor unions, exclusive of the company unions on which the American Federation of Labor looks with disfavor.

Showing Results.

Cincinnati Enquirer.

Federal intervention to put an end to organized kidnaping, made possible under a recent law, is beginning to show results.

Because of the ease with which kidnapers evade county and State officers some form of Federal aid was necessary to combat this vicious racket, which has developed so greatly in late years. The present law makes possible a large extension of Federal activity. The Nation-wide scope of the Department of Justice is an important feature of the new campaign against kidnaping.

The Lash for Gangsters.

Brooklyn Eagle.

Medieval punishments for crime are not much favored in Great Britain, and we think the prisons which Charles Reade excoriated have generally been supplanted by institutions worthy of the approval of the modern penologist. But the whipping post, ltd., is retained for certain species of offenses. Americans will not wonder that it is resorted to in sentencing two men who are convicted of the first hold-up robbery with sawed-off shotguns that Scotland Yard has ever recorded.

One prisoner suffers 18 lashes with the "cat." The other gets off with 12. In each case the experience is likely to be remembered, and despite relative mildness it should have a lot of deterrency.

The Once Over.

By H. I. Phillips.

THE SUMMER COTTAGE PORCH SCREENER AND HANDY MAN'S CODE.

(As approved by the National Recovery Administration Board.)

1—The terms, "screen finder," "screen patcher" and "screen placer," include any and all red-faced, exasperated married men with barked knuckles, and in a mood of marked irritability, fussing around summer cottages.

2—Any married men submitting themselves to the annual ordeal of trying to discover, repair, distribute and affix the screens to a summer cottage may participate in this code by subscribing to the following conditions:

(A)—That all husbands shall have the right to organize against unfair and unreasonable demands with regard to opening the cottage, putting in the screens, &c.

(B)—That their wives shall allow them to comply with the maximum hours of labor approved by the President's Board of Screen Control.

(C)—That no husband shall be expected to devote more than 24 hours a day to screening the house.

(D)—That no screens shall be put in, fixed, shifted or handled in, any way before breakfast, during the lunch hour or after dark.

(E)—That the responsibility for a bedroom screen falling out of the window with a crash in a thunderstorm shall be fixed by the Board of Screen Control and not by any female member of the household.

GENERAL PROVISIONS.

1—The fact that a husband has no natural ability as a handy-man-around-the-house shall not be held to subject him to contempt or derision.

2—A wife shall give reasonable aid and assistance in discovering where the screens were put when the cottage was closed last year and shall in no case take the intolerant attitude, "I have nothing to do with screens, Philo. That's your job."

3—The matter of repairing a screen shall be left to the judgment of a husband and his decision to put in a patch instead of a new section shall be final.

4—There shall be no appeal from his decision as to whether a hole in a screen is large enough to admit a fly or not.

5—In cases where a husband is having one helluva job trying to dope out which screen goes into which window and why, he shall be entitled to extreme quiet during the period of chaos.

6—Whenever a husband shall decide that putting in the screens is an intolerable nuisance and that it is better to sell the cottage and go to a hotel, his judgment shall be final.

DISTURBING THOUGHT.

Indians Got the Better of the Bargain When They Sold Manhattan for $24.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Ever since the Indians sold Manhattan Island in 1624 to the white man for $24, the white man has been bragging about the great bargain he obtained. The assessed valuation of Manhattan Island in 1926 was $7,154,543,958. I think the Indian got the better of the bargain, for he received his $24 and the deal was closed. Ever since the property came into the hands of the white man he has been paying taxes on it and will continue to pay taxes on it so long as this country remains free and independent. I would like to have some one thoroughly familiar with higher mathematics sit down and figure just what this great bargain, Manhattan Island, has really cost the white man in taxation. I will guarantee that the Indian slipped a load off his shoulders when he sold it for $24 cold cash.

Farm Produce Shows Largest Gain in Years

Index in July Is 12 Points Higher Than June; Wheat Leads.

(U. S. Department of Agriculture.)

Prior to the commodity price break last week, the index of prices of farm products showed the largest monthly gain in 16 years. The index was 76 on July 15, or 12 points above the June 15 figure, the sharp advance being induced by further depreciation of the dollar, generally poor crop prospects, increased cotton mill consumption, and expectations of a substantial reduction in cotton acreage, according to the Bureau of Agricultural Economics.

Grain prices gained most during the month ended July 15, and registered an advance of 31 points above prices on June 15.

The price index for fruits and vegetables rose 29 points, cotton and cottonseed 15 points, chickens and eggs 12 points and dairy products 6 points. The index for meat animals showed no change.

All Commodities Higher.

At 76, the July 15 index for all farm commodities was 19 points higher than the index on the same date a year ago. Comparing this July 15 with last, the index for grains was up 52 points, cotton and cottonseed 43 points, fruits and vegetables 20 points, dairy products 8 points and chickens and eggs 2 points. The index of meat animal prices was down 6 points from a year ago.

Hog prices failed to make their usual seasonal advance from June 15 to July 15 on account of poor crop prospects and advancing feed prices. Heavy storage accumulations of pork products have also favored the retention of local market prices of hogs at their June level, says the bureau.

Corn prices made a substantial gain, and the hog-corn ratio for the United States dropped sharply to 7.2 as of mid-July compared with 9.9 in mid-June. It was the smallest hog-corn ratio recorded since July, 1924. The bureau says that farmers sold their corn readily at the higher prices and that these heavy receipts have resulted in material additions to stocks at primary markets.

Returns from Wheat.

Wheat was yielding farmers 86.9 cents a bushel in local markets on July 15, or nearly 50 per cent more than on June 15, and almost 2½ times as much as prices on July 15, a year ago. The advance during the month was influenced by unfavorable prospects for the 1933 spring wheat crop, certainty of an extremely short winter to reduce the 1934 wheat acreage.

Cotton prices advanced 22 per cent during the month ended July 15, the local market price on the latter date being 10.6 cents a pound, and the highest price paid to farmers since August, 1930. Factors in the advance were a high rate of domestic mill activity, heavy exports, prospects for a material reduction in the cultivated acreage of the current crop and the marked depreciation of the American dollar.

Potato prices more than doubled in local farm markets from June 15 to July 15, averaging 97.9 cents a bushel in mid-July compared with 49.4 in mid-June. The advance was the most rapid recorded for farm products during the month. The United States average farm price of eggs was 13.1 cents a dozen on July 15, up 30 per cent from June 15.

Trade Trends.

(Associated Press.)

Copper—Adjustment of various industries to their codes under the industrial recovery act should be followed by freer buying of the metal, according to some interests in the trade. A moderate amount is said to be passing at 9 cents a pound, the current market.

Jewelry—Trade circles report demand has picked up substantially during the past month and that some firms are making a profit for the first time in two years.

Cotton goods—Sales of sheets, pillow cases, wash goods, blankets and draperies are said to have been stimulated recently by the processing tax which will become generally operative on September 1.

Men's clothing—Warm weather has helped to broaden the movement of tropical worsted, gabardine and linen suits and accessories.

Grocery industry—Trade interests report a continued uptrend in sales of package food products and canned goods.

Leather—Demand for the more popular products is being well sustained at the increased levels of the past month or so. Leading distributors are said to be anticipating the best fall and holiday business in several years.

Pennsylvania Crude Oil Prices Are Increased

Pittsburgh, July 28 (A.P.).—An increase of 15 cents a barrel in the price of Pennsylvania grade crude oil was announced by leading purchasing agencies today.

The new prices:

Pennsylvania grade in southwest Pennsylvania lines, $1.67; Eureka, $1.62; Buckeye, $1.47; Allegany in New York transit lines, $2, and Bradford district, 2.

Other grades unchanged.

Steady Growth Still Continues In U. S. Trade

Business Expands Generally, With Few Loss Signs, Survey Shows.

New York, July 28 (A.P.).—The progressively expanding movement in business and trade, continues with scarcely any signs of the normal midsummer recession, the Dun & Bradstreet trade review said today.

"The strength of the buying movement," asserted the agency, "has proved insensitive to the repercussions of falling commodity and security values.

"The summer lull in retail demand is to be found only in a few isolated districts, and even there the usual decline has been narrowed to almost imperceptible proportions, while industrial schedules are being maintained at a level only slightly under the peak of the current movement.

"Now that industrial codes are beginning to be applied, a recession in output is anticipated to bring it more nearly in balance with consumer purchasing power.

"In the leading industrial indices, there were fewer peaks established this week, although ground previously gained was ceded but fractionally. The business activity barometer, compiled by Dun & Bradstreet, Inc., rose sharply to 72.3, the highest level reached in two years.

"While the tense heat had some retardative influence on the movement of several retail lines, sales generally are ahead of the total for July last year, and the peak seems to be as far distant as it was two months ago.

"The most outstanding gains are being recorded for men's and women's clothing, shoes, staple dry goods, luggage and traveling accessories, furniture and rugs."

Wool Market.

Boston, July 28 (A.P.).—The Commercial Bulletin will say tomorrow:

"There has been a recently good business done in wool this week, although the market has been spotty, some houses getting little or no business. Prices are firm to slightly dearer, especially on medium combing and woolen wools.

"The manufacturers are showing no disposition to force new business pending the approval of the trade code recently submitted to the Government. Such contracts as are being made are subject to adjustment in price in line with the higher costs accruing under the code, if and when approved.

"Foreign markets are generally steady about on the basis of the closing rates at London. Wools out of Liverpool are slightly dearer landed basis, owing to the current higher rates of exchange than those prevailing at the close of the last series.

"Buyers are mostly returning from the West, where comparatively little wool is left and that is held usually at prices which buyers do not care to pay.

"Mohair is rather quiet, but very firm."

The Bulletin will publish the following quotations:

Bond Market Drifts Lower; Bids Scarce

Record Three-tenths Loss as Sales Drop to $11,840,000.

New York, July 28 (A.P.).—The bond market drifted irregularly lower today under the influence of sliding stocks, heavy commodities and a general scarcity of bids.

It was an extremely quiet session despite the fact that sales totaled $11,840,000, par value. The average for 60 domestic corporate loans sagged three-tenths of a point.

While the majority of high grade issues maintained a steady to firm position, the secondary groups were highly mixed. Gains and losses of the more active maturities, however, generally were held to around a point.

Among the comparatively few rail gainers of a point or more were some liens of Baltimore & Ohio, Great Northern, New Haven, Pere Marquette, St. Louis Southwestern and Seaboard Airline. Similar losses were suffered by issues of Canadian Pacific, Central of Georgia, Central Pacific, Chicago & Eastern Illinois, St. Paul, Rock Island, Erie, Northern Pacific and Southern Pacific.

Among the few industrial advances of 1 to 2 points were Hudson Coal 5s, Paramount Public 5½s and St. Joseph Lead 5½s. Losers of 1 or more points among the industrials and utilities included American & Foreign Power, International Telephone, Lackawanna Steel, Postal Telegraph and United Drug.

United States Government securities rallied moderately in dull trading. Foreign obligations were mixed. While loans of Argentina, Finland and some of the Germans recovered 1, to around 2 points, bonds of Brazil, Colombia, France and Norway were heavy. British 5½s firmed fractionally.

Hop Prices Quiet.

New York, July 28 (A.P.).—HOPS—Quiet, unchanged.

Stock Prices Decline As Market Turns Dull

Listless Tone Laid to Holiday Eve; Losses Average 2.1 Points; Sale of 1,390,555 Shares Is Smallest in Weeks.

New York, July 28 (A.P.).—Stocks had a rather heavy but thin and very dull market today.

Facing a holiday tomorrow, stocks were listless. Volume subsided to 1,390,555 shares, the smallest market in weeks, even with allowance for the restricted hours. Professional traders largely stood aside, content to await developments which, some think, may take the form of a "secondary reaction" from the week's recovery. Offerings were light, encouraging a belief that the removal of recent casualties was making satisfactory progress, but buyers were hesitant and the market did little more than drift.

Losses averaged into a net decline of 2.1 points. American Telephone, Republic Steel, National Steel, American Can, Western Union, Union Carbide, Industrial Rayon, U. S. Rubber, Auburn and Columbian Carbon were off in the neighborhood of 2 points. Case and Celanese lost about 3, while for U. S. Steel, Westinghouse, General Motors, General Electric, Sears Roebuck, North American and a number of rails the recession approximated a point. Gold stocks again dragged lower. Tobaccos were fairly steady.

Foreign exchange variations brought numerous explanations, among them the suggestions that Europe was buying American securities, that the continent was bearish on the pound, that speculators had been covering their dollar transactions as the month-end approached, also, Chancellor Chamberlain's statement that the pound was to be linked neither to gold nor to the dollar, was advanced as a possible explanation.

The Dun & Bradstreet mercantile review said the normal midsummer trade recession was "but faintly discernible" and that "the strength of the buying movement has proved insensitive to the repercussions of falling commodity and security values." Undoubtedly the quick rebound made by the speculative markets proved reassuring and there seems to have been a general realization that last week's abrupt deflation was the penalty usually exacted from markets that became overextended.

Indiana Utility Merger Plan Proposed in Offer

Chicago, July 28 (A.P.).—Exchange of one and one-sixth shares of Public Service Co. of Indiana $6 cumulative prior preferred stock for each share of Terre Haute Traction & Light Co. preferred was offered today by the Midland United Co. in its plan to effect a merger of the two subsidiaries.

Bonds.

Prices drifted lower as buying slackened. The session was extremely quiet. Losses averaged three-tenths of a point. Sales totaled $11,840,000.

Curb.

Curb selling dwindled throughout the day. Prices were lower. Sales volume decreased to 279,000 shares.

Wheat.

Prospects of crop relief from heat and drought caused wheat prices to tumble. All grains joined the slump. Winnipeg prices were also down. July wheat sold at 99 cents; May, at $1.09⅞.

Cotton.

Prices declined nearly $2.50 per bale on realizing and liquidation. Recent buyers were blamed. The general market dropped 42 to 48 points. December sold at 10.80; October at 10.60.

Rubber.

Crude futures were irregular. September sold at 7.42 to 7.43; December at 7.86 to 7.90.

Sugar.

Raw sugar was quiet at 3.50. Refined sold at 4.70.

Coffee.

Spot coffee was quiet. Rio No. 7 sold at 7¾; Santos No. 4 at 9.

Silver.

Gold.

Bar gold sold in the United States at $20.67 per ounce; in London, at 124 shillings and 3 pence.

Dollar.

The United States dollar advanced on foreign exchanges. It stood in New York, with reference to other currencies, $4.52 to the English pound; 5.30 cents to the French franc, and 32.35 cents to the German mark.

Banking Group Names Dooley Publicity Head

Better Business Bureau Reelects Addison as Chairman.

By Thomas M. Cahill.

In preparation for the work of its new administrative year, which will witness the convention of the national organization in this city next June, Washington Chapter, American Institute of Banking, announced yesterday its first important committee chairmen.

Robert H. Lacey, cashier Columbia National Bank and president of the local chapter, has appointed Aubrey O. Dooley, an assistant trust officer, Federal-American National Bank & Trust Co., as chairman of the chapter's publicity committee for the new administrative year.

Mr. Dooley, a past president of the local chapter, is ably qualified to fill this important position. He began his journalistic career with the institute as editor of Dollars and Sense, local chapter publication, serving in this capacity from 1926 to 1929. This quarterly magazine of Washington Chapter was awarded a prize as the best chapter publication of the institute during Mr. Dooley's editorship.

Former Prize Winner.

Previously, Mr. Dooley had been chairman of the chapter's publicity committee and it was during a former period of service that he received the institute prize for having secured for the local district more column inches of publicity than any other district. Several years ago he was a member and later chairman of the publicity committee of the national institute.

Mr. Dooley, whose other national institute assignment was as a member of its departmental conference, is a graduate of the standard courses of the local chapter and holds its special certificates for work in the trust functions and public speaking classes.

He has been a member of numerous committees of Washington Chapter and was its president in the administrative year of 1931-1932. It was during his chairmanship of the chapter's educational committee that its first public speaking contest was held and it was represented in the national contest for the A. P. Giannini public speaking prizes offered annually to institute orators. Procurement of the Bank Presidents' Trophy as an award for local public speaking contestants was largely due to his efforts.

Publicity Head.

AUBREY O. DOOLEY, chairman, publility rommittee, Washington Chapter, American Institute of Banking.

Addison Is Reelected.

Francis G. Addison, jr., president of the Security Savings & Commercial Bank, was reelected chairman of the board of trustees of the Better Business Bureau at a meeting of that organization held yesterday at the Raleigh Hotel. Other officers reelected were B. B. Burgunder, president of S. Kann Sons, vice chairman; Y. E. Booker, of Y. E. Booker & Co., treasurer, and R. B. H. Lyon, counsel.

Loft, Inc., reports net sales for the quarter ended June 30, 1933, of $3,272,611.31, and, after charging off depreciation and amortization amounting to $121,533.05, net profit was $82,331.91.

The total sales for the six months ended June 30, 1933, were $6,184,026.26, and, after charging off depreciation and amortization amounting to $243,044.70, net profit was $106,178.41.

Goods Markets.

New York, July 28 (A.P.).—Cotton goods held steady today, but little trading was reported. Readjustments of contracts and price differentials are continuing. Wool goods were inactive. It is understood that the wool code has been passed on for Presidential approval and trading is expected to remain quiet until it becomes effective. Burlaps were affected by the wide fluctuations in sterling. But little new business developed. Threatened strike troubles in the silk industry added further quiet to the markets. Rayon fabrics are being sold and resold in second hands as producers are not willing to accept new business until the rayon code is fixed.

Steel Prices Unchanged.

New York, July 28 (A.P.).—STEEL—Unchanged.

Quieter Curb Dealing Drives Prices Down

Dribble in Selling Persists to Close; Sales Total 279,000 Shares.

New York, July 28 (A.P.).—Stocks drifted lower in quiet dealings on the Curb Exchange today. Transfers amounted to 279,000 shares, compared with 431,000 for Thursday. Quotations were lower at the outset and a dribble of selling continued to the close, with losses ranging from fractions to 2 points or so.

General Tire & Rubber registered an extreme decline of 5 points, while Aluminum Co. of America yielded about 3. Swift & Co. was a trifle easier and Pittsburgh & Lake Erie Railroad sagged a point. Distillery issues followed the general trend and leaders closed fractions to more than a point lower. Hiram Walker conceding nearly 2.

Gulf and Humble Oil eased a point or more each, but other petroleum shares hardly moved in the mining group. Newmont reacted 3 and partially recovered. Lake Shore Mines dropped a couple. In the power group Electric Bond & Share and American Gas & Electric were down more than a point. A firm spot in the list was Pan-American Airways, which showed an appreciation of 1½.

Foreign Markets.

(Associated Press.)

London—The stock exchange passed a quiet session today. Home rails were cheerful, while Argentine rails rallied on bear covering. Transatlantic issues were dull. Distillers and Celanese stocks hardened. Other sections were neglected. The market closed quiet.

Paris—Unaffected by the strength of the dollar, trading on the bourse was stagnant today. Rentes, gold mining shares and a few industrials improved slightly, but copper, rubber and Belgian issues were a trifle lower. The closing was steady.

Berlin—Owing to more favorable coal and potash sales reports, prices on the boerse opened cheerful. The small business transacted, however, caused slightly lower prices, resulting in a weaker closing.

Metal Market.

New York, July 28 (A.P.).—COPPER—Quiet; electrolytic, spot and future, 9.

TIN—Steady; spot and nearby, 45.15; future, 45.25.

IRON—Quiet, unchanged.

LEAD—Steady; spot, New York, 4.50; East St. Louis, 4.35.

ZINC—Quiet; East St. Louis, spot and future, 5.00.

ANTIMONY—Spot, 7.50@8.00.

Wheat Tumbles At Prospects Of Crop Relief

All Grains Join Downward Plunge; Corn Holds Strength Longer.

Chicago, July 28 (AP).—Influenced by prospects of at least a little relief from crop-destroying heat and drought, wheat prices tumbled back late today 5 cents a bushel.

Five cents fluctuation down or up is the extreme daily limit allowed by a new set of emergency rules adopted today, which provide that the maximum change in any one day is computed from the average of the closing quotations of the previous day.

Unusual gyrations of foreign exchange and sharp breaks in grain prices at Winnipeg did much to unsettle confidence of wheat buyers right at the outset here, and despite vigorous rallies at times, the day's lowest prices were reached in the final dealings.

Wheat Closes Weak.

Wheat in Chicago closed weak, 4⅞ to 5⅛ cents under yesterday's finish; corn, 3¼ to 4⅛ down; oats, 2⅜ to 3⅛ off, and provisions at 20 to 50 cents decline.

In an abrupt downward plunge of prices at the opening, Chicago wheat prices just barely escaped a head-on collision with the new emergency limits. Almost immediately, however, sharp rallies began in all the grain pits, and during much of the time later buyers instead of sellers were in a majority.

Traders friendly to upturns pointed out that extremely high temperatures and dearth of any important moisture relief still prevailed over the Canadian and American northwest, with severe crop deterioration continuing.

Russia Export Report.

At no stage, though, did wheat prices, or those of any other grain, get up to yesterday's closing figures. A disturbing factor, especially at Winnipeg, was word that Russia had exported some wheat to Greece, notwithstanding recent talk that crop failure and near famine prevailed in Russia.

On the other hand, some notice was taken of cables saying exports of wheat from Australia would be reduced sharply unless rains came soon. Nevertheless, selling pressure increased as the day drew to an end, with the dominant factor forecasts of cooler weather throughout the spring wheat belt.

Corn showed relatively more strength than other grains, though sympathizing with wheat weakness. The major part of the corn crop is now at a critical stage, and anxiety was evident that a heat wave in the corn belt might cause heavy damage. Speculative buying almost disappeared in the oats market, and prices dropped to the limits permitted.

Provisions gave way with hog values and with grains.

The day's weather news came in for very little comment, the attention of the trade being focused on the action of foreign exchange rates and the action of other markets. A private cable from Liverpool reported that straddle buying of distant months on the weakness of sterling had been offset by considerable profit-taking and Bombay selling. There were continued reports of boll weevil infestation in some of the Eastern belt sections.

Wall Street Briefs.

New York, July 28 (AP).—Municipal bond offerings scheduled for next week total $1,228,691, the smallest volume since compilation of figures was started several years ago, according to the Daily Bond Buyer. Financing in the last week amounted to $7,169,168.

New York Telephone Co., in a report to the Interstate Commerce Commission, showed June operating income of $3,136,995 against $3,262,755 in June, 1932. Gross revenue for the month was $15,522,633, compared with $16,699,478 last year.

The June gain in railroad's gross revenues and the substantial improvement in net operating income enabled numerous carriers to cover their fixed charges for the month. Wall street estimates that the Pennsylvania had surplus after charges of about $4,000,000, New York Central, between $500,000 and $1,000,000; Baltimore & Ohio approximately $1,000,000, and Southern Pacific about $500,000.

June employment in the silk industry was 65.6 per cent above the same month last year and 9.2 higher than May, says the Silk Association of America. Broad silk loom employment rose 8 per cent, narrow loom was unchanged and spinning spindle employment expanded 11.8 per cent last month as compared with May.

Price of Silver Drops.

New York, July 28 (AP).—The price of silved dropped 1 cent to 36⅛ cents an ounce in the spot market today. Futures on the Commodity Exchange, Inc., showed like weakness on a restricted volume of trading, quotations being down ¾ to a cent an ounce.

End of Grace Near For Gold Hoarders

(Associated Press.)

The few people who have gold ore and its concentrate may export to get a higher world price, but the 207 who still hoard coins have only three more weeks to turn them in before the Government acts.

In response to a number of pleas, the Treasury slightly relaxed the Presidential gold embargo so the ore and concentrates—crushed and water-washed ore—may be exported. Smelted and imperfectly refined gold may not.

But there was no relaxation in the drive against hoarders. Attorney General Cummings announced that these would be given three weeks to give up their hoards, and that thereafter the recalcitrahts would be prosecuted and their names published.

Flurry in Dollar Slows London Trade in Stocks

London, July 28 (AP).—Business on the stock exchange developed something of a holiday character today. Dealings in the forenoon were moderate, especially in transatlantic issues, which hesitated and moved narrowly, owing to the flurry in dollar exchange.

U. S. Steel and Celanese of America were strong in the overseas section and Distillers and United Molasses moved up fractionally.

Gilt edged securities were supported by investors and home rails benefited on good dividend reports. Kaffirs and Argentine rails improved, but rubber shares were weak in sympathy with the price of that commodity.

Cotton Textile Industry Rises To Highest Levels for June

(U. S. Dept. Agr.)

Activity in the domestic cotton textile industry reached the highest levels on record during June and apparently continued at these levels during the frist half of July, according to the Bureau of Agricultural Economics, reporting on world cotton prospects.

United States cotton consumption in June was about 700,000 bales, or more than twice as much as in June, 1932, and 2½ times the low consumption of July last year. Textile sales have been rather large during recent weeks, but probably have been somewhat below the record output, says the bureau.

The high level of cotton textile production for May, June and July is attributed to uncertainties as to the future price level and anticipation of increased costs. Activity has increased somewhat in the last two months in most foreign countries.

The 1933 cotton acreage in Egypt is officially estimated by the Egyptian government at 1,873,000 acres, or an increase of 65 per cent over the 1932 acreage, and 7 per cent over the 1931 acreage. The bureau reports that present indications are that the acreage in China is larger than last year.

Domestic exports in June, the largest for any month since January, were continuing relatively large during the first half of July, and were the largest for the month of June since 1919.

Chicago Trade Returns Monday to Old Hours

Chicago, July 28 (AP).—Announcement was made today that beginning on Monday, July 31, grain, provisions and cotton trading on the Board of Trade will be at usual hours, 9:30 a. m. to 1:15 p. m., except that cotton trading on Saturdays will be from 9 to 11 a. m. Trading in securities will be 9 a. m. to 2 p. m.

Hours have been abbreviated recently due to large volume of trading.

Stock Exchange Opens Monday at Usual Time

New York, July 28 (AP).—The governing committee of the New York Stock Exchange announced today that the regular hours of business—from 10 a. m. to 3 p. m.—would be resumed beginning next Monday. It was also stated that the exchange would be closed on all Saturdays up to and including September 2.

The governors of the exchange shortened sessions, beginning last Monday, from 12 noon to 3 p. m. in order to permit harried brokers and their employes to dig out from a mountain of work accumulated during the hectic trading of the past week or so. On Wednesday the hours were again changed to 11 a. m. to 2 p. m., with this abbreviated schedule ending today.

Efficiency Aids Railroads to Save Incomes

Larger Percentage of Net Earnings Is Reported During June.

New York, July 28 (AP).—The claim of many railway executives that any increase in gross business would be translated into a relatively larger percentage of net, due to increased efficiency of operation, was borne out in the first group of roads to report for June.

The first 50 railroads to file June earning statements showed aggregate net operating income amounting to $50,787,000, as compared with $14,489,000 in the corresponding month last year, an increase of 250.5 per cent, and an increase of 22.2 per cent over the $41,559,000 of June, 1931.

In May this year, these same 50 carriers reported net operating income of $34,271,000, as against $12,299,000 in May, 1932, a gain of 178.6 per cent.

Revenues in June.

Gross revenues in June, this year, as reported by the 50 roads, was approximately $230,339,000, as compared with $202,659,000 in June a year ago, an advance of 13.6 per cent.

As compared with June, 1931, however, when gross amounted to $301,371,000, the current showing represented a decline of 23.1 per cent.

In May this year gross revenues stood at $209,995,000 as against $208,997,000 in the same month last year, an improvement of fourtenths of 1 per cent.

Analysis of Figures.

Railway executives here emphasize that the current figures must be read in conjunction with the fact that traffic last summer was at the lowest point in many years, and earnings, as a result, were negligible.

At the same time, it is pointed out, railway managements have achieved such a rigid control over operating expenditures that an unusual percentage of net can be extracted from any appreciable improvement in gross business.

In local transportation circles, it is maintained that the carriers can handle a substantially larger traffic without adding to present plant facilities. Maintenance expenditures for road and equipment will naturally increase as additional demands are made on the carriers, but this will not materially reduce the ability of the railways to expand their net earnings, state executives.

Beet Sugar Prospects Cause Drop in Futures

New York, July 28 (AP).—Estimates for a record-breaking domestic beet sugar production and a disappointing spot demand were responsible for increased selling pressure in sugar futures today. September contracts sold off to 1.43 and May to 1.60, or 3 to 4 points net lower.

Covering and trade buying checked the decline, and the market at 2 p. m. showed partial rallies from the lowest, although still 2 to 3 points below the previous close.

Cotton Declines Nearly $2.50 On Realizing

December Sells at 10.80 as General Market Drops 42 to 48 Points.

New York, July 28 (A.P.).—A decline of nearly $2.50 a bale in cotton today was attributed to realizing or liquidation by recent buyers and scattered selling influenced by the action of the dollar and the weakness of the grain and stock markets.

December contracts sold off to 10.80, or 44 points below yesterday's closing quotation, and closed at that figure. The general market ended barely steady at net declines of 42 to 48 points.

The opening was easy at a decline of 14 to 22 points in response to disappointing Liverpool cables and selling here through houses with Liverpool and continental connections.

Bulges Meet Pressure

After the close of Liverpool the pressure slackened to some extent, but slight bulges met renewed pressure, with liquidation becoming more active later as the weakness developed in the grain and stock markets. The close was at the lowest prices of the day on all deliveries.

Some stop orders were uncovered on the afternoon decline. Trade interests were said to be among the buyers, while there was considerable covering and a scattering commission house demand on the decline.

Exports today, 22,784 bales, making 8,499,215 so far this season. Port receipts, 24,224. United States port stocks, 3,106,619.

New England Industry Sets Activity Mark

Quarter's Gain Is Highest in Three Years; Losses Are Regained.

Special to The Washington Post.

Boston, July 28.—New England industrial activity has advanced for three consecutive months, with June figures the highest since 1930. The index for last month was 18 per cent above May and 75 per cent over the same period in 1932.

Approximately 60 per cent of the aggregate loss in industrial production since 1929 has been regained during the past three months. All of the principal industries in this section have participated in the upturn to a marked degree. Many of the major lines are operating at near capacity and have sufficient orders on hand to maintain activity at a high level for several months.

Cotton consumption in June, on a daily average basis and after corrections for seasonal changes, was more than 36 per cent over the preceding month and reached the highest level since August, 1929.

Slackening in Activity.

According to recent reports, there has been some slackening in activity, but this is to be expected in view of the spectacular gains that have been made during the last few months. The limitation of hours provided for under the code for the industry will also tend to restrict output to a more normal basis.

These restrictions will be of real benefit to the industry in this section, as the New England mills have been seriously handicapped for a long period because the legal limitations upon hours of labor imposed a distinct disadvantage as compared with the South.

In the wool goods industry a number of mills are hard pressed to make deliveries, although working on day and night shifts. Business in all lines has been very gratifying, although there have been signs of a let-down within recent weeks, which is to be expected between seasons. Members of the trade look for a good volume of business for the last half of the year, especially during the fall months.

Increase in Shoes.

While the trend of shoe production is seasonally downward during the second quarter, this year there has been a steady increase in shoe production since March, with the June output the highest on record after seasonal corrections. For the first six months of this year production of boots and shoes in this section amounted to nearly 61,000,000 pairs, or 7.5 per cent over the corresponding period of a year ago.

While the sentiment in the trade continues optimistic, some members are inclined to be somewhat concerned over whether or not higher prices, made necessary by the national recovery act, can be passed on without too much sales resistance on the part of the consumer.

Building operations in New England have increased for four consecutive months, with the aggregate value of contracts awarded in June nearly 10 per cent above May, and the highest of any month since 1932.

June Home Building.

Residential building in June was 6 per cent over May and was higher than any other month since April of last year.

The sharp increase in industrial activity in this section has been reflected in a considerable improvement in employment.

The number of workers engaged in manufacturing establishments in June was 8.6 per cent over the preceding month and 21.1 per cent above the same period in 1932, while the corresponding increases in pay rolls were 15.3 per cent and 25.9 per cent, respectively. In Massachusetts, according to reports of the Department of Labor and Industries, the number of wage earners employed in June was 7.5 per cent over May and pay rolls were up 11.3 per cent.

New Stage and Screen Bills as Seen Through Critics' Eyes

Barrymore Hit Features Bill Playing Earle

Adventure, Drama, Farce Mark Other Programs Now on View.

"MARY STEVENS, M. D.". Warner Brothers picturization of a story by Rian James and Robert Lord, featuring Kay Francis and Lyle Talbot, with Glenda Farrell, Thelma Todd and Una O'Connor. Directed by Lloyd Bacon. Reviewed Friday afternoon at the Earle Theater.

By Nelson B. Bell.

Welcomed with an enthusiastic warmth that eloquently bespoke the deep affection in which she is held by the theatergoing public, Ethel Barrymore yesterday wrote a new chapter into the history of motion picture theater presentation in the National Capital.

Distinguished and revered star of many of the native stage's most brilliant dramatic works, Miss Barrymore has chosen as the vehicle of her debut in a new branch of theatrical activity Sir James M. Barrie's deft study of man's colossal egotism and woman's patient long-suffering, "The Twelve Pound Look."

There is no opportunity for a display of emotional pyrotechnics in this simple and unadorned tale of the revolution of two women against the insufferable smugness of a self-centered and bombastic introvert about to be elevated to the peerage, but there is every necessary element of quiet drama to permit Miss Barrymore to reveal the beauty of voice, the subtle humors and the myriad little graces that have made her one of the theater's great in achievement as well as favor.

Miss Barrymore plays the role of the former wife of the matrimonial despot, now a professional typist come to his home on a business errand, with the finish and quiet surety of long familiarity with the role. She is supported with both skill and discretion by Harry Kramer, as the husband, and Georgie Drew Mendum, her cousin, long associated with the Barrymore companies, in the frightened role of the wife. Ed McHugh, reputedly a brother of the popular Frank McHugh, of the films, appears briefly as the butler. The playlet is staged with taste and a completeness unusual in present-day vaudeville.

On the screen is another of those lugubrious studies in disappointment, frustration, hospitals, operating rooms and infanticide that exert a morbid fascination for those who find entertainment in mental and physical suffering.

"Mary Stevens, M. D." lays bare with clinical minuteness the tragic tale of two medical graduates—one a man, the other a woman—who set out to practice together. The male medico becomes a little bored with the irksome processes of building up a practice and becomes, instead, a renegade municipal official, who marries the political "big shot's" daughter and eludes a term in the penitentiary by an eyelash.

Mary Stevens, on the other hand, figuratively sticks to her knitting, becomes a great child specialist and finally decamps to Europe to have one of her own—without benefit of clergy or Dr. Don Andrews' name. The death of her baby, aboard ship, en route to the United States, is the means by which the two are reunited.

Not a pleasant story, nor one in which any attempt at delicacy is discernible. In fact, "Mary Stevens, M. D." is one of the most frankly outspoken of the sex plays, converting taboo subjects into ribald jests and enjoying an aloofness from the proprieties that is at times no less than startling to those not inured to the candor of the medical classrooms and the corridors of emergency hospitals.

Kay Francis, in the title role, a great deal of the time seems to these eyes to be flagrantly miscast. Miss Francis, despite her deep and husky voice, is not a tragic symbol, and is ill-served by the attempt to make her so. Lyle Talbot, in the masculine lead, on the contrary, surpasses anything he has previously done—even his splendid work opposite Carole Lombard in "No More Orchids"—and Glenda Farrell reverts to the quality of excellence she revealed in "Life Begins" and heretofore has not so much as hinted since. The others in the cast are of minor importance.

The stage bill introduced by the articulate and trig Miss Maxine Doyle, in addition to Miss Barrymore and her company, includes the Four Trojans, a thickly talcumed quartet of physical Adonises who are tumblers par excellence; Major, Sharp and Minor, three closely harmonizing young women with red, white and blue hair and nicely blended voices, and Mary Goss and Charles Barrows in an interval of their familiar musical nonsense.

The screen auxiliaries also are numerous. Bobby Jones' lecture on that aspect of golf known as "Impact;" Graham McNamee having one heart attack after another describing "The World's Greatest Thrills" and the Paramount News complete a bill of extraordinary diversification.

Loew's Fox

"HER BODYGUARD." Paramount picturization of a story by Corey Ford, adapted to the screen by Ralph Spence and Walter De Leon, featuring Edmund Lowe and Wynne Gibson, with Edward Arnold, Johnny Hines, Marjorie White, Alan Dinehart and Fuzzy Knight. Directed by William Baudine. Reviewed Friday morning.

Spirited in both dialogue and action, fast-moving, clever, up-to-the-minute and continuously amusing, this comedy, that perpetually skirts the fringes of the show game, is one of the most diverting of the light summer entertainments.

Edmund Lowe, as a private detective with a heart of gold beating beneath his rough and rowdy exterior—and his work in the title role is nowhere near as bromidic as that!—is hired by a jealous suitor to be the shadow of Margot Brianne (Maggie O'Brien when she is home), musical comedy prima donna, whom he has loaded down with diamond bracelets and other costly trinkets. Of course, the real reason is to circumvent the romantic aspirations of Cunningham, the producer.

How the scheme works out, what with gratuitous contributions to its success by Ballyhoo, the Broadway press agent; Lita, the vaudeville hoofer; Bitzer, the sugar daddy; Cunningham, the impresario; Bunny Dare, the song writer, and divers and sundry others, is sufficiently dizzy to keep the Fox comfortably filled all week, if only with those who still believe in a silly season.

From this sketchy characterization of the personnel that inhabits this gay structure of mirth, music and melodrama, something of the breezy nature of the farce's development ought to become apparent. "Her Bodyguard," obviously, was devised for no other purpose than to supply an hour of sheer fun, a function which it performs with complete and disarming success.

Mr. Lowe and Wynne Gibson, as the acquisitive beauty of the revue stage, are, to all intents and purposes, perfectly cast in the leads. Edward Arnold and Alan Dinehart are no less effectively assigned to the roles of the rival lovers—the rich Mr. Bitzer and the ardent Mr. Cunningham—neither of whom profits much in the end.

Johnny Hines, rapidly regaining something of his former prestige as a comedian of resourcefulness and wit; Marjorie White, with her gift of gab and long experience as a bona fide song-and-dance artiste, and Fuzzy Knight, another vaudevillian of parts, who can write you a popular tune almost the minute he has heard it, all do a great deal, individually and collectively, to place this lively film in the hit column.

The stage program is scarcely less enlivening. Serge Flash demonstrates once more his uncanny dexterity and mastery of balance and equilibrium in the most amazing juggling act on the contemporary stage. The lad is a wizard.

The Lee Twins, assisted by a male sextet and a brace or two of specialty dancers, offer an interval of dance that is principally distinguished by the graceful and agile work of the sisters themselves. Fred Zimbalist and Mildred Hamlin, in "A Bit o' Classic," exalt the harmonica by making it an instrument of genuine musical importance in the accompaniment of Miss Hamlin's operatic arias.

Burns & Allen, the "nitwits of the networks," are, as usual, irresistible in their adroitly contrived lunacies. Combined with their distinctively demented humor are flashes of a serious and impressive artistry in both song and dance. Theirs, as goes without saying, is the overwhelmingly tumultuous hit of the bill. A hit, by the way, that is wholly and honestly deserved.

The Fox this week also presents a prodigal array of supplementary screen subjects, including a better-than-usual Betty Boop cartoon comedy, "Mother Gooseland;" Ray Cooke in an average "Torchy" comedy, "Trying Out Torchy," that is funniest near its end, and the Fox Movietone News.

Manager Carter Barron's announcements through the newly rehabilitated public-address system complete a program of seasonable and superior pastiming.

"DON'T BET ON LOVE." Universal picturization of a play by Murray Roth, starring Lew Ayres and Ginger Rogers, with Charles Grapewin, Shirley Grey, Merna Kennedy, Robert Emmett O'Connor and Henry Armetta. Directed by Murray Roth. Reviewed Friday afternoon by Isabel Harraman.

One finds in this engaging bit of celluloid a gently satirical expose of that most insidious of all diseases—the gambling urge.

In theme, it analogously matches many of the racing pictures you have seen in the past, but in the clever working over of the story you suddenly discover that the rise and fall of Bill McCaffery is not only the tale of a young plumber in Manhattan—"the double crossroads of the world"—who suddenly makes "fifty grand," but the story of hundreds of Bill McCafferies all over the universe, who in that irresistible desire to get something for nothing, joyously attempt to "beat the rap."

Not that "Don't Bet on Love" is, of all things, a picture with a purpose! No, indeed. Its moral is so deeply hidden that you won't be able to find it unless you are the kind who insists upon a moral in your pictures.

It is an amusing little comedy-drama about a boy with the fire of gambling burning hotly in his veins. Lew Ayres makes Bill a human, understandable lad. Ginger Rogers is Molly, his sweetheart, who is level headed enough not to bet on love.

There are gripping moments, some clever wisecracks, a few negligible thrills, several good laughs and a splendid supporting cast, which includes Charles Grapewin, Shirley Grey, Tom Dugan and Robert Emmett O'Connor.

Cash customers at RKO-Keith's this week will certainly get their money's worth.

A rather weak burlesque of Mae West's "She Done Him Wrong" classic, makes its bow under the title of "She Outdone Him," featuring Dorothy Granger as the voluptuous and dangerous heroine. Needless to say, our Mae is not outvolupt-ed by any means and does not suffer in comparison.

Tom Howard appears in one of his comedies—"Aces Wild"—which is not horribly funny unless you've lost your shirt in a poker game. If such is the case, you'll probably fall out of your seat.

There's a grand "Screen Snapshots" and a Krazy Kat Animated Cartoon called "Antique Antics."

Pathe News brings us first-run shots of the departure of Balbo and the arrival of Wiley Post.

Now, who could demand more?

"THE STRANGER'S RETURN." Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer picturization of Phil Stong's novel of the same name, featuring Lionel Barrymore and Miriam Hopkins, with Franchot Tone, Stuart Erwin and Beulah Bondi. Directed by King Vider. Reviewed Friday morning by Dorothea Lewis.

Here is a salty, satisfying and something-to-put-your-teeth-into fare, set before you by a wholly admirable and unusualy brilliant cast. It belongs on your "must" list.

Good as was the lusty story teller, Phil Stong's first picturized novel, "State Fair." His second is much more interesting, for "State Fair" was, after all, just State fair, an incident in the lives of its characters, but "The Stranger's Return" is the very life itself of its people, whom you will know intimately after one meeting.

There is Grandpa Storr, a four-square man of 85 years, strong and obstinate, and wise and sad, in his beloved Storr Haven (Iowa) farm, because there are no real Storrs left for the farm when he dies; no more "big people," just little ones, his ineffectual stepdaughter and her twin husband and a scheming, vicious, widowed, niece-in-law, who live with him.

There are Grandpa's two friends, young Guy Crain, his next door farm neighbor, with whom he bickers to his heart's content and secretly lists with the big people, and his drunken, faithful, inarticulate, ridiculous hired man, Simon.

Into this world comes Louise, granddaughter to Grandpa, daughter of an estranged son, a real Storr, a city-bred stranger, who feels that she is returning to her real home. And she is met with elation and affection by Grandpa, suspicion and intrigue by the in-laws, who want the farm, and love by Guy, who has a sweet, domestic little wife, Nettie, who knows he's lonely but doesn't know how to do and think things with him.

Each character is, you can see, one requiring understanding and finesse in playing, and that every one gets it you will gather from glancing at this star-studded cast:

Lionel Barrymore, a little young for Grandpa, but Grandpa to the life, nevertheless, playing a gusty part with a fine, earthy gusto and not a single of his sometimes frequent Barrymorish gestures.

Miriam Hopkins, true to her long-time standard of excellence, a genuinely big person, as Louise, for all her personal littleness; just enough hardness, just enough softness.

That alive young Franchot Tone, winning smile, expressive face and nice repression, utterly natural as Guy.

Stuart Erwin, always dependable, doing one of the very best character jobs of his career and making a whole person of Simon.

Beulah Bondi, character-woman par excellance, perfect as the scheming niece-in-law; Grant Mitchell just ineffectual enough as the step-son-in-law, and Irene Hervey, a new and very pretty girl doing nicely by the pathetic little Nettie, whose heart Guy and Louise find they can not bring themselves to break.

A real story to be told, with superlative character delineation, amusing and pointed dialogue and expert photography to tell it—this is well-rounded, worth while entertainment of the very first rank.

The subsidiaries, a Laurel and Hardy comedy, a little too long; a Hodge-Podge survey of transportation methods and makeshifts throughout the world, an organ-logue, and the Metrotone News, following the leader, are also good this week.

"SAMARANG OUT OF THE DEEP." United Artists release of the B. P. Zeidman picturization of Lori Bara's story with an all-Malayan cast. Directed by Ward Wing. Reviewed Friday evening by W. A. Whitney.

Two years ago come August 15, Washington viewed the late F. W. Murnau's Polynesian idyll, "Tabu." From the same locale comes "Samarang," the story of pearl divers of Malaya.

Where "Tabu" recounted a gossamer story of tribal taboos, and the sad consequences of their violation in the lives of pearl divers, "Samarang" offers an equally diaphanous story of the vicissitudes of pearl diving, letting, for the most part, sociological and ethnological aspects pass unconsidered.

As in the earlier picture, names here mean nothing and the story but little more. It is the difficulties and dangers in the search for the pearl of great price that makes "Samarang" primarily of interest. Yet there is enough story, pantomimically presented, to hold the various episodes together.

The love story of Ahmang, of lowly birth, and Saihu, a chief's daughter, is the major theme. Tribal tabo says that they can not be wed until he shall have obtained a large pearl of rare beauty. He does it, but not without many besetting difficulties, including octopuses, tiger sharks and cannibals.

Although "Samarang" suffers at times from poor photography (and various intangibles such as those for the apprehension of which Director Murnau was justly famous), the picture is thoroughly entertaining, and, considering the handicaps under which it was made, delightfully enacted.

The principal scenes were filmed in the Forbidden Lagoon, of the Island of Sakai, where the cannibals (so we are told) presented an unexpected difficulty. Especially interesting and thrilling scenes include a tiger shark-octopus battle to the death and a man vs. shark battle to the same conclusion.

"Pie a la Mode" is offered as the principal subsidiary attraction, a pie-slinging comedy that offends the intelligence of those seeking adult entertainment. An issue of "Screen Souvenirs" presents Harry Houdini in his famous straight-jacket escape, Former President W. H. Taft visiting the Panama Canal and Sidney Drew and Clara Kimball Young in a mellerdrama of an age, happily gone by.

A release of the Universal News, presenting the newsiest news reel for many a moon, completes the line-up.

Duce Observes Birthday Today, Swimming in Adriatic.

Rome, July 28 (AP).—Premier Benito Mussolini becomes half a century old tomorrow.

He plans to spend his fiftieth birthday quietly at Riccione, the Adriatic resort where he went today after two days of conferences with Premier Goemboes of Hungary. With his family Il Duce will go bathing in the sea.

At fifty the premier looks as hearty and robust as ever. He exercises constantly, diets carefully.

The premier expects a gift, however small, from his grandson, Fabbrizio, son of his daughter, Edda, and Count Galeazzo Ciano. Count and Countess Ciano brought Il Duce's only grandchild back from Shanghai a few months ago. Count Ciano was Italian consul general in Shanghai.

District to Ask Highway Bids Within a Week

New Bridge, Street Repairs First on Program to Be Financed by U. S.

The District's first projects to be financed by the Federal public works fund will be advertised for bids early next week, Capt. H. C. Whitehurst, director of highways, announced yesterday after being informed informally that three highway items had been approved.

With the $1,918,400 allocated to the District out of the $400,000,000 for highway improvements, these projects will be financed at once:

Construction of a new P street bridge over Rock Creek, $290,000.

Repaving and improving Sixteenth street, from Columbia road to Tiger Bridge, $110,000.

Paving Foxall road, between Reservoir road and Nebraska avenue, $81,000.

Other Jobs Studied.

These account for but $481,000 of the money allocated. Fourteen other projects have been submitted to the Bureau of Public Roads and the Public Works Administration and from these will be selected highway jobs to consume the remaining $1,437,400.

Meanwhile, the District government is awaiting word from Budget Director Lewis W. Douglas as to whether he will approve all or part of the highway projects listed for financing under the $1,500,000 gasoline tax fund appropriated by Congress.

Will Replace Old Span.

The present P Street Bridge is an old-fashioned steel span which has been considered unsafe for a number of years. Construction of a new masonry bridge will be accomplished with no interruption to traffic, Capt. Whitehurst said.

The Sixteenth street paving will complete the modernization of this important thoroughfare by the lowering of the crown and the construction of gutters and curbs. Foxall road is to be improved similarly with concrete curbs, shoulders and gutters and a new asphalt surface.

Evidence in Rival Phone Case Heard

Chesapeake & Potomac Co. Claims Duplication of Service.

Richmond, Va., July 28 (AP).—The corporation commission today completed the taking of evidence in the case of the Chesapeake & Potomac Telephone Co. against W. W. Gibbs and others involving proposals of the latter to establish competing long-distance service between Clifton Forge and Lexington and other upper valley points.

Litigants were given 30 days to file briefs.

The hearing consumed several days, with the Chesapeake & Potomac company claiming independent companies headed by Mr. Gibbs will duplicate existing service and will not be in the public interest.

The independents contend their plan would provide less expensive long-distance service and that there would not be the duplication alleged.

Stockholders Fight Double Bank Loss Levy

Appeal From Decision Is to Be Made Under Arizona Law.

The decision of Justice Jennings Bailey in District Supreme Court, upholding double assessment liability on the stockholders of the Departmental Bank, will be carried to the Court of Appeals.

Early this month Justice Bailey ruled that the receiver of the Departmental Bank was entitled to enforce the double assessment under law of Arizona.

The principle involved will determine a question of liability in the cases of the Bank of Brightwood, the North Capitol Savings Bank and the International Exchange Bank, all incorporated under Arizona laws.

Brought By Receiver.

The test case was brought by the receiver, W. B. Allman, against the Washington Loan and Trust Co. as trustee for the estate of B. Pickman Mann, late stockholder in the Departmental Bank. The defendant trustee is represented by Arther Peter and Charles V. Imlay, attorneys.

Similar test cases in connection with the liability of Park Savings Bank stockholders are pending in District Supreme Court.

Many depositors in eight restricted banks forming the proposed Hamilton National Bank of Washington are making prompt returns of their proofs of deposits in these institutions to their respective conservators.

Mailed to Depositors.

Returnable statements were mailed to depositors during the week.

Depositors apparently are acting upon the advice of conservators and Treasury Department officials to make prompt returns in order to hasten the opening of the proposed bank and make 50 per cent of their deposits available. Edwin C. Graham, president of the new Hamilton bank, is unable to say when a charter will be requested.

Radio Dial Flashes

By Robert D. Heinl.

ALTHOUGH it has been four months since Washington music lovers have heard Hans Kindler conduct the National Symphony Orchestra, and it will be nearly three more until he again mounts the podium in Constitution Hall, he can be heard over WMAL at 7:30 o'clock tonight as he swings his baton at the New York Philharmonic Orchestra's concert in Lewisohn Stadium. Cesar Franck's symphony in D Minor will open the program.

The four concerts by the Philadelphia Symphony Summer Orchestra, playing under Kindler's direction, in Robin Hood Dell, Philadelphia, will also be broadcast. The first will be next Saturday night. The others August 5, 6, 12 and 13.

"Salt and Peanuts," a new program, will be heard over WRC at 11 o'clock this morning. It will be a presentation of Frank Salt, vaudeville comedian, and his feminine partner.

A SERIES of exchange programs has been arranged by Columbia with the Canadian Radio Commission, to start Monday, August 7.

The first broadcast from New York to Canada will be the program, "Andre Kostelanetz Presents * * *," at 9 p. m., August 7. The second will be Nino Martini and the symphony orchestra under the direction of Howard Barlow at 8:30 p. m., August 8.

The Canadians will transmit a musical program, "The Singing Strings," to this country every Saturday night at 9:30 o'clock.

George M. Cohan, comedian, is slated to follow Arthur Brisbane on the Sunday night programs the latter part of next month. He may have with him O. O. McIntyre, columnist. Walter Kelly, the radio's best story-teller, in the opinion of this writer, is leaving the Brisbane program soon to make a movie.

Cohan is credited with $5,000 a broadcast. Al Jolson, who will be with us on the Whiteman program next week, is said to have a contract for 40 broadcasts, one a week, at $5,000 each.

GEORGE FRAME BROWN is bringing a message of encouragement and sage counsel to those who are struggling to increase their incomes. His new series, which will be heard each Saturday evening, beginning this evening at 6:45 o'clock, over WRC, will recount the adventures of Mrs. Templeton Jones, well known figure in the "Real Folks" programs, when she comes to New York to recoup her losses.

Sir Hamilton Harty, distinguished Irish conductor and composer, will be guest conductor of the "Symphony Under the Stars" concert in the Hollywood Bowl tonight.

Sir Hamilton is well known abroad as the permanent conductor of the Halle Society, Manchester, England, and as guest conductor of the London Symphony Orchestra, the British National Opera Co., and other leading British organizations.

The concert will be heard over WRC at 11:15 p. m.

"Railroads are reducing the number of coaches on their trains," opines Lou Welch, the Perlmutter of Potash and Perlmutter, "because it is easier for a short train to dodge a bus on a grade crossing."

THE always interesting Elizabethan Age is being scanned by broadcasters in search of proper music for the adventure program, "Drake's Drums" (WEAF network, but not WRC, at 5:30 p. m. Mondays and Saturdays). This series of dramatizations is built around the adventures of a cabin boy under Sir Francis ("Frankie," to his own men) Drake, notable English sea rover, who immortalized himself by annihilating Spain's "invincible" armada.

The actual story of Drake's Drum has been the theme for more than one poem. It is told that when he was dying in Nombre Dios Bay, he ordered that his old drum be hung in Plymouth, that he might be summoned up from the deep by a roll on it whenever England needed him. Mariners on H. M. S. Victory, Lord Nelson's flagship, told many a tale attempting to prove that Nelson was but a reincarnation of "Frankie," who, faithful to his homeland, had risen to guide the fleet to the conquests of the Nile, Cape St. Vincent and Trafalgar.

ADDRESSES of three prominent Orientals before the World Fellowship of Faiths luncheon in Chicago today will be heard over WMAL at 1:30 p. m. The speakers will be Hu Shih, of China, professor of philosophy and dean of the college of letters of the National University of Peiping; Ken Nakazawa, of Japan, professor of the University of Southern California, and K. Natarajan, of India, editor of the Indian Social Reformer, of Bombay.

A program devoted entirely to the works of Richard Wagner will be presented by Eugene Ormandy, conducting the Philadelphia Summer Concerts Orchestra over WJSV this evening, at 7 o'clock.

New Yorker Day by Day

By Mark Barron.

New York.—A new building for the Women's National Republican club is being erected in Fifty-first street. Day after day a group of a score or more men stand across the street watching the steel workers, carpenters and masons as they toil on the tall edifice.

It develops that this grand stand of kibitzers is made up of unemployed building workers who serve as a sort of unofficial board of critics. They stand there all day uttering laudatory and derogatory remarks regarding the skill of their colleagues pushing up the new structure.

There might be a shudder in the fact that some of those lingering around are there because they wish to be available for the job if any of the workers should be injured.

The Regal Touch.

The late Florenz Ziegfeld seems to have been the last of that small group of footloose ones who would travel amid only the most luxurious and extensive surrounding.

The last time he went to Europe he chartered the royal suite of a large liner, installing his personal troupe of seven servants, including a private chef.

When he made his annual jaunts to Florida he used both his yacht and a special train, often transferring from one to the other in midjourney.

When his young daughter, Patricia, decided to spend a week-end in the Adirondacks seven hours away from New York, she made the trip in a special car with her own corps of servants.

Music and Such.

S. N. Behrman, one of the town's most apt writers of sophisticated comedy, returned to town the other night and invited a group of old friends in for a reunion celebration.

It was a convivial gathering, and one of the guests, who had brought along his violin, began to play. Music like molten honey flowed through the apartment until after midnight when an annoyed neighbor hammered on the door and demanded that the violin be silenced.

The violinist was Jascha Heifitz.

Behrman is only one of the long list of playwrights who broke into show business as press agents. Others include Manny Seff, Arthur Kober, Willard Keefe, George Haight, Alan Scott, Marian Spitzer, Robert MacGunigle, Dayton Stoddard, Channing Pollock, Russel Crouse, Bernard Simon, Arthur Barton and Charles Washburn.

Many press agents, too, have become producers. The most metoric one is Jud Harris. Rising from a $40 a week job as exploiter, he staged six hit shows in three years, and his fortune was said to be above the $5,000,000 mark. After the stock market debacle he dropped into obscurity, but now is making a sensational comeback.

The home of Mrs. Sidney Porter (O. Henry) burned near Asheville, N. C., recently.

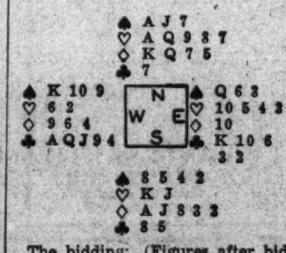
Reaching After Slams.

AN expert player is able not only to compute from the bidding the precise honor strength of his partner's hand, but in many instances, through the use of Plastic Valuation, to locate specific cards.

From his partner's responses to well-chosen bids, he can fill in certain gaps in his own hand. As a result, he often discovers that a hand which, judged purely on the basis of honor strength and distribution, seems good for no more than game is really good for a Slam.

One of the leading Bridge players of New York is Mr. Richard L. Frey, who has finished high up in numerous tournaments and is a winner of more than one championship. The accuracy of his inferences may be judged by his bidding of the hand below. Mr. Frey was seated North:

North, Dealer.
North and South vulnerable.



The bidding: (Figures after bids refer to numbered explanatory paragraphs.)

North	East	South	West
1♡(1)	Pass	2◇(2)	Pass
3◇(3)	Pass	3♡(4)	Pass
3♠(5)	Pass	4♠(6)	Pass
6◇	Pass	Pass	Pass

1—Obviously a sound opening bid.
2—South has no other bid available. It would be very dangerous to raise hearts with only two cards in the suit, even though both are honors.
3—Mr. Frey proceeds cautiously. He desires to secure further information at the lower ranges of bidding.
4—South is far from certain as to whether the hand should even play for game. However, in view of the fact that North has supported his diamond Takeout, a contract of four diamonds should be reasonably safe, and it is entirely possible that four hearts might be made. At this time his hopes go no further.
5—Feeling out the distribution of the hand.
6—South, of course, takes the spade bid at its face value, and, in ciew of the fact that he holds four cards in it, raises to game.

Mr. Frey afterward explained that on the bidding he placed his partner with at least the King and one other heart and probably either the King or Queen and at least two other spades. "In any event, he believed that the chance of making the Slam was better than even, and so he carried the contract to its logical conclusion.

In the play, six were made easily. West opening the club Ace and then shifting to a spade. It is, of course, apparent that all that is necessary to assure the Slam is the finding of not more than four hearts in the hand of either adversary, as, with this break, three discards can be obtained for losers in the spade suit.

Signs of Money.

IT has been said that all are broke, that no one has the price; can this be but an idle joke, I've wondered, once or twice. I journey, Sunday afternoons, to get some clean, fresh air; and autos filled with gay gossoons are scooting everywhere. It takes good coin for gasoline and oil and rubber tires, for furnishings of red or green, and all a car requires. And someone's surely blowing bones with service station gents, despite the ever-present groans and murmurs and laments. I called at the Athletic Club upon a recent night, to see a big and powerful dub assault another wight. They weighed about 200 pounds when they were nicely stripped, and after twelve or fourteen rounds they both seemed badly whipped. The place was jammed with sporting gents although the price was high; they had the dollars and the cents admittance cards to buy. They could afford their ringside seats, and costly weeds to smoke, although they go around the streets and tell us they are broke. They tell about their hungry aunts and starving nieces, too, they lack suspenders for their pants, and have no Sunday shoe. All day before my humble shack the laughing legions go, and pause at times to make a crack about their grief and woe.

Nats-Yanks Resume Feud Today; Rained-Out Game Billed Monday

Respite Boon To Teams' Pitchers

Crowder, Allen to Hurl in Second Battle of "Crucial" Series.

Washington, Confident, Out to Take Ninth of Year From Foe.

By Shirley L. Povich
(Sports Editor of The Post).

THE second episode of the current Washington-New York baseball drama, deferred yesterday when Old Man Weather held both clubs hitless and runless with his moist delivery, is scheduled for release this afternoon with the Nats' two-game lead and their pennant chances still very much in peril.

Both clubs rested on their oars yesterday. At least, if they had had oars, they would have come in handy. Griffith Stadium was navigable in no other way what with a steady rain that started to come down as the sun came up and continued through the morning.

While the Yanks were fiddling with the nickel slot-machine gadgets in their hotel, which shared with the movies the attention of most of the New York squad, Manager Cronin and his Nats were being put through the paces at Griffith Stadium by the newsreel people. Hollywood may get 'em if the Yanks don't.

Monday Game Scheduled.

Boss Griffith didn't let the weather man outwit him. He promptly appropriated the open date on Monday for the postponed game, thus insuring the scheduled four appearances of the Yanks here. He also gladdened the hearts of the 6,500 Ladies' day guests by announcing that their tickets would be honored for the Monday game.

The day's respite was a boon to the pitching staffs of both clubs. It means that Cronin will be able to shoot Walter Stewart back at the Yanks for the second time on Monday and Red Ruffing also will doubtless get a second shot at the Nats.

Cronin is hewing to the line of his pitching schedule, with Al Crowder due to face the Yanks today, with Whitehill to get the assignment in the third game tomorrow. Bobby Burke and Monte Weaver are also available and both have notable records against the Yanks. Today, Manager McCarthy is expected to counter with his fire-balling firebrand, Johnny Allen.

The Yanks have been a sorry lot against the Nats this season. Eleven times they have met and eight times the Nats have won. Six of their last eight meetings have resulted successfully for Washington. Three times they extracted the victory in the tenth inning. Against New York, the Nats show a greater margin than against any other club. It is well they do, for beating the Yanks counts double in the team standings.

Goose Goslin is back in the good graces of Cronin, who took occasion to point out that the Goose was hitting the ball hard all day in Thursday's 3-to-2 game, and mentioned also that Goslin showed rare perseverance in staying with the fly ball he misjudged to make a one-handed catch that pulled Stewart out of serious trouble in the eighth inning.

Ruth and Gehrig.

With Babe Ruth playing right field these days with all the animation of a rheumatic snail, left-handed hitters are greatly desired in the Nats' line-up against the Yanks. And Lou Gehrig's hitting of late has been in keeping with Ruth's fielding. Gehrig, clouting the ball for only .314, is not the same threat of old, and Cronin hesitated only briefly in passing the Babe to get at Lou in the tenth inning Thursday.

The next two weeks, however, will be the most critical period of the entire flag race for the Nats and the Yanks. The teams have eight more battles within a fortnight, three more in the present series, four in New York next week and a Sunday game in Washington.

By the end of that time, who's who and what's what in the pennant race may be quite definitely established.

Visiting Ball Players Spend Their Day Off Punishing the Hotel Lobby

Rain that offered the visiting New York Yankees surcease from their labors against the Nats yesterday also confined them to their hotel lobby. Above, Joe Sewell (left), of the Yanks, gets the opportunity to dine with Brother Luke of the Nats. But there is no love lost between them on the diamond, as you may have noticed.

Al Houghton Leads Pros in Trials

Kenwood Ace Shoots Subpar Golf for 135 at Baltimore.

By Dave Herman
(Post Staff Correspondent).

SUBURBAN COUNTRY CLUB, Baltimore, Md., July 28.—When Al Houghton, Kenwood sharpshooter, is in form, no golfer in the Middle Atlantic section can beat him.

Houghton today toured the Suburban course for subpar scores of 66—69—135, to spreadeagle a field of 22 professionals in the P. G. A. sectional qualifying test. The score was a new record for the event.

It was the third season in a row that the Kenwood ace set the pace in the P. G. A. event.

Three others earned the right to compete in the championship proper, scheduled to begin August 8 at Milwaukee, but Houghton was the only District pro out of a contingent of 11 to qualify.

Bobby Cruickshank, of the Country Club of Richmond, Va., added a dazzling subpar 68 to his even par morning round of 70, to trail the pacesetter by three shots.

Baltimoreans Qualify.

Two Baltimore pros landed places. They were Glenn Spencer, of Maryland Country Club, and Ralph Beach, formerly of Burning Tree, now of Suburban. Spencer shot rounds of 70—69—139, and Beach scored 72—70—142.

The rest of the field struggled all morning and afternoon in a vain attempt to keep pace with the four qualifiers.

There was the usual drama in the day's proceedings. Arthur B. Thorn, former Woodmont pro, and Gene Larkin, of Chevy Chase, came to the 36 hole, a 349-yarder, needing birdie threes to tie Beach for fourth place. Both were around 15 feet away on their second shots, but failed to get

W. Va. Wesleyan Star Is Dying After Fall

Special to The Washington Post.

Clarksburg, W. Va., July 28.—Maurice Stanley Talbott, 22, popular freshman and star track athlete of West Virginia Wesleyan College, was reported dying late today as the result of falling from the top of an 80-foot gas well derrick yesterday near French Creek.

Talbott suffered a broken back and other injuries. He is a patient at a Buckhannon hospital. He had been employed to do some work on top of the derrick and fell when he started to swing down on a wire cable and it snapped.

Phils' Score in 10th Beats Braves, 13-12

Philadelphia, July 28 (AP).—The Phillies, nine runs behind in the fifth inning, come back today to tie the score in the ninth and add another run in the tenth to beat the Boston Braves, 13 to 12, and sweep their three-game series. The victory strengthened the Phils' hold on sixth place, giving them a full game over the idle Cincinnati Reds.

Chuck Klein, Philadelphia's leading slugger, drove in the deciding run in the tenth, walloping a double with two aboard and one out to bring in Dick Bartell from second. Bartell got on by forcing Jimmy McLeod, who had singled, and Chuck Fullis advanced him with a base hit.

Randy Moore, Don Hurst and Wes Schulmerich hit for the circuit.

Hess and Miss Kirson Score Va. Net Upsets

Hot Springs, Va., July 28 (AP).—Two startling upsets in the semi-finals of the Virginia State tennis championships today removed from the running the brilliant Herbert L. Bowman, of New York, and Miss Eliza Coxe, of Asheville, N. C., seeded first in the women's division.

Bowman, conqueror of many stars in the North this season, met more than his match in young Wilbur Hess, of Houston, Tex., who won in straight sets, 6—4, 6—2, 7—5.

Miss Coxe, former Southern champion, went down before the inspired sharpshooting of Miss Reba Kirson, Baltimore ace, 0—6, 6—1, 9—7.

Miss Louise Hofmeister, of Chicago, seeded second, after a hard fought first set, ran out the second and decisive set in quick fashion to defeat Miss Kathryn Pearson, of Houston, Texas, 7—5, 6—1.

Miss Hofmeister and Miss Kirson meet in the finals tomorrow.

Suburban Net League Has 2 Matches Today

Two matches today will mark the close of the season for regular matches in the Suburban Tennis League. There will be, however, the regular league tournament to be played in September.

The matches today are between the Standards Club and Argyle Country Club on the Argyle courts and between the Lakeview-Capital Club and the Wesley Heights Tennis Club on the latter's courts.

Mangin Swamped by Shields In Tourney Final at Seabright

By Gregory Hewelett.

SEABRIGHT, N. J., July 28 (AP). Crushing his opponent with mighty drives along the white sidelines, big Frank Shields, of New York, today won possession of the silver bowl, denoting the men's singles championship in the Seabright invitation tennis tournament, by completely outclassing Gregory Mangin, of Newark, the national indoor titleholder.

The handsome winner of the trophy, taken last year by Sidney Wood, another New Yorker, gave the dark-haired Mangin only five games in the three-set final, thus delivering one of the most decisive defeats a finalist in this classic tournament, going on now for 46 years, ever has suffered. The score was 6—1, 6—3, 6—1.

Just as one-sided was the women's doubles final, in which Josephine Cruickshank, of Santa Ana, Calif., and Alice Marble, of San Francisco, overpowered the Boston pair of Virginia Rice and Marjorie Sachs.

Because he had beaten Mangin in straight sets in the recent Crescent Athletic-Hamilton invitation tourney a week ago, Shields today was the favorite to add another trophy to his collection. But the manner in which he smashed the conqueror of the sensational Frankie Parker in the semifinals yesterday was far from anticipated.

Coming the nearest to the brand of play he used to extend Johnny Doeg in the national finals in 1930, Shields today was a remarkable tennis machine. Only seldom was the erratic style he has shown recently on display, as he parried everything Mangin gave him and gave back more in return.

Keeping the Newarker in the back court with his base-line drives, he made it impossible for his foe to use his most effective weapon, an overhead smash at the net. Only occasionally was Mangin able to rush in, and on those few times more often than not Shields passed him with neat placements.

Mangin, bothered to some extent by an ankle he turned in the first set, seemed unable to produce the tennis he used against Parker. However, he said later he played just as well—but that Shields played too much better.

Mangin Makes Flourish.

Only in the second set was Mangin able to make a match of it. In that one, he twice won his own service by love scores and once broke through Shields' service to go into a three-all deadlock. But that was his final gesture, as the powerful former Davis Cup player won three successive games to run out that set and five games in a row in the third before Mangin again was able to halt the brilliant offensive.

Shields scored 26 points to 11 for Mangin in that last set to wind up his one-sided conquest in a really sensational manner. The points score in the first was 30 to 18, and it was 30 to 25 in the second, giving

Tribe Nips Tigers; Nears Third Place

Hildebrand Winner by 7-2; Indians Are Only Game Behind Athletics.

Cleveland, July 28 (AP).—The Indians had practically no trouble defeating the Detroit Tigers, 7 to 2, today in the opener of their three-game series to take a firm hold on fourth place.

The victory put Cleveland a full game ahead of the Tigers and the same distance behind the third-place Philadelphia Athletics, who were idle.

Oral Hildebrand went the route for the first time since he beat Chicago on July 3 and had the Detroit batsmen eating out of his pitching hand most of the way.

Indian Spring Club Votes to Dissolve

The Indian Spring Golf Club, for 10 years one of the major courses of Washington, was dissolved last night when club members voted to surrender the lease to Tom Moore, owner of the property, on August 1.

Mr. Moore had instituted suit on last Tuesday for restoration of the golf club property, alleging the club had violated terms of an agreement made in 1926 by failure to pay taxes on the property for 1932 and the failure to pay rent under the terms of the agreement for the months of April, May, June and July of this year.

The club was reorganized early this season and dues were slashed as a result of the loss of approximately 150 members from the rolls by resignation. Indian Spring has been the scene of virtually every major tournament of this section. It is believed that Moore will operate the club as a semipublic links.

Emery Beats Hamman In Western Golf, 1 Up

Memphis Country Club, Memphis, Tenn., July 28 (U.P.).—Walter Emery, intercollegiate champion of Oklahoma City, came from behind today to win his quarter-final match in the Western Amateur Golf Tournament from Lelan Hamman, Waco, Tex., 1 up, in 37 holes. He was 4 down at one stage of play.

Emery will oppose in the 36-hole semifinal match tomorrow Jack Westland, Chicago, who today defeated Chasteen Harris, Memphis, 3 and 1.

Carl Dann, jr., Orlando, Fla., and Rodney Bliss, Omaha, will meet in the other semifinal match. Dann won today from Mike Roach, St. Louis, 6 and 4, and Bliss defeated Charley Yates, Atlanta, by the same margin.

Channel Swim Fails.

Boulogne, France, July 28 (AP).—Sunny Lowry, an English miss, abandoned an attempt to swim the English Channel at 1:32 a. m. today when she encountered a storm 10 miles off the French coast.

The swimmer had been in the water six hours.

Mrs. Haynes Beaten In Asheville Tourney

Asheville, N. C., July 28 (AP).—Kathryn Hemphill, of Columbia, S. C., and Kathryn Fryberger, of Providence, R. I., won their way into the finals of the Biltmore Forest women's invitation golf tournament today.

Miss Hemphill, a high school lass, downed Jane Cothran, 20-year-old Greenville, S. C., miss, 1 up, in a sparkling battle. Miss Fryberger beat Mrs. J. Marvin Haynes, Washington, D. C., veteran, 3 and 1.

Miss Fryberger took the second and third holes in her match with Mrs. Haynes and was never headed. She was 2 up at the turn and 3 up at the twelfth.

AMERICAN LEAGUE attendance is running far behind 1932...according to League President Harridge, who is in our midst for the current series with the Yanks...Philadelphia, far from being a contender, has been the greatest disappointment in point of receipts...but with Boston battling for a first division berth, there is still a chance of surpassing the total 1932 attendance...last year's total was helped by the 80,000 crowd at the opening of the new Cleveland Stadium...there will be nothing done toward remitting Bill McAfee's $250 fine for slugging a Cleveland heckler...When the Nats were winning, there were no squawks from Owner Griffith... when they bumped into a losing streak, Griff shipped back to the factory a lot of balls he claimed were soft...the manufacturers took into consideration the fact that the Nats hadn't been doing so well lately...Joe Cronin is as good as signed for 1934...no matter what happens during the rest of the season..Griffith must either sign Cronin as manager again or trade him to another club . . . no playing manager has ever stepped back to the ranks on the same club . . . as evidence are the cases of Bucky Harris, George Sisler, Rogers Hornsby . . . Austin, Perry Win From French Defeat Merlin, Cochet in Davis Cup Play; Need One Victory.

By Wallace F. Carroll.

AUTEUIL, France, July 28 (U.P.). England's Davis Cup forces virtually guaranteed the removal of the famed international trophy across the channel today by scoring a clean sweep of the first two singles matches in the challenge round with France.

After Wilfred Henry (Bunny) Austin had trounced the youngster, Andre Merlin, 6—3, 6—4, 6—0, Fred Perry shattered France's hopes for a sixth successful defense of the cup by defeating the once mighty Henri Cochet, 8—10, 6—4, 8—6, 3—6, 6—1.

Need One Victory.

The English now need but one victory in the remaining three matches to end France's reign that began in 1921 and gain possession of the cup for the first time since 1912. That they will gain this needed point seems certain, for while

Victory of Fiddler, Paying $35.44 for $2, Is Sweet Music to Arlington Fans

Rusty Beaten 2 Lengths in Feature

Latonia Mud Cancels Verona Purse; Fourth Race to Agincourt.

Precursor, at 9-10, Wins at Empire City, But Is Hard Pressed.

ARLINGTON PARK, Ill., July 28 (AP).—Fiddler, a horse which refused to sound like music to form players in his recent trials, got tuned up to a perfect pitch here today and conquered seven other runners in the fifth event at 1 mile, a claiming affair.

Ridden by Jockey E. Decamilles, Fiddler, racing in the colors of A. Pelleteri, of New Orleans, overtook the tiring leaders, Rusty and Louie Dear, winning by two lengths. Jack Howard's Louie Dear, odds-on, raced himself into the ground when challenged by Rusty and saved the short end of the purse.

Fiddler ran the mile in 1:37 3-5, paying $35.44 in the $2 straight mutuels.

Mud Order at Latonia.

Latonia, Ky., July 28 (AP).—Mud was the order here this afternoon, heavy overnight rains converting the racing strip into a veritable quagmire. Withdrawals riddled what had promised to be an unusually interesting off-day card and substitutes were necessary in the third and sixth races, as the original contests were declared off.

With the Verona Purse canceled, the fourth event, a 6-furlong dash for mares and fillies, attracted the best field and principal interest. The winner turned up in B. O. Hickman's 7-year-old mare, Agincourt.

Dusky Dame in Second.

Mrs. H. C. Ragan's Dusky Dame grabbed the place from the heavily played favorite Nell Kuhlman, owned by W. F. Lutz.

The winner paid $8.38.

Jack Mayer, a mite of a lad who donned riding silks only three months ago, piloted home five winners. He opened his winning streak with Border Patrol from Laffoon & Yeiser's Stable in the third number. Then in rapid succession, missing only the fifth, he scored with Agincourt, Tendril, Mrs. K. Ramsay's Popo and C. V. Whitney's Cresta Run.

Precursor Wins at 9 to 10.

Empire City Race Track, New York, July 28 (AP).—H. W. Maxwell's colt, Precursor, was a 9-to-10 favorite in the featured Somers Purse of 5½ furlongs here today and the son of Canter managed to score by a length. But two of his three opponents made it a real horse race before conceding victory.

C. V. Whitney's Piety and W. M. Jefford's Escadron, the second and third horses, both extended the winner all the way. There was only a neck between the challengers at the end. Border Knight, the only other starter, was well beaten. The time was 1:07.

Racing luck played some part in the running. Piety led around the first turn, with Escadron second and Precursor third, while Border Knight was outrun. Landolt was lucky to get through with the favorite on the inside around the bend approaching the stretch turn, and while he was moving up, Piety was pinched in between two horses. Precursor opened up daylight in the straightaway, while Piety finished fast to outlast Escadron.

Strange as It Seems —By John Hix

THE ashes of a cigar, together with the smoke and other products of combustion, weigh more than the cigar did before it was smoked. This is a fact which can be verified by experiment in the chemical laboratory by catching and weighing the smoke, moisture evaporated by the heat, and oils given off.

Basically the principle is this: The tobacco leaf contains a large amount of carbon which when the cigar is burned, combines with oxygen in the air to form carbon dioxide. The resultant compound is obviously heavier than the original carbon. This and other products of combustion can not be accurately weighed without special equipment and, although there appears to be nothing but ash left after a cigar is burned, the smoke is just as much a part of the burned cigar as the ash.

Trapshooting offers a strange exception to the usual amateur-professional classifications. Whereas in most sports the amateur can not accept cash prizes while the professional can, the opposite is true in trapshooting contests. This fact is explained by this situation:

Amateurs are sportsmen who own their own guns and buy their own ammunition, while professionals are employees of gun and ammunition companies. All may, under the rules, compete for the cash prizes, but this is never done by the professional, whose employers are more interested in popularizing their product than getting cash prizes for their hired marksmen.

Colors give added realism to strange things and happenings illustrated by John Hix on a full page in The Sunday Post.

At the Post . . .

Dear Al: Arlington Park, July 28.

Getaway day here and if I don't do myself some good tomorrow Mike and I will have to walk over to Hawthorne on Monday. I had them in the money in every race today, but my only winner was Don Manuel and he didn't pay enough to buy stamps for my fan mail. Mike says I can get real dough by playing Night Patrol. St. Mica, Technique and Depression. However, I'd rather take my chances with these nags at this track. If you must get into action tomorrow you might as well take your chances with me. BILL.

First race—LaSalle can have no excuse tomorrow if he doesn't win this sprint. I tried to guess him and failed when he came gliding home the last time out. Drops weight here. Morsun is the one to fear. Sarazen II may complete the money picture.

Second race—Providing Voltamaid is sent back tomorrow, this one should make it two straight. Never out of a pull in winning today. Bright Knot is my longshot place proposition. Bedight for the show end.

Third race—Secluded comes off a fine victory to take on this field and looks like a repeater. Playful Martha was well liked in the paddock late today. May beat out Jens Son for the show.

Fourth race—Gift of Roses is going to do a lot of running tomorrow. Enough, I believe, to take care of Pairbypair and Mr. Sponge. Gets in with a shift in the weights and comes off a brilliant winning effort.

Fifth race—First Minstrel won't be an odds-on favorite tomorrow and will get a different ride. I can hear the booes that will greet the victory of this juvenile after that failure the other day. Mata Hari, backed by capable moves, looms second best. Singing Wood for the show.

Sixth race—Watch Him ran a powerful race behind Equipoise and seems suited to win this one. Polydorous is the one to beat. Yonkel's present speed and light impost may bring a money appearance.

Seventh race—Haramzada is a pretty wise horse. He looked at the odds board the other day and refused to run at those figures. However, he promises to be overlooked tomorrow, and don't be surprised if he steps home. Eskimo is just about forcing himself off my list. Ed Lark is a possibility.

Eighth race—Rolling Sea gets the Bennings call in this race. Good and Hot for the place and War to take care of the show.

Ninth race—I'm taking Sandwrack. Yes, and I'm expecting another $36 mutuel. Cog-Air and Mintogee for the rest.

Mata Hari 6-5 Choice Today In Futurity

Singing Wood Is Conceded Chance in $35,000 Added Race at Arlington.

ARLINGTON PARK, Chicago, July 28 (AP).—Beat Mata Hari and take the $48,000.

That is the task of eight other fashionable stars of the American turf in the $35,000 added Arlington Futurity at 6 furlongs at Arlington Park tomorrow.

Mata Hari, spectacular daughter of Peter Hastings, owned by Charles T. Fischer, of Detroit, was installed the 6-to-5 favorite tonight. Tomorrow's race will be the fourth start of her sensational career. She has never been defeated. She will have Far Star as a running mate. These two in Arlington's rich Lassie Stakes recently finished first and second.

Singing Wood, 6 to 1.

Out of tomorrow's race may come the 2-year-old champion of the American turf for 1933. The betting indicated that Singing Wood, owned by Mrs. John Hay Whitney, of New York, would be Mata Hari's chief rival. The Greentree entry of First Minstrel and Earnings was rated at third choice, at 6 to 1 in the betting.

The second running of the Futurity brings to a close the brilliant season of 30 days' racing at Arlington Park. The crowd promises to be the largest of the season and may reach 30,000.

Sarpolis Faces Raines Next Thursday

Bout to Precede Londos' Battle With Steele on Wrestling Card.

DENTIST, music master, gentleman, scholar and philosopher, Dr. Karl Sarpolis, rassler, returns to Washington after a long absence, Thursday night. In one of the lead-ups to Jim Londos' championship row with Ray Steele, Sarpolis is scheduled 30 minutes against demon Dick Raines, Texas cowboy.

Easily one of the most interesting rasslers ever to show locally, yet booked in Washington only periodically, Sarpolis will be welcomed by mat addicts on his return here.

Since last showing here, Raines has developed into an A-1 rassle performer around New York and Boston. He has displayed marked improvement every time out.

Sarpolis will qualify for bigger matches if he gets past Raines. To do so, however, he must get by a rough-and-ready youngster who has created many an upset.

Tri-City Regatta Opening on Severn Today Draws Many Prominent Drivers

First Event Scheduled At 2:30

Annual Program Will Be Continued Through Tomorrow.

Connolly and Flowers Are Among Skillful Pilots Entered.

THE roar of speedboats whirling through the misty spray of the Severn River will resound once again today at Herald Harbor, scene of the annual Tri-City regatta. Drivers from virtually every section of the Atlantic seaboard, driving everything from 125-horsepower motors to Class A outboards, will answer the starting gun.

Long regarded as one of the best sectional regattas of the East, the Tri-City gradually is assuming the aspect of a junior President's Cup race. Color, action and thrills galore are embodied in the affair, which will continue through tomorrow.

Gibbs, Hasslinger Entered.

Two names synonymous with speedboat racing and swift craft, Gar Wood and Horace Dodge, will be represented. W. Dixon Gibbs, of Woodstock, Md., is driving the Queen Anne, a Gar Wood boat, powered with a 125-horsepower engine. The Dodge interests will be represented by Walter Hasslinger, Baltimore pilot, who will be behind the wheel of the Miss Longpoint, equally as powerful as its rival.

Amateurs and professionals, age and youth, will pull the throttles wide open as the bobbing craft swerve swiftly around guide buoys. One of the veterans is C. M. Connolly, 44-year-old pilot, from Heuveton, N. Y. He will race the Dizzy Too in the Class B outboard motor event. At the helm of a speedboat since first able to toddle around, Connolly is one of the game's most colorful and popular figures.

Flowers Will Drive.

Another widely known participant is Don Flowers, Oyster Bay (N. Y.). youth, who tours the country in an auto, his speedboat behind on a trailer. Entered in Class B and C outboard, Flowers will have an able opponent in another New Yorker, Francis Kirkpatrick, of Buffalo. Rated among the most skillful pilots in the game, the two are keen, albeit friendly rivals.

The first event today is scheduled at 2:30 o'clock. Racing will continue until well after 6 o'clock. Tomorrow the program will be resumed at 10:30 a. m., continuing throughout the day.

Netwomen Open Maidstone Play

Win Will Give Mrs. Moody Permanent Possession of Woodin Cup.

Easthampton, N. Y., July 28 (AP).—With Mrs. Helen Wills Moody heading the entry list, the outstanding women tennis players of the United States and England tomorrow will open play in the eighth annual invitation tournament at the Maidstone Club.

A victory for Mrs. Moody would give the Wimbledon champion permanent possession of the Woodin Gold Cup, a trophy donated by the Secretary of the Treasury in 1926. In addition to having two legs on the singles trophy, she has won the doubles three times, each with different partners.

Dorothy Round, who carried Mrs. Moody to three sets in the finals at Wimbledon, tops the English contingent, which also includes the British No. 1 ranking player, Mary Heely, Betty Nuthall, Margaret Scriven, Fred James and Mrs. L. B. C. Michell, all member of the Wightman Cup team.

Other outstanding American entries include Elizabeth Ryan, former Californian now living in England; Sarah Palfrey, Marjorie Sachs, Mrs. Marjorie Gladman Van Ryn, Virginia Rice, Josephine Cruickshank, Alice Marble and Carolin Babcock.

Indianhead to Play.

Indianhead Cardinals will travel to Charlottesville, Va., Sunday for a game with the team of that town. Jack Edmonston will hurl for the Cards.

Houghton Tops M. A. Golfers At Trials

His 135 Lowest Ever Made in Qualifying Round of P. G. A. Event.

down in one putt. Thorn shot a 70—73 and Larkin a 71—72.

Mel Shorey, diminutive East Potomac pro, a 1932 qualifier, finished with a 144, while Billy Molloy, Fred McLeod's red-haired assistant at Columbia, came to life with a 69 in the afternoon, after scoring a 76 in the morning.

The most disappointed man in the field was the man mountain from Hillendale, Carroll T. McMaster, who was two strokes behind Houghton in the morning, with a 68, but blew up just like a carload of TNT on the second 18 to take a 77.

Houghton Under Par.

Houghton never had anything to worry about in the afternoon, after he had clipped 4 strokes off par in the morning round. Out in 34, he bagged 4 birdies on the stretch for a 32, to come within 3 strokes of tying Beach's all-time course mark.

In the afternoon, the Kenwood pro kept along the even tenor of his way, rounding the turn in 34. He topped par only once during the final 18, going over the short sixteenth, when he dumped his tee shot into a trap guarding the green. It was the only time he was in a trap during the day. A birdie 3 on the final hole enabled the Kenwood pro to break par for the afternoon and wind up the day's play 5 under the 36 holes. Houghton was off the fairway only four times, but recovered brilliantly each time.

Cruickshank also played beautiful golf, and his 68 was low for the afternoon. The little Scot made a great finish, scoring 3 birdies on the last nine for a 33, a couple of breaks on the green and Cruickshank would have been 5 strokes lower.

Sidelines . . .

By Edward J. Neil.

THE crushing defeat of the United States Davis Cup Team by the English at Roland Garros Stadium brings the suggestion from young Sidney Wood that the game be given back to the boys.

Wood, allegedly on the receiving end of a high-pressure pep talk during the 1931 interzone final against the same English team which he claims contributed to his defeat says:

"Our teams are handicapped by too much officiating. You can't call your life your own if you're playing in cup competition and it ruins you. I favor a new deal that allows the boys to go to Europe alone and on their own. Then we might get somewhere."

Sidney's suggestion might well be given a trial, as the U. S. L. T. A. has tried everything else and still seems as far away as ever from its objective of retrieving the Davis Cup.

It seems reasonable to assume that after a player has reached the status of membership on the cup team he should have some idea as to his own condition.

Tilden Did.

Big Bill Tilden always had his own ideas as to preparation for cup play, and it was his refusal to allow some real estate agent, lawyer or stock broker to tell him how he should do this which caused so many bitter clashes with the ruling powers.

Despite the statements of Capt. Bernon Prentice and Coach Mercer Beasley that Vines and Allison were undertrained for the tie with England, it is the opinion in this corner that the reverse is true.

The U. S. L. T. A. for years has seemed to think that all its youngsters were second Tildens, who would thrive on work, and the more the better.

Every Davis Cup Team since the trophy was lost in 1927 has played at Wimbledon on grass a few days before the interzone final and challenge rounds. Tilden could stand it, so could the stoutly built Frank Hunter, but they were poured from a different mold than America's two leading singles players of today.

A Suggestion or Two.

Not even a major league baseball player, the hardest working of all professional athletes, plays any such rigorous schedules as a top-flight tennis player, nor under half the strain. Vines and Allison have been playing tennis almost continuously for two years and no matter what the player's constitution or temperament, I submit that is too much "play" in so strenuous a sport.

There were contributing factors to Vines' downfall over which the U. S. L. T. A. had no control—the juicy professional offers for a few—but for a nation anxious to win back the Davis Cup the junket to Australia last winter now looks like a very foolish move indeed.

The suggestion is respectfully submitted to the tennis "brain trust" and they forget Wimbledon, Australia, the "hands across the sea" business for just one year, train a team on clay and send it over to bring back the cup, and with no other objective.

With Australia developing a fine crop of youngsters and England's Perry and Austin apparently just reaching their peak, the United States had best be settling on some Cup plan that disregards all other considerations except return of the trophy or they may soon find a tougher opponent than the French with which to cope.

Hard to Keep Players.

Toledo, Ohio (AP).—Toledo baseball fans have very good reasons to wish two American League teams well, and to hope that they are not forced to call for reserves. When Detroit and Cleveland failed to do as well as expected Cleveland withdrew two of Toledo's stars, Pitcher Monte Pearson and Outfielder Milton Galatzer. Detroit withdrew Frank Doljack.

Capital Sculler Wins Singles in Ontario

P. L. Brower Victor Over Canadian; New Yorkers Dominate Regatta.

PORT DALHOUSIE, Ontario, July 28 (AP).—A band of youthful oarsmen who disdain orthodox form but have plenty of the brawn and courage it takes to win brought the Buffalo West Sides four more national titles in the Royal Canadian Henley Regatta today.

The invaders from New York State captured the junior eights, junior doubles, intermediate 140-pound fours and intermediate 150-pound fours, to boost their total championships for the first two days of the regatta to seven. They had won the junior fours, junior 140-pound fours and junior 150-pound fours yesterday.

Brower Takes Crown.

Another championship fell into the hands of the United States as P. L. Brower, wealthy Washington, D. C., sculler, captured the association singles, beating R. Ingraham, of St. John, New Brunswick, and D. Wallace, of Halifax Jubilees, third.

Brower, who withdrew from the quarter-mile dash yesterday, gave an impressive exhibition in winning the association singles in 8:05. The Washington sculler finished a length in front of R. Ingraham, of St. John, N. B., with D. Wallace, of Halifax, third.

Canada accounted for the other five titles decided today. Brockville defeated Detroit and Buffalo in the junior 140-pound eights and won the junior singles as well. The Toronto Argonauts captured the junior 140-pound singles, Hamilton the 150-pound eights, and the Toronto Dons the junior 140-pound doubles in a rowover.

The Hamilton Leanders won their heat of the senior eights in 6:39½, beating Buffalo. The other heat went to the Detroit Wyandottes in 6:50, with the University of Toronto second.

Cochet may defeat Austin Sunday; Merlin should be easy for Perry.

France's one hope, the experts agreed tonight, was to conscript Jean Borotra for singles. Borotra, who with Jacques Brugnon, is favored to win the doubles tomorrow, has steadfastly refused to engage in singles.

14,000 Watch Play.

More than 14,000 spectators braved a scorching sun to watch today's play. It was a saddened gallery that left the stadium at the completion of play, for it had not only seen the cup all but removed, but had seen their beloved little master, Cochet, reach the end of the trail.

Cochet today was only occasionally the player who not so many years ago handled the game's greatest with nonchalant ease. For brief moments he was all he used to be, thrusting and parrying with magical deftness. But when he came up for the fifth and deciding set his exhaustion was plain even to those spectators in the last row seats. His shoulders drooped and his shots lacked power. Sensing his opponent's condition, Perry, still fresh, stormed the net and took Cochet's weak returns and hammered them back for outright kills.

Loses Chance in Third.

Cochet lost his big chance to win the match in the third set. Leading 5—3 and 40—30 in the tenth game on his own service, he allowed Perry to pull out and go on to win.

The Frenchman, attacking the net brilliantly, won the first set and the gallery, almost hysterical with excitement, gave him a tremendous hand as the players changed courts. Time and again in this set Cochet met Perry's stinging drives in midcourt and deftly flipped them back for placements. Cochet started the second set bravely, quickly running up a 4—2 lead, but this advantage faded quickly when the Briton, finding himself outsteadied and outmaneuvered from the baseline, stormed the net. From this point he raked Cochet's faltering backhand with a barrage of volleys and drives to the corners which the Frenchman either missed or muffed.

Perry was forced to come from behind in the third set just as in the second. Trailing, 3—5, and with Cochet at set point in the ninth game, he brought the partisan gallery to its feet with a magnificent flurry of tennis.

Wins Five in a Row.

Cochet was the old Cochet in the fourth set, lifting his game to concert pitch just when it seemed he must lose. Trailing, 1—3, he made Perry look foolish at the net with a series of amazingly accurate passing shots down the sidelines, and ran off five games in a row.

Realizing his opponent was weary, Perry started the fifth set in whirlwind fashion, using a strategy that called for nothing more subtle than slamming every shot with all his power to Cochet's backhand.

Merlin, a newcomer to international tennis, was helpless before Austin. Bunny's long, fluent strokes made Merlin helpless at the baseline, and on those occasions when the desperate French youngster charged the net, Austin left him flat-footed with whistling shots or teasing lobs that barely stayed inside. Only in the second set, when Austin, leading, 4—0, slowed down his game and allowed the Frenchman to even the count, was the match anything but one-sided.

Richmond Youths Win Legion Crown

Nose Out Pulaski, 8 to 6; Will Represent State in Sectional Play.

Hampton, Va., July 28 (AP).—Richmond's Junior American Legion Baseball Team defeated Pulaski, 8 to 6, today to win the right to represent Virginia in the sectional play at Gastonia, N. C.

Earlier in the afternoon the Newport News Team, defeated 2 to 1 by Richmond yesterday, pounded out a 29-to-0 decision over the Pulaski lads. The game was called after five innings with the Pulaski team hopelessly outcluassed.

The Southwesterns came back in their tilt with Richmond to put up a great scrap against the Capital City boys. Richmond, after scoring two runs in the early innings, pounded out six more markers in the seventh to lead, 8 to 0.

Pulaski retaliated with a vigorous batting attack in the same inning to send across a half dozen runs, but neither team was able to score in the two remaining innings.

The States of Virginia, North Carolina, South Carolina and Tennessee will be represented in the regional play.

All-Stars to Drill.

Wash B. Williams All-Stars will drill today at 4:30 o'clock on the North Ellipse diamond. All players are requested to report promptly.

U. S. Yawl Dorade Wins 720-Mile Race

Cowes, Isle of Wight, July 28 (AP). The American yawl Dorade, famous for her victory in the Newport to Plymouth ocean race in 1931, today captured the 720-mile yachting race from Cowes to Fastnet Rock, Ireland, and return.

Sailed by Roderick and Olin J. Stephens, the Dorade finished 6 hours behind the British yacht Flame, sailed by Robert Somerset, but her handicap of 17 hours gave her victory by a margin of about 11 hours.

Australian Horse In American Debut

Winooka to Go to Post in $10,000 Match Race at Tanforan.

San Francisco, July 28 (AP).—With the memory of the great Phar Lap still fresh in the minds of American track followers, another crack Australian thoroughbred will make his debut in this country tomorrow when Winooka goes to the post at Tanforan in a $10,000 match race.

The Australian invader will be paired against either Frisky Matron or Hueu, of the Charles A. Hartwell Stable.

It will be a 5-furlong sprint, weight-for-age race, with Winooka under the impost of 120 pounds as against 105 pounds for its American rival. Hartwell was uncertain which of his two stars he would start.

Products in Test Minus 2 Players

Face Clarendon Tomorrow Without Capt. Cotter and Pitcher Bell.

Dixie Products Juniors will be without the services of two star players, Joseph Cotter, captain and shortstop, and Roddy Bell, pitcher, when they face Clarendon tomorrow in an important Capital City League game, because of a ruling of the league's executive committee last night.

The committee voted to suspend both players for their part in a disturbance, which included striking an umpire, in a recent league game. Although declared ineligible last Sunday, Cotter played against the Goodacre's team, and for this reason was set down for the final game of the campaign. Victory for Clarendon tomorrow would give it the second half championship and the right to play Goodacre's, first half champions, in a three-game series for the championship.

Another hitch was thrown into the midget series when the Eastern A. C. was awarded a forfeit over the Savoy team, thus creating a triple tie between Eastern, Washington Maid and Potomac Fish Co. Savoy used Frank Bailey, an ineligible player. President Richard S. Tennyson announced he would take steps to suspend Howard Mann, manager of the team, for the remainder of the season, for using Bailey.

Hornsby Takes Over Reins; Will Delay Brown Changes

By Paul Mickelson.

CHICAGO, July 28 (AP).—Rogers Hornsby started on his fourth adventure today as manager of a major league club by taking charge of the cave dwellers of the American League, the St. Louis Browns.

A little grayer around the temples, a trifle heavier and apparently far more mellow than during his stormy career in the National League, the Rajah held a secret session with his new mates in the banquet room of a southside hotel.

He was introduced to the players by L. C. McEvoy, vice president of the club, who let them know without mincing words that Hornsby was undisputed boss. With that, McEvoy left the meeting.

Seems Different Man.

Hornsby, back in a managerial role in a rival league, after piloting the St. Louis Cards, Boston Braves and Chicago Cubs, seemed a different man. He chatted with the players about other subjects rather than baseball and wound up by telling them to take the day off to do as they pleased. It was an open date in their schedule.

"This is just the kind of a job I've always wanted," he said, as the familiar Hornsby grin spread across his face. "Nobody can kick me now—at least for a while—for not winning a pennant because of a couple of injured players and other unforeseen hard luck. I'm starting with a last-place club and working up. And that's a whole lot better than starting at the top and being kicked down to the bottom by a long, long ways, mister."

No Drastic Shakeup Soon.

Except to say that he had only seen the Browns in action about six times and that he didn't plan any immediate drastic shakeups, the Rajah was reticent to talk about his reorganization plans.

"They tell me that we have a great double-play combination, and that's important," he mused. "We'll have to center on what we have for the rest of the season and experiment with new material. We need hitters and pitchers. Myself? Sure, I plan to get in there swinging as a pinch hitter during the rest of the season. I'm not as old as Babe Ruth—I'm only 37—and if my heel improves over the winter, I hope to play regularly. You know, I can hit."

One of the Rajah's first official acts was to send Outfielder Sam West and Pitcher George Blaeholder back to St. Louis to recover from illnesses.

Shields Swamps Mangin in Finals

Shields a total of 36, against Mangin's 54.

Tomorrow Miss Jacobs and Miss Palfrey will meet for the women's singles bowl, Parker and Shields will team against Wood and Mangin in men's doubles, and Bryan Grant, of Atlanta, Ga., and Marjorie Gladman Van Ryn, will face Dr. Esther Bartosh, Los Angeles, and Henry Prusoff, Seattle, Wash., in mixed doubles.

In the semifinal round of the mixed doubles Mrs. John Van Ryn, Philadelphia, and Bryan Grant, Atlanta, Ga., defeated Josephine Cruickshank, Santa Ana, Calif., and James W. Nuthall, England, 4—6, 8—6, 6—3. Dr. Esther Bartosh, Los Angeles, Calif., and Henry Prusoff, Seattle, Wash., defeated Norma Taubele, New York, and D. G. Freshwater, England, 8—6, 7—9, 7—5.

Public Parks Semifinals Today

Shore Meets Welsh and Latona Plays Hermann at Rock Creek.

PLAY in the men's singles of the public parks tennis championship tournament narrows down to the first four seeded players in the semifinals scheduled for the Rock Creek Reservoir courts this afternoon.

The Frank Shore-Barney Welsh match at 2 o'clock, pitting as it does Shore's deceptive chop-stroke against the smashing tactics of Welsh, promises a very interesting contest. The 3 o'clock match between Tony Latona and Gene Hermann also promises to be a closely contested affair, with Latona's superior back court game giving him a slight edge in the opinion of most tennis enthusiasts.

Tabler Plays Stone.

At 1 o'clock the semifinals in the women's singles are scheduled, with Clara Tabler opposing Frances Stone. Finals in the women's doubles, involving the teams of Frances Stone-Frances Walker and Sara Moore-Bobsy Turney, will be held at 3 o'clock. Quarter-finals in the men's doubles are also carded for 3.

It is expected that all singles finals, as well as the doubles semifinals, will be played Sunday. The finals in the doubles events probably will be played Monday.

Yesterday's Results.

Women's doubles (semifinals)—Moore-Turney defeated Philpitt-Ryan, 3—6, 6—4.

Today's Schedule.

Men's singles (semifinals)—2 p. m., Shore vs. Welsh; 3 p. m., Latona vs. Hermann.
Women's singles (semifinals)—1 p. m., Tabler vs. Stone.
Women's doubles (finals), 3 p. m., Stone-Walker vs. Moore-Turney.
Men's doubles (quarter-finals)—3 p. m., Welsh-O'Neil vs. Staubley-Haney, Goldsmith-Wallenstein vs. Mesmer-Degnan.

Strickler Faces Irving In North Beach Tonight

Billy Strickler will meet Henry Irving in the feature bout of a show to be presented tonight at North Beach by the volunteer fire department of that town. Four preliminary bouts are on the card. All will be three-round affairs.

Roddy Davis and Carey Wright also are on the program. They tangle in the main preliminary. Other bouts are Phil Furr vs. Wild Bill Howell, Joe Green vs. Johnny Long and Sammy Fuscon vs. Tony Cattela. Cattela won the 70-pound crown in the 1933 Junior Golden Gloves tournament.

Admission is free. Ernie Loveless, chairman of the committee in charge, has obtained Jimmy Lake to do the announcing and Pat O'Connor for referee.

12 Are Grilled As Suspects in Pistol Skirmish

Police Vow to Fix Guilt for Encounter in Downtown Residence Sector.

Determined to fix guilt for the 40-shot gun battle early yesterday on K street near Eighteenth street, police and detectives last night pushed over a wide sector to round up all gun toters as well as participants in the bullet melee.

Twelve persons had been arrested at midnight and grilled in connection with the pistol fusillade that startled the downtown residential section. At least a dozen more are sought for questioning.

Downtown Ninth street and sporting haunts were main centers of search. Word was sent to the precincts to round up participants in the battle or persons unlawfully carrying firearms.

Two Men in Hospital.

Meanwhile, John "Billy" Mitchell, a participant in the fusillade, lay in a grave condition at Emergency Hospital. The other wounded man, Louis Tapponier, 26, was in a serious condition at Garfield Hospital.

Homicide squad detectives declared last night that a quarrel over the affections of the wife of one of the men held was the cause of the gun fire.

The investigators learned that one of the men held had given a severe beating several months ago to a man still sought as one of the pistolmen. This was believed the cause of the pistol battle which began as a reprisal measure, but found the attacked armed and ready.

Vow to Fix Guilt.

Declaring "this sort of thing can't go on and shall not go on in Washington," Inspector Frank S. W. Burke, chief of detectives, last night threw his entire unit into a drive to fix the guilt for the gun battle.

Those now in custody, besides the two wounded men, are:

Louis Levin, 19, 2801 Thirty-third street southeast; James Paul Kyle, alias "Prim," 28, 1835 K street northwest; Andy Adelizzi, 26, 228 First street southeast; Stanley Petrone, 20, 90 K street northeast; Louis Norman, 20, 1434 Oak street northwest; Harry B. Eury, 23, 2811 Fourteenth street northwest; Gertrude Eury, 18, 2811 Fourteenth street northwest; Fred A. DeBoe, 19, 1002 Tenth street northwest; Joseph S. Dambrosio, 20, 228 First street northwest, and Barney Munitz, 19, 306 Four-and-a-half street southwest.

Credit Men's Aid, W. C. Foster, Dies

Former Justice Official Handling Fraud Cases Buried in Frederick.

Funeral services for Walter C. Foster, the late Director of Adjustment and Collection Bureaus of the National Association of Credit Men, who died Tuesday in New York City, were held yesterday at the C. C. Cline Funeral Chapel in Frederick, Md. Interment was at Mount Olivet Cemetery in Frederick.

A graduate of Georgetown University here, Mr. Foster also attended the University of Pennsylvania. He was admitted to the Virginia bar and for several years practiced law in that State. Later he joined the Department of Justice here in connection with its antitrust and fraud investigations, and handled numerous cases on Government contracts during the World War. Later he had direct supervision of the offices of the Department of Justice in Philadelphia and Pittsburgh, after which he became connected with the National Association of Credit Men, with which he remained until his death, representing the association in legislative matters.

Surviving Mr. Foster is his widow, Mrs. Minnie Foster, of New York City.

Circus to Feature Burmese Princess

Brass Spirals Make Neck of Mu Kaun 14 Inches Long.

When the long silver and scarlet trains of Hagenbeck-Wallace Circus arrive in Washington Wednesday morning, a royal princess of the Padaung tribe in Upper Burma will occupy a private car.

The Princess Mu Kaun is a member of an almost extinct colony 400 miles north of Rangoon. Aristocrats among the Padaungs encircle their necks with solid brass spirals superimposed from infancy with a view toward elongating the necks to amazing lengths. Mu Kaun's neck is 14 inches long and the brass weighs approximately 50 pounds.

The princess and her husband, Maung Dah, covered more than 12,000 miles in their trip by native oxcart, elephant transport, steamship, river boat and train to America.

Steinhauer to Examine Air Pageant Aspirants

J. Earl Steinhauer, assistant manager of the College Park Airport, will be flight inspector for District of Columbia amateur pilots who seek to qualify for the National Air Pageant in New York, October 7 and 8. Those who desire the examination will see Steinhauer during the next few weeks at the airport.

Eligibles will compete for the benefit of charity at the New York meet, where cash prizes totaling $10,000 will be distributed.

Monkey Runs Amuck; Bites Two Children

Neighborhood Terrified as Hero Makes Capture With Watermelon.

All was quiet in the jungles of East Capitol street last night, for Rasputin, a mad monkey, was safely locked up.

Rasputin escaped from the home of his owner, John Griardma, 1 Second street northeast, shortly before noon yesterday and began scampering wildly up and down East Capitol street, sending residents rushing into their houses.

Two Children Bitten.

Lenwood Oyork, 11, Forestville, Md., was a little slow taking to cover and Rasputin bit him on the leg.

Then the monk began climbing into windows and a wild exodus of children and adults alike resulted.

In the meantime, Francis S. Orr, 6, of 216 East Capitol street, was bitten on both legs.

Hero to Rescue.

Robert E. Loftus, 212 East Capitol street, noticed that the monkey seemed to like watermelon. Attracting the animal's attention, he dropped a piece into a large garbage can.

In jumped the monk, on went the top of the can and the capture was made.

Francis was rushed to Casualty Hospital for treatment. The Oyork boy was treated at home.

Rasputin was taken to Ninth Precinct and from there to the District pound.

Griardma later claimed the monkey and was allowed to take it home on the understanding it would be brought in for observation for rabies.

The monkey had been raised as a pet by Griadma and his wife ever since the animal's babyhood, he told pound officials.

Ground for New School.

Purchase of Lots 151 and 158 at Third and G streets northeast as a site for the new Logan school from B. F. and Irene Johnson for $8,000, was ordered yesterday by the District Commissioners.

U. S. Milk Probe Delays Marketing Agreement

No marketing agreement for the Washington area will be submitted until the Senate investigation of milk prices is completed, the Maryland and Virginia Milk Producers Association told Senator King yesterday.

However, John McGill, secretary-treasurer of the association, said conferences to effect a tentative agreement would be held between producers and distributors.

"Camera Eye" Helps Officer Catch Fugitive

Sergeant Recognizes Man From Photo He Saw 2 Years Ago.

Because he remembered a photograph he had seen in police headquarters two years ago, Detective Sergt. Frank O. Brass yesterday was able to arrest a fugitive wanted on counterfeiting charges in Paterson, N. J.

Ernest Ross, alias Ernest Zeoli, 1450 Newton place northwest, was arrested by Brass at Griffith Stadium when the detective recalled the man's face.

Ross, wanted by Department of Justice agents, was taken to headquarters, where fingerprint and picture identification was made. Currency totaling $438, found on his person, was being examined by Secret Service operatives to determine its authenticity.

Ross, 33 years old, gave his occupation as a barber. He will be turned over to Paterson authorities on a fugitive from justice warrant.

According to information here, Ross was indicted in 1931 in Paterson on a charge of counterfeiting. He is said to have jumped bond.

Bank Sues Colin H. Livingston.

The Munsey Trust Co. yesterday filed suit in District Supreme Court against Colin H. Livingston for $8,360. Through Attorney George B. Fraser the trust company alleged Mr. Livingston signed two demand notes aggregating $8,000 which have not been paid.

President Asks Youth to Help Recovery Plan

Young Democratic Group, Mapping Plans Here, Gets His Plea.

"Definite and practical results" for young Democrats who continue to "plug" for the administration were predicted last night as the resolutions subcommittee of the national committee of the Young Democrat Clubs of America went into executive session to draft resolutions and by-laws for a national convention in Kansas City next month.

The subcommittee, on which Lyda Mae Francis represents the District of Columbia, was selected by the national committee at the opening of a two-day session in the Burlington Hotel yesterday.

To reassure young party workers that the administration appreciates their efforts, and to recommend a suitable course of action for the national convention, was declared to be the two-fold purpose of the meeting.

Speeches by administration leaders, including Postmaster General Farley, Senator McAdoo, Director of the Mint Nellie Tayloe Ross, United States Treasurer Julian and the reading of a message from President Roosevelt were the high points of the national committee meeting.

"When you return to your home States," the President's message read, "I hope that you will tell your friends that I am depending heavily on the youth of America to help in our great drive for national recovery."

Virginia and Maryland are represented on the resolutions subcommitte by L. B. Fenneman and John Galleher. Tyre Taylor, of North Carolina, is president and ex-officio chairman of the national committee.

R.F.C. Fights Suit Over Bank Notes

Asks Dismissal of Claim That Collateral Was Not Authorized.

The Reconstruction Finance Corporation yesterday sought dismissal of a suit recently brought against it and the Park Savings Bank by L. Helen Bentley, 416 Fifth street northwest, involving a note transaction.

The plaintiff said two $500 notes which she left with the bank for collection were transferred by the bank without authority to the R. F. C. as security for a loan. She also asked a money judgment on the face of the notes from Harry H. and Selma S. Wells, the makers.

The R. F. C., through Attorney William C. Fitts, asked dismissal saying it took the notes before maturity and without notice that the bank was incapable of passing good title. The Wells couple also asked dismissal on the ground the plaintiff had not shown she was owner of the notes.

Truck Owners Sued By Victim of Crash

The J. T. Richards Co., Inc., 1211 Water street southwest, yesterday was named defendant in a suit for $20,000 damages.

The suit, filed in the District Supreme Court by George F. Baxter, of Anacostia, alleged that a truck of the Richards company failed to stop for a "stop" sign on Pennsylvania avenue southeast last November.

A collision with Baxter's car resulted in him being seriously hurt, he said.

Fine Arts Body Urges Masonry For New Span

New Calvert Street Bridge Design Agreed Upon by Commission.

Prolonged controversy over the design of the new Calvert Street Bridge over Rock Creek Park, dating back to before the entry of the United States in the World War, neared its end yesterday when the Fine Arts Commission recommended a masonry bridge similar to the Taft Bridge at Connecticut avenue, nearby.

Since Congress authorized preparation of a design for the bridge early in 1917, Washington architects and District government engineers have battled over the design. The principal questions have been whether the bridge should be constructed of steel or masonry, and whether it should have one or five arches.

Action Held Decisive.

The commission acted decisively, apparently, on both questions, dismissing the steel structure proposal as being out of harmony with the major bridges of the District, and selecting a multiple-arch design of masonry harmonizing with the Connecticut avenue bridge a short distance away.

In its recommendation the commission stated it "recognized the opportunity to develop in connection with the Connecticut Avenue Bridge a composition of the first order. The two bridges have intimate reciprocal relations and should have a common bridge head at Connecticut avenue. The Commission of Fine Arts advises that the Calvert Street Bridge be of masonry, with multiple arches designed in harmony with the Connecticut Avenue Bridge. The commission will be pleased to consider such designs as may be submitted by the Commissioners of the District of Columbia along the lines indicated."

Gotwals Wants Steel One.

What the action of the District Commissioners will be on the recommendation is problematical in view of the support of Engineer Commissioner John C. Gotwals of the steel structure.

The Arts Commission met with the Park and Planning Commission and the joint meeting approved the widening of E street back of the Sherman monument and the opening of the street through to Seventeenth street northwest. Under this plan E street would be 50 feet wide from Fifteenth street to a point directly south of the White House. The new section from this point to Seventeenth street would be 40 feet wide. The Fine Arts Commission also recommended that no trucks be allowed in this area.

The link between the Lee boulevard and the Memorial Bridge was another matter discussed. A new plan was offered instead of the northern route originally suggested. This would carry the connecting link even farther north of Arlington Cemetery and would avoid the steep grade on the original northern plan.

Home Owners Loan Office Opens Today

Workers Get Instructions to Assist District Relief Hunters.

Everything will be ready for the big parade of Washington home owners who want help from the Government today when Charles A. Jones, manager of the local office of the Home Owners Loan Corporation addresses his corps of volunteer workers on how they are to go about their business.

The workers will assemble at 1:30 p. m. at the loan office in the northwest corner of the Shoreham building.

Jones said the public will not be welcome, either in person or by telephonic communication, until Monday. He asks that all foreclosures be withheld until his office has a chance to give attention to the cases.

Lost Fire Escape Wanted by Owner

The District Engineer Department was told yesterday to find a fire escape that has been missing from 1410 Eleventh street for three years.

A long legal document was served on the Commissioners yesterday by counsel for Mrs. Emile C. Snyder, owner of the Eleventh street property, demanding that District building inspectors "be required to locate and produce the fire escape reported by them" as installed on August 21, 1930.

The building inspector's office kept this record until last spring, when it was discovered that actually the fire escape for which a permit had been issued in 1930 was not at 1410 Eleventh street, the petition revealed. The Commissioners demanded that the fire escape be constructed at once.

Mrs. Snyder also learned that the Reed Thomas Co., which had taken the contract to erect the fire escape, is no longer in existence and that a new fire escape will cost $224. She asks damages.

Engineer Commissioner John C. Gotwals said he would investigate the complaint.

Washington Osteopath Reappointed to Office

Dr. Riley D. Moore, Washington osteopath, yesterday was reappointed chairman of the osteopathic exhibit in the National Museum at the annual convention of the American Osteopathic Association in Milwaukee, Wis.

Dr. Chester D. Swope, also of Washington, was reappointed chairman of the committee on public relations.

Blaze Wrecks Seventh Street Shop

Private P. C. Coffin searches in the walls of the Roberts Dress Shop, 712 Seventh street northwest, for stubborn remnants of a blaze that destroyed the interior of the store.

Fire Damages Seventh Street Dress Stores

Flames Sweep First Floor of Roberts'; Smoke Loss at Loeb's.

Fire of unknown origin yesterday destroyed the entire first floor of the Roberts Dress Shop, 712 Seventh street northwest. Two alarms were sounded before the blaze, which attracted a large crowd, was extinguished.

The fire started in the cash register counter and was confined almost entirely to the first floor. Fixtures and clothing on the second floor were damaged by smoke and water.

Before the flames were extinguished considerable smoke damage was done the adjoining dress shop of the Loeb Co., 714 Seventh street.

Robert D. Cogan, manager of the Roberts Dress Shop, who arrived on the scene shortly after the alarm, was unable to estimate the damage. The shop is owned by Mrs. Ethel Freedman.

Vendor Moves Stand Back; Wins Official Tilt

The vendor's stand at Eighteenth and G streets northwest, ordered moved a few feet by the District Commissioners last June, is to be moved right back where it was.

When his stand was ordered moved, Lawson Lee Carpenter, a former Alabaman, took the matter to Senator John H. Bankhead, of Alabama. Numerous letters, accompanied with drawings, followed. A lengthy investigation was made by police. The controversy was settled yesterday. The Commissioners capitulated and told the vendor to move back to the former location.

Ku Klux Klan Fete Launched at Ballston

Lighting of a fiery cross 78 feet high and a parade through Arlington County by klansmen in full regalia signalized the opening of the Ku Klux Klan carnival last night at Ballston, Va. More than 700 men and women from Washington, Maryland and Virginia and about 300 motor cars were in the parade.

Amusement features at the carnival were attended by a large crowd last night.

Fire Department Band To Hold Picnic Today

The 47-piece band of the Washington Fire Department will hold its annual picnic and concert this afternoon at the clubhouse at Woodland Beach, Md.

Members of the band and their families will be permitted all of the facilities of the beach.

Catalano Case Is Settled Over Bride Protest

Corporation Counsel Says Contractors Encouraged to Profiteer.

The District Commissioners yesterday agreed to a compromise with the Catalona Construction Co., of Baltimore, despite a ruling by Corporation Counsel William W. Bride that the contractor was guilty of violating the Bacon-Davis prevailing wage law.

While withholding comment, the Commissioners were reported to have reached the decision because of a fear that a cancellation of the contract would delay completion of the Phelps vocational school and a desire to give the contractor the same opportunity to make adjustments as has been previously given other offending builders of District schools.

Under the agreement the Baltimore contractor promised to pay the prevailing wage hereafter and to make up all shortages on back wages. It was agreed that carpenters should be paid $1 an hour and bricklayers $1.50 an hour, though the rate of pay for hod carriers and laborers was left for a subsequent decision by Bride. Testimony at a public hearing was that the Catalano company paid carpenters but 50 and 60 cents an hour and bricklayers 62½ cents, hodcarriers 35 cents and laborers 25 cents.

The Commissioners took no action on Bride's recommendation that a firm policy be adopted for the future, so that all contractors who bid on District projects would have ample warning that their contracts would be canceled upon conviction of violating the Bacon-Davis act.

"Heretofore, as the Commissioners are aware, the only penalty, if such it may be called, that a contractor suffers when complaints of this kind are established, is to do what he originally contracted to do," Bride wrote. "This fact, I am convinced, has heretofore encouraged some contractors to profiteer at the expense of their employees."

Woman Given Father's Body By Court Edict

Judge Decides Daughter, and Not Wife Should Bury Gardener.

Given permission by the District Supreme Court to bury the body, Mrs. Beatrice Wyatt, 1722 West Virginia avenue northeast, last night announced funeral services for her father, Maurice Grimes, 60, will be held this afternoon at Ladesburg, Md.

Justice Oscar R. Luhring ruled yesterday that the daughter, with whom the man had lived for 17 years, and not her mother, from whom he was separated, should have the privilege of burying him.

Mother and daughter launched a legal fight to determine their respective rights to the body of Grimes, who died three days ago, when the mother obtained a permit from the coroner and began preparations to take the body to Baltimore, where she lives.

Attorneys George Boden and Milton Conn appeared in court with an injunction which prevented the coroner from giving the body to any one until the court made a decision. This action was taken on behalf of Mrs. Wyatt.

Immediately after the decision had been handed down, yesterday a second daughter, Evelyn Matheney, of Baltimore, became hysterical and was carried bodily to a waiting automobile. Her mother, Mrs. Virginia Grimes, was also noticeably affected by the adverse ruling.

Grimes died from heat prostration while he was working in the gardens of an Anacostia florist.

Mrs. Calhoun Tells Of Offer on Debts

Society Leader Puts Up Art to Pay Rossdhu Managers' Bills.

Mrs. C. C. Calhoun, society leader and once one of Washington's wealthiest women, yesterday explained why she had offered three valuable pieces in her famous art collection to creditors of the Rossdhu Club.

The club, which has been operated in Mrs. Calhoun's lavish Maryland estate, Rossdhu Castle, for some time was one of the smartest gathering places near Washington.

Former managers of the club incurred nearly $5,000 in debts without her knowledge, according to Mrs. Calhoun. Feeling morally responsible for the debts, she offered the three pieces of art, two pictures and a Spanish cabinet, in payment, with the provision that she gets the difference between the amount of the debts and the sale price.

One of the pictures, a Constable, is valued at $10,000 by Mrs. Calhoun.

Six Hurt as Three Cars Skid, Collide

One Baltimore-Bound Auto Fails to Avoid South-Bound Machines.

Six persons were injured on the Baltimore boulevard yesterday as three automobiles skidded on wet asphalt and collided near Muirkirk, Md.

The most seriously injured was Isadore E. White, 40, of Baltimore. He was removed to Sibley Hospital by an ambulance from White's undertaking establishment at Laurel. He was said to have several fractured ribs.

Others receiving less serious injuries included Mrs. Andrew J. Clark and her daughter, Catherine Clark, of Baltimore; George J. Ristine, 50, Philadelphia, and Marion Davis and Beatrice Marberg, of Washington.

The accident occurred, according to State Policeman C. R. Parker, when Ristine's car, traveling toward Baltimore, skidded to avoid colliding with another northbound machine.

The Ristine auto, Parker said, obstructed the pathway of two southbound cars. One was operated by White and the other by Andrew J. Clark, jr., son of the injured woman. All drivers were held under bond for reckless driving.

Rum Charges Hold Woman and 2 Men

Upper Marlboro Commissioner Orders Defendants to Federal Court.

At a hearing before United States Commissioner J. Frank Parran at Upper Marlboro yesterday two men and a woman were held for the Federal court on liquor charges.

Walter Tippett, 53, of Oraville, Md., was charged with manufacture and possession of whisky following the seizure of a 100-gallon still near his farm. Two hundred gallons of mash were also confiscated.

Mrs. Mary S. Knott, 50, and Huston Greenway, 22, both of Clinton, Md., faced similar charges. A recent raid by Federal agents on a farm near the Knott homestead netted a 15-gallon still and 16 gallons of liquor.

Buckley Rejects Offer From Veterans' Group

Frank J. Buckley, special assistant corporation counsel, yesterday declined appointment as District veterans' service officer after being named by the District Commissioners. In a letter to Dr. Luther H. Reichelderfer, chairman, he explained that he desired to "obtain appointment in a legal capacity where my professional career might be advanced."

Buckley, who is leaving the corporation counsel's office August 1, was to have succeeded W. I. Snyder, who resigned because his wife also is employed by the Federal Government.
